The President's Jack Knives.
We Have Some New Planes.
And We Need Them,
Chinese, $1,000 Each.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

TWO friends, invited to the White House luncheon yesterday, found Mrs. Coolidge and the President very cheerful. No looming sad departure there, but rather cheerfulness as in a school just before vacation begins.

IT IS impossible to exaggerate the feeling of responsibility that has weighed on the President, taking over the nation at the end of a great war, with tens of billions of debts. He feels now like one about to be relieved of a heavy burden.

THE newspaper story has it that the President, asked what he thought he might do "a little whittling." That is not all of the President's plan, of which no one but himself knows anything.

BUT "whittling" is a word that takes Calvin Coolidge back to his childhood in Vermont, when the most important thing in the world was a jack knife. His costume was a two-piece affair, shirt and overalls, bare feet, in summer. The overalls had wide pockets in front, and life's darkest moment followed a somersault in a hay field and the discovery that the jack knife had fallen out.

THE Coolidge jack knives were elaborate, some of them, and fairly plentiful, for this reason: The President's father sold his country store and its contents, after elaborate trading. The buyer declared the stock in trade out of date, worthless.

IT WAS agreed that whatever the buyer could not sell within two years Mr. Coolidge would take back.

The time came and the few goods returned and put up in the Coolidge garret included hats no longer in the fashion, even in rural Vermont, and several jack knives.

Finding himself in the White House, President of the United States, was no more exciting to Calvin Coolidge grown up than knowing about those "four blade" jack knives in the garret to young Calvin in overalls.

UNCLE SAM'S fleet in the Pacific, off for winter maneuvers near Panama, will take along the greatest naval flying fleet ever assembled, 200 flying machines. Secretary Wilbur and the President, who is boss of the navy, are to be congratulated on this fact.

Not a ship in the air fleet is more than nine months old.

IT IS a comfort to know that we are building some airships. Panama would need them in case of war.

Senator Reed told the Senate the other day that if we had trouble with Britain, the Panama Canal would be wiped out, from the air, within five hours.

PROFITS have gone up in all directions. Once Chinese smuggled into this country paid $300 each to the smugglers. Now they pay $1,000 each and come in by airplane.

Five air smugglers of Chinese, and two airplanes have been seized by government agents.

IN OLD days Chinese were smuggled ashore from ships in small boats, had their hands and feet bound. If there was danger of capture the unfortunate Chinese were tossed overboard to drown.

Whether airplane smugglers would drop their contraband passengers overboard on land or water is not known.

IN 1928 foreign countries bought from us $5,129,132,000 worth of goods. We bought from them $1,639,000,000 less than we sold. A billion trade balance in our favor.

HOWEVER, we exported $391,372,000 more gold than we imported, and that is not so comforting. Strangely, gold ownership proves a nation's prosperity, as excessive whiskers once proved a doctor's importance.

HOW much a favorable trade balance really means is hard to say. The balance of trade favored France for the first time in a long while and then the French revolution broke out.

Fortunately we cannot have any revolution here with 25,000,000 automobiles, almost as many radio sets, vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, etc.

DISPATCHES from Rome announce a settlement, dragging since the days of Garibaldi, of the questions between the Pope, representing the Catholic Church, and the government of Italy.

It is reported that Italy will pay to the Pope by way of indemnity 1,000,000,000 lire, equivalent to about $52,500,000. Additional lands will be added to the Vatican possessions, including a magnificent villa and a park four miles round.

WHETHER the Popes will decide now to end their self-imposed confinement to the Vatican grounds as a protest against confiscation and annulment of temporal power has not been announced.

PROF. MEYER, the "mystic" of Hoboken, N. J., predicts all sorts of troubles for 1929.

There will be an epidemic of kidnaping in the spring.

It will be a fortunate year for females, by which he means human females, presumably.

A great fire or explosion is coming in Washington and "newspaper editors should take extra precautions for fear of great law suits."

ASTROLOGERS, "mystics," soothsayers, and prophets are compelled to predict disagreeable things, in order to attract attention.

Tell a man, "You look well," and he pays no attention. Say to him, "By your face I see that you have a cancer," you will interest him.

IF YOUR little boy isn't heavy enough to become a champion prize fighter, make him a banker.

National banks in New York City earned last year $83,662,000, paid out $55,000,000 in dividends, added $47,000,000 to surplus and profits.

DRY AIDE RESIGNS HASTILY

Joseph A. Frayne, assistant prohibition administrator here, has resigned. His resignation, while just revealed today is dated January 10.

Frayne's action, totally unexpected by the public and by most, at any rate, of the attaches of the prohibition and federal district attorney's offices here, assumed a mysterious character which Frayne's explanation—"to better myself"—failed to dispel.

The unexplained situation assumed further strange characteristics when at 2:30 o'clock, Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, who a few hours earlier had announced his chief aide's resignation "with regret," went into conference in the office of United States District Attorney John D. Meyer. Present also were Meyer's assistants, Ralph H. Smith and Joseph Richardson.

FRICTION RUMORED

Rumors about the Federal Building would not down that the conference bore on the Frayne situation.

Also there were rumors of friction in the working of the prohibition office here, friction in which was seen the true cause of the unexpected departure of Frayne, whose record has been one of promotion and who has been assistant administrator only a short while.

Both Administrator John D. Pennington and District Attorney Meyer expressed regret at the resignation of Frayne. Pennington said Frayne's leaving would be severely felt by the prohibition department. The district attorney said he was disappointed. Both gave Frayne a high rating for efficiency.

NO POLITICS SEEN

Frayne's departure, long sought by Pittsburgh bootleggers, was declared by those who should know, to have come through no "outside" or political influence.

One sample of what his enemies have attempted is illustrated by the sending, his friends report, of three detectives—including a former prohibition agent—to his home town, East Orange, N. J., to "get the dope on him."

Al these efforts failed however and Frayne himself was quoted today as declaring that he would be at the service of the government in the liquor conspiracy cases now pending, the cases which he so largely developed.

Frayne came here two years ago last November and immediately plunged into an investigation to ascertain the identity of ring leaders in the liquor rings. His work disclosed facts that decided government attorneys the time was ripe

FIGHT FOR DAUGHTER OF RUTH

International News Service.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Promising revelations concerning George Herman (Babe) Ruth after the funeral of his wife, members of Mrs. Ruth's family today prepared to battle in the courts with the "home run king" for the possession of little Dorothy Ruth.

"Never. I'll stand for almost anything but that. You can never have Dorothy—that much I'll tell you right now," the grief-stricken baseball player was quoted as telling his sister-in-law, Mrs. Joanna McCarthy.

PETITIONS PREPARED

Petitions to the courts were prepared, asking for the custody of the 8-year-old girl that Ruth has claimed was his own child, but whom others claim was adopted in Brooklyn, N. Y. Ruth's friends predicted he would reach an understanding regarding the future of Dorothy.

Meanwhile, the child played at the Academy of the Assumption, Wellesley Hills. And by a strange twist of fate her companion at play was Alice Harvey, 6-year-old daughter of the late sister of Dr. Edward H. Kinder, in whose burning Watertown home Mrs. Ruth lost her life.

The revelations were promised by Attorney William J. Woodford, of New York, a brother of the fire victim.

CLAIM "BABE" UNSUITABLE

Mrs. Ruth's stepmother, sisters and brothers were said to be ready to try and prove that the "Big Bambino" was "an unsuitable person" to have charge of the child because of his traveling eight months in the year. They were prepared to ask to be appointed administrators of Her estate.

Much depends on the status of the child. Under Massachusetts laws, if

Third Sub-Zero Wave Heads for Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Having just pulled up on the plus side of zero after two successive sub-zero experiences, the Middlewest read with resignation predictions of "snow and colder" for tonight and tomorrow. The weather bureau thought the snow might be delivered by a blizzard.

A drop to five or more below zero was predicted to accompany the snowfall, which was expected to start late today.

Temperature readings in the Chicago district early today were several degrees aboxe zero. The forecast said they might go as high as 25 above before tumbling again.

Foch, Clemenceau Reported Improving

PARIS, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The condition of Marshal Foch, it was learned on unimpeachable authority late today, is much improved and the marshal feels better and stronger this afternoon than at any time since his heart attack on Monday.

It is understood that Georges Clemenceau, wartime premier of France, suffering from the grippe, is more than holding his own, although his advanced age is a discouraging factor to be considered.

Elected

A. W. ROBERTSON

A. W. Robertson, president, Philadelphia Company of Pittsburgh, today was elected chairman of the board of directors, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

HOME WRECKED BY GAS BLAST; MAN HURT

The home of John Heuer, 50, of 2339 Webster avenue, was wrecked at noon today by an explosion attributed to leaking gas. Adjoining residences were badly damaged. Heuer was injured and sent to Passavant Hospital, burned about the face and body. Several other persons had narrow escapes from injury.

The explosion is believed to have been due to a leaking gas pipe in the rear of the house. Heuer, alone, was caught by the first blast of flame.

A. N. Roos, passing at the time, sent in an alarm. The force of the explosion blew out the front of the house, a two-story frame structure, so that it is sagging into the street.

HOME WRECKED

The interior of the dwelling was virtually wrecked.

The adjoining residence of Edward Summa, 2339½ Webster avenue, suffered heavily. Summa and his father and mother, John and Mary Summa, had narrow escapes from serious injury. Mrs. Mary Connelly, of 4404 Ridgeway street, who was about to enter the Summa home, was hurled into the street. She is suffering from shock.

PANIC IN NEIGHBORHOOD

The grocery store of F. Wintrob, 2377 Webster avenue, also was badly damaged. Windows were blown out and canned goods toppled from their shelves. So great was the force of the explosion that windows in homes some distance away were broken. The explosion created a small-sized panic in the neighborhood.

The fire which followed was slight. The damage to the Heuer home was estimated at $3,500 and that to the Summa home at $1,000.

Bishop Manning Reported Better

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, who has been ill with pneumonia since December 28, was reported to have passed the crises and to be slightly improved.

MADE HEAD OF E. & M. BOARD

A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company, today was elected chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and H. B. Rust, president of the Koppers Company, was elected a director.

The selection of two leading Pittsburgh men for dominant positions in the affairs of the Westinghouse Company greatly adds to the influence of local interests which have a large share in the company's ownership.

MELLONS HOLD INTEREST

The Koppers Company is one of the Mellon organizations. The Mellon interests also have direct representation on the Westinghouse board through W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Company. The new appointments increase the number of Pittsburgh directors to eight.

Mr. Robertson has been president of the Philadelphia Company for the past two years. He will make his office in Pittsburgh temporarily.

Previous to his election to the presidency of the Philadelphia Company he was vice president and general counsel of that organization. He has been a resident of Pittsburgh for more than 20 years and has been connected with the Philadelphia Company since 1913.

ADMITTED TO BAR

Mr. Robertson was born in Panama, N. Y., in 1880. He attended Allegheny College at Meadville, graduated in 1906, and entered the law school of the University of Pittsburgh, from which he graduated with the degree of LLB. in 1910 and

Breaks Hip Leaping From Burning Home

When Emanuel Valchey, 38, a roomer in the William Kellis home in Railroad street, East Pittsburgh, awoke today his bedroom was filled with smoke and he saw flames chasing up the stairway. He opened the bedroom window, jumped to the street 20 feet below and suffered a fractured hip.

An explosion in the kitchen was blamed for the fire, which destroyed the house with an estimated loss of $1,500.

Lindy Turns Back From Coast Flight

LAMBERT FLYING FIELD, ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16. — (INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, forced down near here, has changed his plans of flying to the west coast and will return to New York as soon as weather permits, officials of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation declared today.

Mail Plane Forced Down; Pilot Burned

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 16 — (AP.) — A mail plane bound from Toledo to Detroit was forced down east of here this afternoon. The pilot badly burned, was taken to a hospital. A second man abroad the plane was not hurt.

Central Station Opens Daily Soup Line

To unfortunates, out of work and hungry, this invitation was issued today:

"The Pittsburgh Police Force invites you and yours to partake of hot soup, bread and coffee at Central Police Station at 6 a. m. Thursday and each morning thereafter. R. S. V. P. Dress informal."

The food, Inspector James Hoey announced, has been donated by downtown merchants.

FRONT OF HOME BLASTED BY GAS

An explosion believed due to leaking gas this afternoon blasted out the front of this building, the home of John Heuer, 50, 2339 Webster avenue, and wrecked the interior. Heuer, home alone, was injured.

"PROTECT YOUR NEWSBOYS!"

Earnings of Sun-Telegraph newsboys in general are no less than those of boys handling the Pittsburgh Press.

The statement is prompted by an article in the Press insinuating that newsboys other than those handling the Press are underpaid.

In answer to the large group of news dealers who voted last Thursday to discontinue handling the Press, that newspaper says their action was caused by a request "that a fair wage be paid carrier boys who deliver the Press." It declares it is going to see that newsboys get a fair deal and adds: "You can render great help in patronizing the Pittsburgh Press newsboy on your street who from now on is going to make a fair profit on the sale of his papers."

The implication is, of course, that Sun-Telegraph newsboys do not receive a fair profit, or are underpaid.

Newsboys who buy papers to sell on the street pay exactly the same wholesale price for the Press as for the Sun-Telegraph.

Newsboys who deliver papers to subscribers are paid by the newsdealers in charge of the routes. In answer to an inquiry as to how the wages of boys delivering the Sun-Telegraph compare with those of boys delivering the Press, John R. Noble, well-informed newsdealer, said today: "The Sun-Telegraph boys are paid just as well as the Press boys."

It was pointed out that if Sun-Telegraph boys were paid lower wages they would go over to the Press, whereas the fact is that not a few Press boys have given up employment with that paper and taken positions delivering the Sun-Telegraph.

A statement bearing out the assertion was published Monday in the Homestead Messenger over the signatures of the Heath News Agency of Homestead, James Nelson, news dealer of Mifflin township, and the Johns News Depot of West Homestead. In part they said:

"As we warned, propaganda is now being distributed by the Press, saying news dealers have been mistreating their boys and that this is the reason the Press had taken the action it has—to better protect the boys.

"Nothing could be more ridiculous. Not one of these 'mistreated' boys has left his post. In fact, old newsboys, not connected with us for years, have come back and asked to help us win out. As a matter of fact, more boys have quit the Press organization in the last three days than have quit us in all the years we have been in business.

"The Press made the demand that boys be secured by agents to handle their paper alone. Naturally the boys could not make sufficient money to justify this, and it would not be fair to the other newspapers."

The people of Pittsburgh should know they can "Protect the Newsboys" by buying the Sun-Telegraph just as well as by purchasing any other newspaper.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SALES SHOW GREAT INCREASE

A remarkable change in the Pittsburgh newspaper situation is shown in news dealers' reports of the last week. The circulation of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has soared to a point at which, in many a community, it practically monopolizes the evening and Sunday fields.

The gains have been made throughout the Pittsburgh district. Down the Ohio Valley, up the Allegheny, up the Monongahela, in Westmoreland County, in Beaver County, in Washington County, as well as in Allegheny County, the story is the same.

CIRCULATION SOARS

Since Thursday, January 10, when a large group of news dealers voted to discontinue handling the Pittsburgh Press, the number of Pitts-

PANIC ON MAJESTIC; CABINS TORN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Panic-stricken women and children trapped in flooded cabins, members of the crew swimming for their lives in their quarters, one man killed, steel booms and hatch covers twisted as though they were matches.

These scenes, recalling the Vestris disaster, were revealed today as the giant White Star Majestic came into port 12 hours late.

They occurred Monday afternoon in mid-Atlantic when a monster wave, rearing high above the largest British steamship, fell on her, sending thousands and thousands of tons of water over her decks and into the third class and crew quarters.

COOK PERISHES

The pumps were still working today when the Majestic docked with her 1,171 passengers and crew of 1,199. There were 1,200 members of the crew when she sailed from Southampton on January 9, but one perished as the giant wave struck. He was Leonardo Fioroni, third class cook.

The rushing water swept him against a steel door, breaking his neck.

The wave struck about 2:40 p. m., at the time most of the 46 children in the third class were taking naps with their mothers sitting in the staterooms with them. There were 96 women and 148 men in third class.

WAVE HITS SUDDENLY

The Majestic was making good time when the wave suddenly appeared. It rose high above the

President's Wife's Mother Has Relapse

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother-in-law of President Coolidge, caused anxiety today. She has been at the Dickinson Hospital since December, 1927. Dr. J. E. Haywes yesterday revealed that his patient had not been so well for two days. Mrs. Coolidge was not summoned to her mother's bedside, however. John Coolidge motored from New Haven, Conn., last Sunday to see his grandmother.

Dog Bites Delmont Burgess, 12 Others

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Burgess C. K. Shuster, of Delmont, and 12 other persons, mostly children, in Export, Delmont and White Valley, were bitten by a dog believed to have been mad. It became known today. All are being given Pasteur treatment by physicians. The animal was shot by Morris Kunkle, of Export, and its head sent to Philadelphia for examination.

Douglass, Property Assessor, Collapses

George H. Douglass, of 424 Pressley street, North Side, member of the city board of property assessors, collapsed in his office in the City-County Building this afternoon. Douglass was carried to the emergency room of the department of health where physicians diagnosed his case as acute indigestion.

COLD WAVE MODERATING; MT. LEBANON ONE BELOW

Slow moderation of the cold wave with likelihood of snow, rain or sleet tomorrow was predicted today by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

The mercury fell to six above zero at the weather bureau at 6 a. m. today. Mt. Lebanon reported one below, Ingram two below and Coraopolis three below. Skyscrapers, radiating warmth, kept the temperature above zero in the official thermometer in the Henry W. Oliver Building, Brotzman said.

Rain or sleet was falling today over a vast area in the Southwest, reports showed, and this belt was moving toward this district. While temperatures remain low in the Northwest there was no indication today of another cold wave here, Brotzman said.

The thermometer will rise slowly throughout today and temperatures will range between 15 and 20 tonight. The rise likely will continue during the night.

BATTLE TO REPEAL BLUE LAW OPENS IN LEGISLATURE

25 ORDERED ARRESTED IN RUM QUIZ

Bench warrants will be issued today for the arrest of 25, including police officers, alleged racketeers and others named in the five indictments handed down Tuesday by the federal grand jury, charging existence of conspiracies in five North Side wards to violate the national prohibition law. The warrants will be served by deputy United States marshals.

Government officers anticipate no trouble in rounding up the defendants. With the exception of two, all are under bonds as defendants in the city-wide conspiracy indictment handed down last June, and the same 23 were defendants at the November trial of the so-called North Side conspiracy case.

The latter trial resulting in an acquittal when Judge R. M. Gibson ruled that the government had failed to establish a general conspiracy among all the defendants.

NEW DEFENDANTS

The two new defendants are Jack Laquarta and "Bipp" Baer, named in the Twenty-first and Twenty-third Ward's indictments, respectively. The only politician of prominence among those indicted was John J. O'Donnell, Republican chairman of the Twenty-second Ward. The grand jury ignored the charges against William A. Herd, Republican chairman of the Twenty-first Ward, and Justus Schroedel, Republican chairman of the Twenty-fourth Ward.

The highest ranking police officer caught in the grand jury dragnet was Inspector Charles Faulkner. The former North Side indictment had 73 named as defendants, among them State Assemlyman Samuel J. Grenet, who was acquitted in the trial, and who was not named in Tuesday's grand jury returns.

SEE SPECIAL TERM TRIALS

Although no official statements have been made it is believed that trials in some North Side cases will be held at the special term of court in February.

Bench warrants were issued Tuesday for the arrest of the defendants named in the Union Fishing Club indictment and for the 12 men, including Police Magistrate John W. Orie, charged in indictments with evading payment of income taxes.

Jury Finds Man Dead, Won't Stay That Way

BIG TIMBER, Mont., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—James Claud Price, Big Timber barber-salesman, has been legally restored to status of the living by the verdict of a coroner's jury that bones, identified and buried as those of Price last month, were the skeleton of an unknown person who met death by unknown means.

The same jury, on December 24, declared Price dead, the victim of a fire in a cabin on a homestead 25 miles southeast of here, formerly owned by Price's wife.

Price, however, turned up in Salt Lake City. He carried $10,000 life insurance and $4,600 of this amount, which had been paid by his widow, has been returned by her.

$275,000 Fire Razes Nashville Building

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Fire discovered in a basement store room of the Harding Court apartments and believed quelled, broke out an hour later to destroy the four-story West End structure, with a loss estimated at $375,000. Flames spread across Thirty-second avenue to the roof of another apartment house, but were brought under control. Three persons were rescued by firemen.

To Wed

HELEN WILLS

BROKER TO WED HELEN WILLS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—Famous rivals in tennis, Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen, figured in reports of "love set" matches here today. Miss Wills, American champion, was vanquished by Dan Cupid.

Mlle. Lenglen, the temperamental French champion, was reported unconquered after it had seemed certain she was succumbing.

Confirming rumors that had long been current, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Wills, parents of Helen, announced her engagement to Frederick S. Moody, Jr., wealthy broker, son of a San Francisco capitalist. The marriage, it was said, probably will take place in 1930, after Miss Wills has completed her senior year at the University of California. Whether she would continue tennis championship play seems undecided.

The rumor in regard to Mlle. Lenglen had its origin in the fact that she and her mother have left the home of Mrs. Anita Baldwin, whom they have been visiting. Efforts to find the Lenglens were unsuccessful.

Suzanne and Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of Mrs. Anita Baldwin, were reported to be greatly attached to one another. He is married, but has been separated from his wife for nearly three years.

POLICE FREED IN RUM CASE

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner's investigation of the alleged North Side booze ring lost strength today when Alderman Thomas D. Jones discharged Police Lieut. John J. Callaghan, and Fred Stratman, charged with conspiracy to violate the Snyder Act.

Gardner's assistant, Attorney F. P. Langfitt, moved that the defendants be discharged for lack of evidence, and his next move was to file information against the only witness, Vincent Zedler, saloonkeeper, of 544 East Ohio street, charging perjury and violation of the Snyder act.

At the hearing Zedler said he was unable to identify Callaghan, but Langfitt charged that before the grand jury Zedler had told of seeing Callaghan and had quoted him.

Zedler said this before the grand jury, Langfitt charged:

"Callaghan came to me and told me to stick with Stratman, who sold me whisky."

At today's hearing this was Zedler's testimony:

"Stratman came to me and told me to stick with Gallaghan."

George F. Connelly, charged with operating a lottery, waived hearing and posted $1,000 bond for court trial.

Stratman had been indicted on a separate charge of violating the Snyder Act, a charge he must answer in Criminal Court.

SUSPECT'S PLEA TO JAWORSKI SPURNED

"I was not in it. I didn't do the job. I've nothing to say."

That was the answer Paul Jaworski, condemned "Flathead" gangster and jail breaker, made in Allegheny County jail today to an attempt to have him make a deposition taking the blame for a murder for which Frank Wallace is held in Wayne County jail, Michigan.

Wallace, it is understood, claims that the crime was committed by Jaworski.

REFUSES—BACK TO CELL

Jaworski refused to accept blame for the Detroit killing when he was brought into the jail corridor under heavy guard. Seeking the deposition, which might clear his client, was Albert Doyle, counsel for Wallace. Others in the party were Attorney Sydney Frankenstein, named by Judge A. B. Reid to take the deposition; Barney Cohen, Jaworski's attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Park. The interview lasted scarcely a minute.

Jaworski refused to admit anything and was led back to his cell. Previous to this interview he had denied to Cohen that he had any part in the Detroit murder. He said that after he was shot in Cleveland he thought he was dying and was willing to admit to anything then.

Jaworski also denied that he had ever killed a man previous to his escape from the county jail and the killing of the Cleveland policeman. Cohen says he did not deny he had a part in the Gump holdup, but denied that he was the man who fired the shot which killed Gump. Cohen says his client has lost much of his assurance and appears to be wilting. Jaworski, he says, refused to see a priest.

LAWYER STOPS FIGHT

Following the interview, Cohen said he did not intend to make any further efforts to stay Jaworski's execution. The attorney said he believed that Jaworski would be taken to Rockview Saturday.

Jaworski received the news that he is to be executed Monday indifferently, jail attaches said today. He seemed to have an untroubled night, it was said, dropping off to sleep after finishing a magazine he was reading.

He took his attention away from the magazine only long enough to hear from Warden John McNeil that his sister's attempt to have a sanity commission appointed had failed before the State Board of Pardons. The appeal was pushed by Mrs. Katherine L. Logan, of Detroit, Mich., Jaworski's sister.

KILLED PAYROLL GUARD

The "mob" leader was convicted of killing I. L. Gump, payroll guard of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, during a robbery at Mollenauer, Christmas Eve, 1925.

Unless Gov. John Fisher intervenes, Jaworski will be removed to the Rockview Prison at Bellefonte Saturday.

Northcott Asks Right to Quiz Witnesses

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Whether or not Gordon Stewart Northcott, accused of slaying three youths on his chicken ranch, will be allowed to cross-examine witnesses will be decided here today. Two of his three attorneys have stated they will withdraw from the case.

At the conclusion of the examination of Sanford Clark, Northcott's nephew and star witness for the state, Northcott leaped to his feet shouting:

"I demand the right to cross-examine this witness myself. His story is a pack of lies. My life is at stake and I should be granted the privilege of questioning him."

RUTH TO FIGHT FOR DAUGHTER

Dorothy is the legal child of the "Babe" and Mrs. Ruth she is entitled to two-thirds of her mother's estate. If she has been legally adopted the same holds true. However, if there was no proof of adoption, then the "Babe" could only claim $5,000 and the remainder of the estate would be divided among members of Mrs. Ruth's family and the child.

Contents of a box of jewelry and papers taken by the Watertown police from the Kinder house assumed importance.

FOUL-PLAY IDEA FADES

Suggestions that Mrs. Ruth met death as the result of foul play faded today. Reports of a wound in front of her scalp were denied by physicians who examined the body. Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath had completed the second autopsy and was understood to have found no trace of violence, poison or drugs.

A double check on the cause of the fire in Dr. Kinder's home indorsed the report of Fire Inspector Everett W. Shumway that the fire started from an "overloaded" electric wire.

Members of Mrs. Ruth's family, announced today they had resigned themselves to abide by the findings of Dr. Magrath.

READY FOR FUNERAL

For a third time the body of the unfortunate woman will be placed in a casket selected by Ruth.

Arrangements were completed for one of the largest details of police ever assigned to a funeral in this city. Because of the intense interest, and the wide sympathy shown to Ruth by the public, Supt. Crowley expected a record-breaking turnout.

Bowed by grief, the "Big Boy" of baseball issued a general denial of many stories in circulation: That he knew Dr. Kinder; that he knew Mrs. Ruth was at the Kinder home; that he was seeking a divorce; that he was planning to marry a Georgia girl. Dr. Kinder also denied knowing Ruth.

The "Babe's" great consolation in his long days in his hotel room waiting for the completion of the investigation of his wife's death was the deep sympathy of the public.

A. W. ROBERTSON NAMED WESTINGHOUSE CHAIRMAN

was admitted to the bar. After several years of general law practice he became attorney for the Pittsburgh Railways Company and Duquesne Light Company in 1913. In 1918 he was made general attorney for the Philadelphia Company and affiliated corporations. In 1923 he was elected vice president.

Paul D. Cravath, who has been serving as acting chairman pending the election of a permanent chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, made the following announcement:

"The board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at its meeting this morning unanimously elected A. W. Robertson, of Pittsburgh, as chairman of the board of directors."

TO DROP OTHER ACTIVITIES

At the offices of the Westinghouse company here it was stated that Mr. Robertson would withdraw from his other activities and devote his entire time to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

His offices will be in East Pittsburgh temporarily.

Mr. Robertson succeeds the late Guy E. Tripp as chairman.

AT NEW YORK MEETING

Mr. Robertson was in New York today attending the directors' meeting.

He is a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce and the following clubs: Civic Club of Allegheny County, South Hills Country Club, University Club, Duquesne Club and Phi Beta Theta fraternity.

In addition to his activities as president and director of the numerous subsidiary organizations of the Philadelphia Company, Mr. Robertson is a director of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, the Potter Title and Trust Company and the Travelers' Aid Society.

"BEST WISHES"

The executive committee of the Philadelphia Company issued the following statement:

"Mr. Robertson is leaving our organization with our entire good will and our sincere wish for the greatest of success as chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

"His long association with the Pittsburgh utilities has been most valuable in the upbuilding of these great properties, and their management regrets to lose him, but are glad that the opportunity now presented for the wider exercise of his ability will not take him away from the city with which he has been so closely identified.

"As president of the Pittsburgh utilities Mr. Robertson has filled a position of great responsibility, and he will go to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company splendidly equipped for new achievements in the career of one of Pittsburgh's foremost industrial enterprises.

"The successor to Mr. Robertson will be elected at a meeting to be held in the near future.

FRAYNE QUITS DRY POST

AIDED KING CRUSADE

He was regarded as the power behind the investigation and named those upon whom subpenas were served to appear as witnesses. His first work here was to pick up the ragged edges of the Citizens' League crusade, which had been started by William L. King, the league's secretary, who disappeared while the cases were pending.

Frayne from 1914 until 1922 was an officer in the United States Navy, assigned to criminal investigation. During the World War he was assigned to duty with the British Navy and was disabled during a German submarine attack on H. M. S. Minnekahda, which injuries caused his retirement from the Navy in 1922. He became attached to the Veterans Bureau and later was with the intelligence unit of the Treasury Department. While the rum probe was on he qualified under civil service for a permanent position in the prohibition force.

Afghan Abdication Fails to End Revolt

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Mail says today it learns from authoritative circles in London that the abdication of King Amanullah has in no wise ended the revolt in Afghanistan.

EMBRYO FLIERS AWAIT TEST

Fifty Pittsburgh student pilots will take their examination for private and commercial licenses this week if weather permits.

Since Saturday many of them have hung about Bettis, Mayer and Rodgers fields, waiting for weather clear and warm enough to go up and show a Department of Commerce inspector what they can do.

Consolidated reports from Pittsburgh's four fields, Bettis, at McKeesport; Mayer, at Bridgeville; Rodgers, at Aspinwall, and Gardner, on Babcock boulevard, show 75 students took flying training in the summer and fall. Only a small percentage have kept up flying through the winter.

All fields here already are making plans for a busy season in the summer. It is expected 100 students will take to the air in April and May. More than that number are now attending winter ground school courses.

MILLS MAY GET MELLON POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The political and patronage situation in New York state, which is giving President-elect Herbert Hoover concern, was canvassed at today's conferences held by Mr. Hoover at his home with Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman for the Empire State, and Ogden Mills, under-secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Hoover first talked with Mr. Mills, whose home is in New York City, and Mr. Hilles was called in later for an extended conference.

From circles close to the President-elect the information has come that Mr. Mills probably will succeed Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury when the veteran Pennsylvanian retires after perhaps two years more of service.

Cabinet and other appointments were discussed with Mr. Hoover by Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who said he made no recommendations but did supply the President-elect with a list of Pennsylvanians now in public service and a list of those deemed available for service.

FOES START TWO-SIDED ATTACK

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—The drive to modify the Sunday blue laws today was under way with an intensity of purpose unequaled since the days when Boies Penrose dominated the political situation in Pennsylvania.

The campaign, according to developments today will proceed along two lines.

One group, represented by such members as M. A. Musmanno, of Pittsburgh; Paris E. Eaches, of Reading, and William H. Voltz, of Philadelphia, are attempting to repeal or modify the present drastic laws.

AIR-TIGHT LID SUGGESTED

Another group, feeling that the best way to beat a bad bill is to enforce it to the limit, is expected to introduce drastic legislation that will provide heavy penalties for everyone who violates the antique blue statutes—in other words, they would penalize the engineer who drives a train in Pennsylvania on Sunday, the passenger who rides, the minister who rides in a car driven by a paid chauffeur, the drug store which sells medicine, the newsboy who sells a Sunday paper, the organist who is paid to play in a church, the man who plays a round of golf at his country club, the maid who cooks a meal on Sunday and is paid, the taxicab driver who accepts a fee for taking a passenger on the Sabbath, the public utility employe who goes out to repair a telephone connection or gas pipe, the reporter who gets a story for the Monday paper, and, according to a bill that is being drawn, the radio broadcasting station that sends out anything but church services on Sunday.

THREE BILLS GO IN

Three bills reached the House today, two of them submitted by Musmanno and Voltz, providing for referendums on movies and concerts and amateur games on Sunday.

The Eaches bill asks a repeal of the obsolete "blue" laws.

Members of the Lord's Day Alliance and other organizations opposing what they term the "Continental Sabath," were on hand today to oppose any modification attempts.

According to reports reaching here, the three bills introduced today are scheduled to be lost in the shuffle. In their place there will be introduced a bill seeking a "middle ground" that would permit events not interfering in any way with church services. Many rural members, disgusted because their sons are prevented from playing baseball Sunday afternoon while, across the road, the sons of rich men play golf unmolested, may be found to support this bill.

Even the lobbyists for the Lord's Day Alliance are to be found opposing any bill that would block trains, paid organists, newsdealers, taxicabs, hotels and practically all activities on the Sabbath.

BALLOT FRAUD TRIAL DELAYED

Trial of the East Deer Township election fraud case, scheduled for today, was postponed until Monday to give the jury a full week in which to hear more than 100 witnesses subpenaed.

The defendants are Justice of the Peace John J. Gill, his wife, Della; Gustave Patz and his wife, Pauline.

They are charged with conspiracy, it being alleged they altered upwards of 60 citizens' ballots of the November election, 1927, and then petitioned the returning board for a recount which resulted in the altered ballots being thrown out.

Lock tenders hope by tonight to get the wickets lowered so this pack will move out before more ice comes down stream to build a gorge. Above is the solid pack.

LONDON TWIN DOCTORS END LIVES IN POVERTY

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Twin brothers, who had been inseparable in their preparation for their profession of physicians, and who already had won recognition by their studies of cancer, were found dead, with a message pinned to the door of their flat reading: "Life is not worth living."

They were Dr. Arthur B. Smith and Dr. Sydney McKendrick Smith, the sons of an Edinburgh practitioner. They were 29 years old.

The note pinned to the door was addressed to the nation and read in full: "We have given our lives to cancer research. We have reduced ourselves to a state of poverty. Life is not worth living." In the room were found two letters addressed to the coroner and the police. The young men had died from razor cuts in their throats although one of them had apparently also taken poison.

The scene when the police broke into their service flat on Harley street, in the fashionable West End bore every indication of a double murder until the letters were found.

Friends in Edinburgh expressed the utmost astonishment at the act of the brothers. It was thought that they would have had brilliant careers and no one had imagined that they were suffering from poverty. They were members of various medical societies and had written and published joint papers on their researches including a book on cancer. They had been educated together and had attended medical schools in Paris, Stockholm and Brussels. They were associated in practice.

COUNTY RAZING BIDS OPENED

The contract for razing the buildings on the block bounded by Diamond and Ross streets, Fourth avenue and the Pennsylvania Railroad, will be awarded shortly, preparatory to a start on the erection of the new county office building. Nine contractors submitted bids for the razing, which were opened today by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and referred for tabulation. The bids varied widely, all asking payment for demolition of the buildings. The county morgue, the old South School Building, and the Curry Building, were included in separate bids.

Auto Driver Held In Woman's Death

Fred M. Yaggi, of 227 Stewart street, was held for the action of the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury this morning. Yaggi's auto is said to have struck Mrs. Sarah Heltenbran, 66, 7514 Kelly street, as she was returning home from the Glory Barn on December 30. The woman, it was said, was hurrying across the street to get a street car when she was struck by Yaggi's automobile. She died December 31 in South Side Hospital as the result of shock and injuries received.

Burns From Grate Kill Woman, 57

Mrs. Flora Stroup, 57, of 1320 Jeffers street, died at her home this morning as the result of burns received there last Saturday. According to the report to the coroner's office, Mrs. Stroup's clothing caught fire at an open grate.

Child Is Attacked By "Huskies" In Race

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Eskimo dog team driven by Edward P. Clark, of Lincoln, had a commanding lead in the Berlin-to-Boston 200-mile dog sled race when the second lap was finished here last night. The time for Clark's team over yesterday's 45-mile run from Twin Mountain was six hours 32 minutes. The runnerup, Alexander Doucette's team, of Peterboro, finished in 7 hours 47 minutes.

As Clark's team passed through Livermore Falls, two miles out of this town, his dogs became unmanageable and chased a group of children. Wayland Wilford, 5 years old, fell and the dogs leaped upon him. The boy was bitten about the legs and had a slight facial wound. He was brought to a hospital here for treatment and later sent home.

KING IMPROVES, FAMILY WELL

LONDON, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—With Queen Mary and Prince George almost fully recovered from the colds which have kept them confined to their rooms during the last few days, King George continued to make slow progress today.

The Buckingham Palace spokesman informed International News Service this morning that the King had a quiet night, sleeping several hours.

The Queen was also considerably improved, it was said. She left bed for a short time yesterday. Prince George has not yet left his rooms, but both he and the Queen may leave the palace for a short time today if weather conditions permit.

HOOVER DELAYS CUBAN TRIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The capacity of President-elect Hoover for high pressure work rarely has been more clearly demonstrated than during the period since his return from his good will tour of Latin America.

With but a single break over last Sunday he has held conferences from early morning until well into the night, receiving recommendations, advice and suggestions on an almost boundless range of political, governmental, legislative and diplomatic questions.

Following his usual custom of applying himself to the job at hand, the President-elect has decided to continue his conferences here during the remainder of this week instead of leaving for Florida tomorrow, as he had planned some days ago.

This means that he will not be able to find the time to make the contemplated tour of the West Indies before his inauguration, as he still has his inaugural address to prepare and other business.

For today the President-elect had one of the largest engagement lists of any day since his return to Washington.

Art Willed Museum By Mrs. Havemeyer

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—The Metropolitan Museum of Art is bequeathed an art collection valued at several million dollars and including works of Rembrandt, Monet, Degas, Corot, El Greco, Goya and Millet, by the will of Mrs. Louisine W. Havemeyer, filed yesterday.

Mrs. Havemeyer was the widow of Henry O. Havemeyer, one of the founders and president of the American Sugar Refining Company.

FEDERAL COURT SHIFT URGED FOR DRY LAW

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A complete revision of the federal judiciary machinery will be necessary before prohibition enforcement can be effective.

Revamping the court structure would necessarily mean the creation of a lower tribunal, much in the nature of the ordinary police court, which could dispose of minor dry cases.

HOOVER WITNESS

These statements were given to the International News Service today by an expert on prohibition affairs who undoubtedly will be one of the important witnesses before the committee to investigate enforcement, expected to be appointed by President-elect Hoover.

"There are 21,000 dry cases pending before the federal courts today," this authority declared. "About two-thirds of them are cases which under state or municipal laws would go before a police court or justice of the peace.

COURTS CLOGGED

"The courts are so clogged with these actions, frequently ending with fines of not more than $10, that it is some times two years before prohibition matters may complete their course through the tangled judicial lanes."

Congressional provision for a junior court before which the minor cases might be taken and tried with the dispatch of municipal police courts, soon would put the federal authorities in a position to bring about expeditious trial of important major cases, he believes.

SLEUTHS TRAIL GUNMAN

Detectives today were redoubling efforts to locate a man for whom an information charging larceny has been sworn as the gunman who early yesterday shot Peter Bubanovich, 33, of 3324 Sewickley road, while he was placing his car in his garage in the rear of his home.

Working on a tip they have received, detectives said they were positive of the identity of the man wanted in the shooting. Bubanovich is in the Presbyterian Hospital with a bullet wound in his body.

Bubanovich, who has a saloon on California avenue, was slated to appear as a witness before the government's rum probing grand jury yesterday. It was thought he had been shot by persons afraid of the testimony he might offer.

FRIEND AND FOE DEBATE DRY LAW ON 9TH BIRTHDAY

Today is the ninth anniversary of constitutional prohibition. The International News Service asked Senator William Cabell Bruce, Democrat, of Maryland, one of the outstanding foes of prohibition, and Senator Morris Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, one of the authors of the Eighteenth Amendment, to express their views on this great question nine years "after."

By SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD,

Recognized Dry Leader of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The ninth anniversary of the inauguration of national prohibition finds this great moral cause here to stay.

Senator Sheppard.

The American people, looking back upon conditions as they were nine years ago, are convinced prohibition has brought great advances in social conditions, economic standards and in the public health of the country.

As for enforcement, the government has on the whole won an ever-growing success. The flood of whisky released from government warehouses by thefts, forgeries and frauds has been stopped.

Rum row has been driven from the seas. Smuggling has been reduced to a mere trickle, where once it flowed like a river. The illegal diversion of industrial alcohol has been reduced to a minimum. All these activities of the law violators have been hamstrung and the supply of real liquor has largely been shut off from the bootleggers.

The intoxicants sold today are almost entirely synthetic or moonshine. The government is slowly strangling this illicit business. These are the accomplishments of prohibition.

But greater than all is the trend of public opinion toward temperance. The American people are being educated up to this great moral cause—temperance is winning with the citizens of our republic.

ENFORCEMENT BETTER

Enforcement is a reality, steadily improving with each passing year. The cause of temperance has gone forward and the nation is on the eve of even greater success in this great moral movement.

It is generally conceded by those most concerned about the successful enforcement of prohibition and by those who are striving to make the success even greater, that the law is better enforced today than at any time since its passage. It is useless to make comparisons between the number of violations detected, because conditions change each year and enforcement steadily grows stronger.

PROGRESS DESCRIBED

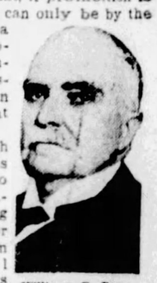
The progress made in these nine years is remarkable. Let us recount the achievements of prohibition.

It has driven the corner saloon out of business, except in a very few isolated instances. It has halted the squandering of their wages by millions of employes. It has brought improved social conditions to millions of homes. It has improved economic conditions all over the nation. This alone would justify this tremendous moral experiment.

By WILLIAM CABELL BRUCE

Outstanding Wet Leader in the Senate. (Written Exclusively for International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Prohibition experimentation has been prolonged enough to warrant the conclusion that, if prohibition is ever enforced, it can only be by the adoption of a much more elaborate and highly organized system of repression than the present one.



William C. Bruce.

To establish this fact, it is not necessary to cite police statistics showing that arrests for drunkenness in the principal cities and towns of the United States, have steadily mounted up since 1920, the first full year of prohibition. These statistics have for some time been assembled and brought to the attention of the public in the annual reports of the Moderation League. Nor is it necessary for us to bring forward anew the statistical evidence proving that deaths from alcoholic insanity, and prosecutions for violations of the Volstead Act, also have appallingly increased since 1920.

BREEDS CRIME

Nor need we mention the ever-recurring illustrations of the lawlessness, social demoralization and official corruption bred by prohibition, with which the press teems from day to day.

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt has just told us that the amount of liquor smuggled from Canada into this country has increased 75 per cent; and but a day ago Mr. Whalen, the new police commissioner of New York, was reported as fixing the number of speak-easies in the five boroughs of that city at 20,000.

COMPLETE FAILURE

To demonstrate what a failure prohibition enforcement has been we need only to point to the present feverish activities, nine years after the enactment of the Volstead act, of the Anti-Saloon League and all its allied associations, and the fanatical enforcement measures which they are promoting or defending, such as the classification of infractions of the Volstead act, including purchase of liquor, attended by the incident of transportation, as felonies, and the insane Michigan law, based on a similar perversion of all rational ideas of punishment, which is already responsible for the imprisonment for life of a man and a woman.

TERRIFIC COST

I might mention also the additional appropriation of $25,000,000 which the Anti-Saloon League is now seeking from Congress for prohibition enforcement, and its suggestion that the powers of the Federal commissioners should be enlarged sufficiently to make them effective auxiliaries of the Federal courts in prohibition cases.

'I'M THE GUY' WISE CRACKS WIN DAILY MONEY PRIZES

I'M THE GUY put in a big day yesterday and sat up most of the night going through the batch of letters from the clever folk of Pittsburgh who are wise cracking at his safe. And, as a result of his first day's hard work in some time, he has picked the following winners:

THE FIVE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

"I'M THE GUY who put the Bum in the Family Album," won by Sidney Abrams, 508 Kirkpatrick street.

Abrams, 19, is a clerk in a downtown real estate office. He was educated at Schenley High School.

"This is the first time I ever won a prize," Abrams said, "and there was more than $5 worth of fun in doing it."

THE $1 WINNERS

"I'M THE GUY who put the Rebel in Rebellion." Won by Miss Lucy Kropf, Commonwealth Building.

"I'M THE GUY who put Tones in Stones, ev- though they each had One in them already." Won by John Cusick, 7110 Williard street.

"I'M THE GUY who put age in Dowager." Won by W. M Mapier, 3239 Dobson street, Pittsburgh.

"I'M THE GUY who furnished the Barn for Barney Google." Won by Miss Dolores Engstler, 418 St. Joseph street.

"I'M THE GUY who put the 'Ille' in Chicago." Won by J. C. Ainor, 766 Mary street, McKees Rocks.

"Every day I pay and pay," chuckled I'M THE GUY as he looked over the letters from his Pittsburgh friends. "It's as much fun for me to write checks as it is for you folks to write clever lines."

For any of those who turned in late, as the radio announcer says, I'M THE GUY is in town awarding cash prizes through his favorite newspaper, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, for clever lines built around his name. The prize-winning lines announced above are models of just what he means. Of course, you may vary the lines to fit your idea. Here are a few more examples:

"I'M THE GUY who put the TIN in PLATINUM."

"I'M THE GUY who seated PAT after LEO with CLEOPATRA."

"I'M THE GUY who put DAN with the LIONS IN DANDELIONS."

Each day the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph awards a first prize of $5 for the best line and five $1 prizes for the next best lines. Don't send in chestnuts; keep them original. Good luck.

Girl Pilot's Neck Broken in Crash

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—A young woman student pilot was seriously injured when her plane crashed 35 feet to the ground in a field south of Hicksville, five miles from here, after striking several high tension wires. Miss Clarissa Copper, 21, of New York city, was removed from the wrecked plane and taken to the Mineola Hospital. Physicians learned her neck was broken.

State Labor Chief Pushes Safety Drive

The state-wide safety campaign sponsored by Secretary Charles A. Waters, of the State Department of Labor and Industry, is gaining impetus in Western Pennsylvania, according to announcement made today at a meeting of the National Safety Council in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters. A. P. Huckestein, inspector of the State Department, said virtually all the important employers in this district had promised to stress safety in year's work.

$40,000 Fire Razes Carrolltown Garage

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 16.—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed the Main street garage and a large frame dwelling in Carrolltown, both owned by Clark J. Thomas. The loss was about $40,000. Ten automobiles stored in the garage were destroyed. Volunteer firemen from Carrolltown, Spangler and Patton fought the blaze in the sub-zero temperature. Emil Buck, a local fireman, suffered head injuries as the result of being struck by a falling brick when the garage wall collapsed.

BELLEVUE AIDS NEWS DEALERS

Bellevue news dealers who recently decided to discontinue handling the Pittsburgh Press were upheld in their stand by the Bellevue Board of Trade at a meeting in the borough hall last night.

The Board of Trade indorsed the report of the business men's committee which, at a meeting in the afternoon, had adopted resolutions pledging support to the dealers who sell no other Pittsburgh evening paper but the Sun-Telegraph.

The resolutions set forth that the business men were convinced of the justice of the news dealers' position in their controversy with the Press and approved their action. The members of the committee promised to assist by word-of-mouth advertising the Bellevue news dealers who handle the Sun-Telegraph.

Joseph O. Young, chairman of the committee, said the spirit of the community was strongly in favor of the news dealers who have broken with the Press.

promenade deck, the highest deck on the ship, then struck with a roar.

Tons of water rushed into the third class, causing the casements to collapse an dthe steel beams to bulge. As the steel side walls were crushed in, they cut off the exits from the staterooms.

The water swept into these cabins, where women and children were trapped.

Unable to learn what had occurred, the third-class passengers became panic-stricken. Woman and children screamed while the men fought desperately to wrench open the cabin doors.

In the midst of all the hubbub, members of the crew arrived with axes. They cut their way through the stateroom and rescued the passengers, many of whom were standing shoulder deep in water.

One woman fainted. When the axes chopped an exit for her she was found in a coma, while her child, perched on the top bunk, was holding her head above water.

Down in the crew's quarters conditions were far worse.

Eight men asleep when the wave hit, were rolled from their bunks. The eight men swam around in the darkness for an hour until others cut through to them with axes and acetylene torches.

FRICK WOODS PLAYGROUND WORK CONTRACT AWARDED

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, today awarded M. O'Herron Company a contract for the grading and sewering of a playground in Frick Woods, Braddock avenue and Forbes street, on a bid of $9,885. The playground occupies land approximately the size of three city blocks.

Lang said he expected to invite bids late this week for the grading and sewering another playground area equalling the size of two city blocks in Frick Woods, at the Reynolds street frontage.

The director plans considerable improvements in Frick Woods this year, as it will be the first year the city will get the interest on the $2,000,000 fund created by the will of the late H. C. Frick for conditioning the site. The interest was previously applied by executors of the estate to buy land for extensions to Frick Woods, and as a result the site has been increased from the original 155 acres to 368 acres.

'Y' APPEAL FUND NOW $33,510

John E. Manley, metropolitan secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, and Charles P. Wuerenberger will address today's report meeting of workers in the campaign for $435,000, the annual budget of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh. The meeting will be held in the Central branch of the Y. W. C. A. at 59 Chatham street, and the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, will ask the invocation.

The work of the association was described as a "most constructive endeavor" by Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity Cathedral, at yesterday's meeting, at which teams reported additional subscriptions totaling $15,351.60, sending the grand total to $33,510.40.

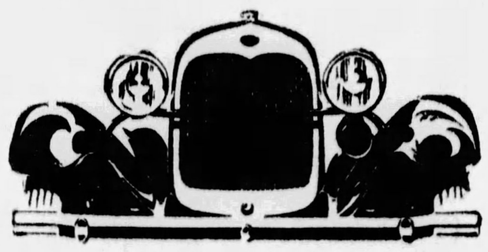
Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford



A COMPLETE water plant is a part of every automobile as it is a part of every modern city.

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would overheat and the pistons would refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the action of the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large and there are four rows of tubes, set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air.

The fan is of the airplane-propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of 850 cubic feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full of water, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

As owner and manager of this important water plant, you should also see that the water pump and fan shaft are properly lubricated and the packing around the pump shaft kept in adjustment.

The hose connections may also need replacement after long, continuous service. For those little adjustments, it pays to call on the Ford dealer.

He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to do a competent job at a fair price.

Influenza

—kill the germs in nose and throat

COMMON COLDS are the first sign that deadly germs are at work weakening the body's resistance to influenza and more serious respiratory diseases. The most effective protection is to prevent a cold or sore throat from starting by killing the germs in the nose and throat.

To keep the nasal passages free from dangerous infection, proceed according to these directions. Spray the nose and throat night and morning with ZONITE—1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to a glass of water. Hold the head well back and continue spraying until you can feel the liquid dripping into the post-nasal cavity.

This mild solution of Zonite will soothe the tender membranes and help them to heal while actually killing the germs in the nasal passages. Zonite does more than retard the growth of harmful germs. It stamps them out—kills them outright. It is a far more powerful germicide than the strongest dilution of even carbolic acid that can be allowed on the body, yet Zonite is absolutely non-poisonous.

Your doctor will commend your use of Zonite in the atomizer or as a gargle and mouthwash, for he knows the necessity of so powerful a germicide to kill the stubborn germs of coughs and colds. He will be glad to have you use it because it is safe.

At all drug stores—30c, 60c and $1. Full directions with every bottle.

Note: It is a well known fact that workers in plants making or using chlorine gas have been shown to be practically immune during epidemics of influenza. During the World War a great new antiseptic was discovered having chlorine as its active principle. In a stabilized and electrolytic form this is now sold everywhere under the name Zonite.

The Zonite antiseptic principle is contained also in Zonite Ointment. Rub inside nostrils and beneath nose to relieve the irritation of head colds. Dries quickly.

CALLIOPE-LOUD SPEAKER BAN HITS SNAG IN COUNCIL

An ordinance prohibiting calliopes from using the streets and radio loud speakers from broadcasting through open doors and windows of stores has struck a snag in Council, which gave evidence of destroying the measure.

The original measure prohibiting calliopes only, was returned to the councilmanic safety committee yesterday after being amended so as to include loud speakers.

Harry A. Little urged delay in taking action until owners of the calliopes could have the advantage of the open-air season for whatever revenue might accrue and to give the owners an opportunity to dispose of their "musical" instruments valued at $2,000.

John S. Herron objected to the prohibition of loud speakers and pointed out they were almost indispensable for broadcasting world series baseball games, football classics, world championship boxing contests and major political events, particularly national conventions.

The measure was returned to the law department with a request to substitute it with two ordinances separating calliopes from loud speakers.

Proud Dad Barred By Stoker at Hospital

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 16.—Mrs. William Connelly became the mother of a baby girl in the local hospital several weeks ago. The proud father, after freely passing out the smokes, strode to the hospital to get a glimpse of the tot, but admission was refused him because of an influenza ban. More anxious than ever to get to his wife's bedside, the father tried to get through the furnace room, but the furnace man had orders too. So the father saw the child for the first time yesterday.

SQUIRE, HIS AIDE, GO TO JAIL FOR EXTORTION

Justice of the Peace John Popp, Jr., of Castle Shannon, must serve nine months to two years in jail, and Constable M. Blazier, of his office, must serve six months to two years for conspiracy to extort money from a foreigner who had been a defendant in the squire's court.

The sentences were pronounced by Judge James H. Gray in Criminal Court late yesterday after a score of character witnesses had lauded the reputations of the squire and constable. The judge said a great public wrong had been committed and that it would be a miscarriage of justice should the men be paroled, as had been asked.

Squire Popp, Jr., and Constable Blazier were convicted October 22, 1928, the former of conspiracy to extort and the latter of conspiracy and fraudulent conversion. The charge was that Mike Palichak, of Braddock had been induced to put up $1,200 bail when arrested on an information made by John Smyda on behalf of the latter's minor daughter.

Testimony showed that when Palichak appeared in Squire Popp's court for a hearing he was told the case had been settled by giving the $1,200 to the girl and her father. Palichak charged that only $500 was given to Smyda and that the justice and constable split the $700 balance. The jury found them both guilty in a trial that lasted nearly a week before Judge Gray.

HEARING FRIDAY FOR LIVINGSTON

Murray G. Livingston will receive notice today from the Civil Service Commission that a hearing will be held at 3:30 p. m. Friday, in the City-County Building, on his appeal from Mayor Charles H. Kline's order discharging him from the job of chief inspector of weights and measures.

Livingston was twice discharged by Mayor Kline. After his first dismissal from the city service, the Civil Service Commission removed the job from civil service protection and the Mayor "again" discharged Livingston.

Young Gunmen Get Long Prison Terms

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Four youths arrested in a pistol duel with police less than 24 hours before, were convicted of robbery and sentenced to 15 to 30 years each in the penitentiary. One of them, Jacob Chinnic, 20, was so badly wounded in the shooting affray that he was carried into court on a stretcher. The others were Paul Pinco, 20; Dominic Esposito, 19, and Frank Patno, 20. Judge D. V. Arird, of Warren county, substituting on the bench, said in imposing sentence that if the youths had been 25 or older he would have given them life terms.

Youngstown Solon Held After Wreck

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 16.—Joseph Gottlieb, well-known local citizen, swore to a warrant for the arrest of Councilman Thomas Robertson, charging him with destruction of city property. Robertson was the pilot of a city automobile which was destroyed in a mysterious wreck several weeks ago.

Father: don't take "flu" home to the baby

Dr. David says: "Take these two precautions daily"

"Fathers who are out in the crowds, contacting many people every day, are the very ones who should guard most against influenza germs.

"It is not yet clear how such germs are spread or passed on from one to another, but the man who keeps well himself is actually protecting his family too.

"I'm going to prescribe two daily precautions. If you follow them, the chances are you'll be safe.

"First keep a bottle of Mistol handy and use it freely. It is quite harmless but it does protect against influenza germs.

"Mistol is easy to use in the office because of the handy dropper for applying that comes in the package. Tilt the head far back and let the soothing Mistol run down the back of the nose and throat. You'll feel the cleansing effect at once. And if you have a sore throat or touch of a cold, gargle Mistol freely too.

"The second safety measure is as easy as the first. Take a dose of Nujol every night. Nujol keeps the system in good condition.

"Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable. Many doctors are therefore prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way.

"Nujol is as harmless as water. Just a pure natural substance that keeps the system functioning as nature intends it to."

The combination treatment of Mistol and Nujol is a double check against "flu" and colds. Both products are on sale at all druggists, now.

M'GOVERN HITS OFFICIALS IN COUNTY AUDIT

The results of the audit of county offices by Controller Robert G. Woodside have proved the assertions repeatedly made by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern when he was controller, according to a statement by Commissioner McGovern yesterday.

He again criticized his associates, Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, for their refusal to allow him, as controller, $10,000 for an audit, while $50,000 was allowed Controller Woodside. Commissioner McGovern criticized Controller Woodside for declaring in campaign speeches that an audit was unnecessary and then ordering an audit when he took office.

Controller Woodside said a study was being made of the law to determine the proper legal steps for an interpretation of the law as it affected duplicate collections of taxes by the county treasurer. He said he desired to file his annual report before taking any action, and this might be done within a few days.

Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster while treasurer collected $56,421.88 in duplicate taxes, the audit revealed, and retained this sum to be protected against demands for refunds, according to his statement.

POSSE HUNTS WILD MAN

OHIOPYLE, Pa., Jan. 16.—A citizens' posse today joined in the hunt for the "wild man of Stewart Township" following an attack on Miss Lena Henning, 20, on the outskirts of Ohiopyle last night.

A haggard man seized Miss Henning while she was on her way home at 11 o'clock last night. She freed herself, after a struggle, and ran to the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Shipley, nearby.

This morning a posse, some of them armed, sought to trace Miss Henning's assailant by footprints in the snow. They followed the marks to Reindeer Park, where the trail was lost.

A farmer has been missing since December 7, when he left home armed with a rifle to hunt bear. Several days ago the rifle was found by a farmer near Ursina, who saw a man disappear with a pig over his shoulder. State police have hunted the "wild man" for several days without result.

Lang to Look Over Snow Removal Aids

Director Edward G. Lang, of the department of public works, and other city officials, will leave tonight for Cleveland to attend an exhibition under the auspices of the National Road Builders' Machinery Association. The party will include Councilmen John S. Herron and Harry A. Little, and T. Lloyd Pillow, assistant superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers. Lang expects to give particular attention to snow removal equipment with a view of recommending purchases to improve the present system of loading trucks by hand.

14 Teeth Lost, Sues For $40,000 in Crash

Fourteen teeth knocked out and his eyesight impaired was all that happened to D. Walker Smith, of 161 Hall avenue, Washington, Pa., when two Washington-Pittsburgh cars collided, he testified in his $40,000 damage suit in Common Pleas Court.

The accident occurred August 16 on the Warrington Avenue bridge.

STEPHEN SCHWAB

MICHAEL SCHWAB

Stephen, 11, and Michael Schwab, 13, 253 Cherry way, Homestead, both today in Homestead Hospital. They were found overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a gas stove in their home.

7 NEAR DEATH FROM GAS

Seven members of a Homestead family were recovering today from carbon monoxide poisoning, five of them in Homestead Hospital and two in the care of neighbors. Those in the hospital are George Schwab, 43, of 251 Cherry way, Homestead; his wife, Catherine, 40, and their three children, Stephen, 11; Thomas, 4, and Albert, 3. Michael, 12, and Leonard, 1 are recovering at neighbors' homes.

Pulmotors it is believed, saved the lives of all seven. The parents, up late Monday night with Thomas, who was ill, retired leaving the gas burning and the windows closed. When none of the family appeared yesterday afternoon neighbors became alarmed and called the police. Policeman Thomas Joyce broke in the door and found the family unconscious.

Patrolman Joyce reported that in addition to carbon monoxide fumes he found a leaking gas pipe.

Boy, 17, Admits He Slew Father

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 16.—Darrell Carnahan, 17, pleaded not guilty to second-degree murder and was remanded to jail in default of bond pending the action of the grand jury, which is investigating the killing of his father, Abraham Carnahan, 48, at Piney Forks, two weeks ago. The youth admits shooting his father, but says he was protecting his own life and that of his mother.

ANGILONE TAKEN "FOR RIDE," POLICE SAY

County detectives today were operating on the theory that Philip O. (Pig-Eye) Angilone, alleged racketeer of Heidelberg, had been "taken for a ride" in a bootleg war.

The detectives arrested Ralph Penneti, 29, a neighbor, as Angilone's "partner" and jailed him on a suspicious person charge, but they pointed out that there was nothing to connect Penneti directly with Angilone's death. The sleuths felt that Penneti might know something of the circumstances attending the killing.

SKULL FRACTURED

His skull fractured, possibly from a beating, Angilone's body was found hanging over the side of his auto at the bottom of a steep hill off the Lincoln highway near East McKeesport Monday. Footprints near the auto corresponded to the dead man's, Detectives Frank Ritz and Robert McMillen said.

Constable S. F. Mellon revealed today that he had found a revolver within a dozen feet of the body. It might have been the property of Angilone, for an empty revolver holster was attached to a pocket in the auto and several cartridges were found among the man's effects.

DENIES MOTOR RIDE

The detectives said Penneti had denied that on the night Angilone met death the two of them were motoring in Angilone's car. Penneti detectives say told them that at the time of the killing he was in the cellar of their joint home attending the development of 20 barrels of mash, the sleuths reported.

Ritz and McMillen said they had learned that Angilone, father of eight children, had been threatened with death four times recently and that an armed man was arrested near his home two weeks ago. They also told of learning that Angilone had been arrested several times on liquor charges.

White Alligator $333 Per Foot, F.O.B. Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Want a white alligator today?

If so, the market quotation this morning is $333.33 a foot, according to W. J. Godfrey, manager of a South Jacksonville alligator farm.

Godfrey has a six-foot specimen, believed to be the only white 'gator ever captured in Florida. He has offered it to the English Zoological Society, of London, for $2,000. The society has sent a representative here to examine the reptile.

Auto Collision Halts Dash for Hospital

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 16.—A dash to the Allegheny General Hospital by Prof. W. H. Clipman, principal of the Charleroi High School, who was rushing his wife there for an operation, was interrupted yesterday when a heavy sedan driven by E. C. Armstrong, 205 Ross avenue, Pittsburgh, crashed into the Clipman car at Lank Hill, Finleyville. Both cars were damaged. Mrs. Clipman was prostrate with shock and was hurriedly transferred to an ambulance in Finleyville and the trip resumed.

Dr. Davidson Speaks At W. Va. Graduation

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 16.—Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools of Pittsburgh, has been engaged as principal speaker at the mid-year commencement of the Charleston High School. There will be 75 graduates.

SMOKE PLANS ADVANCE IN COUNCIL

Two ordinances expected to assist in the elimination of objectionable smoke have been affirmed by Council in Finance Committee. The bills will come up for final passage next Monday and then be sent to Mayor Charles H. Kline for his consideration.

One measure empowers Harry B. Meller, chief of the city's Smoke Regulation Bureau, to employ temporarily 10 students of fuel combustion at University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech as additional smoke inspectors. They will work four hours daily for 90 days at 75 cents an hour.

The other ordinance requires the installation on boilers, where necessary, of "periscope" detectors that will enable the firemen, far below the street surface, to observe the volume of smoke leaving the stack.

The legislation was the result of the city-wide campaign to avoid a repetition of smoke pall.

Thawed Bantams Peck of Woe to Rescuer

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 16.—Bart Shrumm, custodian of the county court house, has a problem. Yesterday he found two bantam chickens, half frozen, in the court house yard. He placed them in the furnace room, where they thawed out and became lively pets. Under the rules he is not permitted to have chickens in the basement.

Washington County Man Dies in Fall

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—Angelo Zanolli, aged about 55, well-known resident of East Bethlehem township, was killed in a fall from a viaduct at Fredericktown, officers investigating the death of the man believe. He was found along the highway with his skull fractured, and for a time it was thought he had been struck by a hit-and-run driver.

Bessemer Tot Dies Of Open Grate Burns

NEW CASTLE, Jan. 16.—Mary Ethel Nalitia, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Nalitia, of Bessemer, near here, died in the New Castle Hospital of burns suffered early Monday at her home. Her clothing caught on fire from an open grate. She was taken to the hospital after the accident, but could not overcome the shock.

Washington Elks Sell Home to Bank

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—An order handed down in court here authorizes the trustees of Washington Lodge No. 776, B. P. O. Elks, to sell their former home, located in East Maiden street, to the Washington Trust Company for a consideration of $50,000. The local lodge of Elks recently purchased a new home at 140 East Maiden street.

BETTY STURGES

The betrothal of Miss Sturges, prominent in Chicago society, and Henry Field, explorer of the Near East and assistant curator of anthropology in the Field Museum, is announced.

WOMAN BURNED IN GAS BLAST

Mrs. Jennie Radowich, 37, 2909 Mulberry way, suffered burns about the face and body in a gas explosion in the cellar of her home last night. Her condition is regarded as serious at the West Penn Hospital.

Mrs. Radowich, police say, went to the gas filled cellar with a lighted match. Fire which followed the blast was extinguished by firemen who reported that the damage was slight. The gas escaped from a leaking connection, police said.

Hotel Asked to List Charity Activity

Owners of the Keystone Hotel, formerly the Hotel Yoder, 1112 Forbes street, today will receive a request from Council for a report on the extent of the institution's charitable activities. The report was requested to justify a petition from the hotel owners for an exoneration of city taxes. Council further requested reports from city departments on the activites of numerous other institutions aiding the needy.

WHEN FLU THREATENS

Never Let a Cough or Cold Hang On

Break a cold the first day and it is unlikely that you will contract pneumonia or influenza. "Common" colds are dangerous. When flu threatens it's criminal to let a cough or cold hang on.

Turpo will break a cold right up. Rubbed on the chest or throat it relieves congestion, loosens phlegm. Instantly you will feel the improvement.

As a preventive against flu, snuff a little up each nostril several times a day and flu germs will have little chance of getting a lodging or breeding place.

Turpo is an effective antiseptic combining the old-fashioned remedies of turpentine, camphor and menthol. Any doctor or trained nurse will tell you that these ingredients have long been recognized as effective antiseptics as well as having really wonderful qualities in relieving colds or congestions. Turpo costs only 35c at any drug store.

TYRRELL WILL KNOW FATE SATURDAY

Judge Robert A. Stotz, of Northampton County, today sent word that he will be here Saturday to make final disposition of the case of Fayette J. Tyrrell, convicted of Allegheny County's first church murder.

Tyrrell, lawyer and former Sunday school superintendent of the First Christian Church, Munhall, was found guilty of second degree murder for shooting to death Philip F. Clark in the church on Mothers' Day, May 13, 1928.

A motion for a new trial for Tyrrell was argued before Judge Stotz last fall.

The slaying was the upshot of a feud between Tyrrell and Clark. It was testified at the trial, Clark accused Tyrrell of being too friendly with Clark's wife who had retained Tyrrell as her attorney in divorce proceedings.

Husband Locked Her In Room, Wife Says

Her husband was so jealous of her that he locked her in her room on several occasions, Nina Gelsheiser, 21, of Clairton, testified today before Judge Harry H. Rowand in her uncontested divorce action against Raymond Gelsheiser. They were married in 1927.

3 SAVED FROM DEATH IN FIRE

An elderly woman and two children were snatched from death in a fire which partly destroyed the residence of Michael Broderick, 6500 Adelphia street, about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The fire started near the gas meter in the basement of the house, a two-story frame structure, and spread rapidly to the upper floors.

Mrs. Margaret Broderick, 64, an invalid for more than a year, was reclining upon a day bed in the dining room when the fire was discovered by her son-in-law, Policeman George Dorian, off duty at the time. After a futile attempt to extinguish the fire in the basement Dorian carried the helpless woman from the smoke-filled dwelling to the home of Raymond C. Moore, 6501 Adelphia street. The excitement, it is feared, has aggravated Mrs. Broderick's condition.

While Dorian was carrying the elderly woman to safety, his wife dashed from the burning home with their two children, Katherine, 6, and Daniel, 4. Michael and Joseph Broderick, the latter a son, were able to escape alone. The family is being cared for at the Moore home.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist Church of Swissvale held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. E. Ularider, 201 Blackhawk street, Swissvale.

CHARGES TROLLEY HIT HIM, JURY THINKS DIFFERENT

Instead of Michael Klosky, North Side, having been hit by a street car, the jury in his damage suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company evidently believed that Klosky hit the car.

Klosky claimed $15,000 damages for personal injuries. He alleged that on August 5, 1927, while riding over the Tenth Street Bridge on a motorcycle, he was hit by the car. It was alleged that Klosky cut between a car and a wagon and had hit the car. The jury returned a verdict for the railways company, which means, it is said, that Klosky has to pay the costs. The company was represented by Attorney E. W. Langfitt.

Two Youngstown Men Poison Victims

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 16—Eli Shesho, 50, and John Madden, 45, steel mill workers, were overcome by gas fumes at their homes yesterday. They turned the gas on too high and were rendered unconscious by the fumes. Efforts to arouse them proved futile and they were pronounced dead by Coroner M. E. Hayes.

DANNY DORIAN CATHERINE DORIAN

Catherine, 6, and Danny Dorian, 4, were saved with their grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Broderwick, 64, an invalid, today by their father, Patrolman George Dorian, when fire broke out in their home 6500 Adelphia street.

Weather Conditions.

The high that was centered over the central valleys yesterday morning is now centered over the Middle Atlantic coast, highest barometer, 30.54, at Harrisburg. There was a change to colder over the upper Ohio Valley states and eastward and over the lower Mississippi Valley states. Over the lower Ohio Valley states and westward over the central plains there was a change towards warmer.

The barometer is falling from Western Pennsylvania westward, but the center of the disturbance is in the far Southwest, lowest barometer, 29.50 inches, at Modena, Utah. It is producing rain over the southern states and rain, snow and sleet in Missouri, Western Tennessee, Kentucky, Southern Illinois and Southern Indiana.

The temperatures are still low in the Canadian Northwest, but the weather over this section will be influenced by the southwestern low which will bring rising temperatures, with snow or rain.

River Conditions.

The rivers are frozen at most places above Pittsburgh and light ice is running at Pittsburgh. The Ohio River is gorged in the Fourth pool. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.0 feet. Dam No. 2, 1.2, and Dam No. 6, 6.0. Heavy ice is running at Wheeling.

Japanese Diplomat, Count Chinda, Dies

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Count Sutemi Chinda, 72, lord chamberlain to the emperor, died today after a short illness. He was ambassador to Washington from 1911 to 1920 and also served as ambassador to Berlin and London. He was graduated from an American university in 1881.

Co-Eds Discipline Waynesburg Lotharios

WAYNESBURG, Jan. 16.—After male students at Waynesburg College started a general practice of escorting non-student girls to college dances, members of the Alpha Gamma Theta sorority at the college decided to ignore the boys and next Monday will stage a co-ed prom, to which no boys will be invited, the girls serving as their own dancing partners. The announcement of the dance has aroused considerable comment among Waynesburg students.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant: you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

DAVIS WILLS COPIES OF HIS MANUSCRIPTS TO LIBRARIES

Copies of his diaries and manuscript plays are to be given to leading libraries of the country, Allan Davis, lawyer-playwright and Pitt instructor, provides in his will, probated today. He died two weeks ago at his home, 244 South Atlantic avenue.

Davis directs that his diaries be preserved, and that if his wife and son deem that they should be published, sufficient money is to be taken from his $32,000 estate for that purpose, otherwise they are to be given to Harvard University Library.

One copy of his manuscript plays is to be given each to Harvard Library, Library of Congress, New York Public Library and Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh.

The testator bequeathes his estate in trust equally to his wife, Mary D. Davis and his son, Lawrence A. Davis, for the latter's professional education. At 23 the son is to get $5,000, and at 28 the remainder "if he has shown himself to be neither a spendthrift nor overly stingy."

In event the wife and the Union Trust Company, who are named executors, find him either stingy or too liberal the son is to get only $2,000 at 23 and the remainder at 32.

The wife is given all household goods except his library, including rare books, ancient candelabra, silver candlesticks and manuscripts, which go to the son.

At the wife's death the entire estate goes to the son.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By RUTH WAITE

Every woman with gray, faded or streaked hair is entitled to do something about it, for it is every woman's birthright to retain her youthfulness and charm as long as she can. When a woman mentions gray hair to me, I don't hesitate to advise the use of a restorer and I recommend sage tea and sulphur.

A brew of common garden sage, when properly combined with sulphur, restores gray hair to its original color, lustre and beauty. So perfectly does it do the work that its use is undetectable. You may either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the prepared article and it costs only 75c a bottle at druggists. Hence there's no need of your bothering to prepare the mixture yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. The very first application banishes the gray and one or two more sees the hair beautifully restored to its original life and color. One would be surprised if she or he knew the thousands who use this preparation.

Aliquippa Man Run Down by Autoist

Butler Cement Mill Resumes Operation

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 16.—The West Penn Cement Company at West Winfield resumed operations after being shut down since December 21. The plant is giving employment to 125 men, and this number will be increased in a few weeks. The plant was built two years ago and is pronounced one of the most modern in the United States.

Listerine kills 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds

Did you realize that Listerine was so powerful?

Hard to believe, isn't it, when you reflect how pleasant and safe Listerine is?

Yet in repeated tests employing the stubborn B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ, used by the Government to test antiseptics, Listerine killed 200 million in 15 seconds!

Now you can understand why millions use Listerine to check ordinary colds and sore throat—both caused by germs.

Keep a bottle handy and use it daily, especially after exposure to germ-laden crowds. It helps you ward off trouble.

Write for our elaborate free book "Personal Hygiene". Address the Lambert Pharmacal Co., Dept. S-60, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

What a funny way to escape a cold

Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food

Where are Granny's flannels

Perhaps they called them the "gay nineties" because the underwear was so red and so itchy. As a girl, how Grandma used to dread October 25th, the day on which the entire family switched to heavy flannels!

Then early in 1890, the good news spread that a pleasant medicine for colds had been discovered. Tiny tablets, easy to take, which gave quick relief and left no distress.

Every year since, Grandma has used or recommended GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. The old reliable remedy, she calls it. Four generations of her family have used it. The laxative and tonic ingredients don't merely eliminate the symptoms. They help nature to side-step the cold entirely or throw it off quickly. So Granny wears no flannels any more .... For your own sake, make sure of getting the genuine! Emphasize GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

KENNETH HILL, EX-ACTOR, SKIING WITH TUNNEY, DIES

International News Service.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 16.—The excursion of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney to St. Moritz for the winter sports was cast into gloom today by the sudden death of Kenneth Hill, a wealthy Boston society man and former actor.

Hill died of heart failure while on a skiing party with Mr. and Mrs. Tunney and Mrs. Cunningham Reed.

Hill, who made a hit as the villain in "Within the Law," had been living temporarily in Paris where his stepmother, Mrs. William Hill, resides.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS. DRINK WATER

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A COMFORTABLE COSTUME FOR SCHOOL OR PLAY

A dress with bloomers is ideal for the little girl of kindergarten or school age. The model here portrayed has a square yoke gathered. A soft round collar finishes the neck edge above a slash and dear little pockets trim the front. The sleeve is full at the wrist where it joins a band cuff. The blomers, in regulation style are finished with leg bands. Printed zephyr was chosen in this instance, with facings of crepe on collar, pockets and band cuffs. Light weight woolens are recommended for warmth; pongee or repp, cotton broadcloth, and linen are also good.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the dress for a 6-year size will require 3⅛ yards of 36 inch material together with ¼ yard of contrasting material for facings on pockets, collar, cuffs and leg bands.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 10 and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Butler Eagles Get Seized Lodge Back

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 16.—Judge James M. Galbreath issued an order restoring to the Butler Lodge of Eagles the $50,000 club property located at Washington and North streets.

The building was placed in the control of a trustee, following conviction of three officers of the lodge on charges of selling intoxicating liquors to members.

Petitioners stated the men had served time in the workhouse and had paid fines imposed by Judge John H. Henninger, now dead, and it was in the interests of the lodge to have the property restored.

PROPER PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES NOW CONTROL EPIDEMIC

Health officials in the many sections of the country suffering from influenza have done much toward curbing its spread. Common sense advice has been published broadly and followed by the public in general. This advice of these officials deserves the attention of everyone.

Avoid crowds whenever possible. Keep away from all who are sneezing and sniffling. If you seem to be catching a cold, consult your physician immediately. Exercise regularly, in the open air when possible. Eat only wholesome food. Drink plenty of water. Get a full night's sleep. Such precautions are what tend to maintain the greatest bodily resistance to disease.

With the influenza prevalent many consider Vapex a special blessing. Many have formed the worth-while habit of putting a drop on a folded handkerchief every morning. The odor of the vapor is very pleasant and refreshing. It may be inhaled frequently during the day. There is no bother or dosing to Vapex. It is the modern way to stop a cold at the start. Get Vapex from your druggist—in the little square dollar bottle, containing 50 applications, and the package with the green triangle.

Nurse Praises Konjola For Its Wonderful Merit

"I Know a Good Medicine When I See It," Says Lady Relieved of Complication of Ailments.

MRS. FRED A. MOORE

A mighty chorus of praise resounds wherever Konjola, the master medicine, is known and the Konjola Man, who is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, is surrounded daily by throngs of sufferers eager to hear all about this modern medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola comes with an astonishing record for results, in which an outstanding feature is the fact that in thousands upon thousands of cases Konjola has scored a sweeping victory over disease when all other medicines and treatments have failed dismally. How Konjola, with its 32 ingredients—22 of them imported—goes directly to the seat of the trouble, and how it works to bring about its speedy and complete relief is told by Mrs. Fred A. Moore, a nurse of fourteen years' experience, 216 North Fourth street Sharon, Pa. Surprised and happy at her experience with this super-medicine, Mrs. Moore said to the Konjola Man, who is now in this city:

"Four years ago my kidneys became affected but for years before that I had suffered intensely from rheumatism, constipation and indigestion. Being a nurse, I had every opportunity to secure the best of treatments and medicines but nothing seemed to reach my case. At times my limbs and joints were terribly swollen, headaches and dizziness were daily pastes, there was but little I could eat without paying for it with extreme pain. This long standing condition shaped my strength and energy, and I was keenly discouraged by my failure to find anything to help.

"I read with curiosity and then deepening interest the many endorsements of Konjola. Maybe this remedy will help me, I thought, and then started on the treatment. I certainly did not expect the dream of such immediate effects. Before the second bottle was taken I realized that I was on the road to perfect health. My stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels responded as if to a magic touch, and began functioning as they should. The headaches and dizziness vanished and best of all, the rheumatism left me almost overnight. To say I was astounded scarcely expresses my surprise. As a nurse, I know a good medicine when I see it work like that and Konjola certainly has my sincere endorsement and heartiest thanks for its remarkable and quick success in my stubborn complication of ailments. I feel it a privilege and a duty to recommend this master medicine to all who suffer as I did for years and years."

One might print thousands of endorsements like this, for on its actual results is founded Konjola's unprecedented success. What Konjola has done for a legion of others made well again, it will do for you.

THE KONJOLA MAN

is at the McCULLOCH DRUG STORE, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of the remarkable Konjola. Free samples given.

PADLOCKS DUE AS 75 CASES ARE HEARD

Final hearings in 75 "padlock" injunction suits Tuesday before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, resulted in the court directing that decrees be prepared closing many saloons in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Etna, Sharpsburg, Altoona and Johnstown for one year because of violations of the prohibition law.

The court dismissed the injunction suit against the Famous Cafe, 3802 Forbes street, when counsel for the owner of the property, Louis Schwartz, declared that a former tenant accused of violating the prohibition law by selling liquor had been ejected from the building before institution of the injunction suits. In some instances owners of properties enjoined will be permitted to use their properties by getting rid of present tenants and posting bonds against further violations of the law in the buildings.

World War Veteran Dies in Furnace

GEO. W. MIGHT DIES OF HEART ATTACK

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 16.—George W. Might, 47, of 421 Washington avenue, head of the Might bookstore and news agency, died following an attack of heart disease at his home late yesterday.

He had just recovered from influenza. A few hours before his death he was informed that his wife, Mrs. Adeline Might; his sister, Mrs. Fred Miller, Meadville, Pa., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. S. H. Might, had been injured when their car turned over on the Pittsburgh pike, near Library. They were able to return here.

Mr. Might was born in Scottdale, Pa., February 22, 1882. He was an executive of the Western Pennsylvania News Dealers Association, past president of the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce and a former city councilman. He also was a director of the Community Savings Company, the Charleroi Iron Works and the Home Building Company. Mr. Might was a member of Charleroi Lodge No. 615, Free and Accepted Masons; Monessen Chapter No. 290, Royal Arch Masons; McKean Commandery No. 80, Knights Templar; Pittsburgh Consistory, Scottish Rite Masons, thirty-second degree; Charleroi Lodge, B. P. O. E.; Royal Arcanum and Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He was president of the Charleroi Athletic Association.

At a dinner last night in honor of Carl Aschman, captain of W. & J. football team, John K. Tener, former governor, paid a splendid tribute to Mr. Might.

Mr. Might leaves his wife, his father, George S. Might; a brother, S. H. Might, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Miller, Meadville.

14 Killed, Engineer Accused as Drunk

BUCHAREST, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Fourteen persons were killed and 40 others were injured severely today in a collision between two crack trains at Prusnila, near Turnu Severin.

The Temesvar (Rumania)-Paris express was derailed near the Prusnila station. A few minutes later the Temesvar-Bucharest Express crashed into the derailed train. Authorities say the engineer of the Temesvar-Bucharest Express probably was intoxicated.

Sues Woman Driver For $25,000 Damage

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—Paul Murphy, of Grantville, Md., has filed a suit here to recover $25,000 for damages suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Margaret DeLittle, of Washington county, the accident happening near Murphy's home. He was in a plaster cast from feet to waist for 32 weeks and from his knees to his hips for an additional 12 weeks. His left knee is permanently stiff.

18th 'Pen' Inmate Dies of Pneumonia

Stricken with pneumonia, Eugene Meridith, 46, Negro, a prisoner in the Western Penitentiary, died shortly before midnight, according to a coroner's report. He is the eighteenth to die of pneumonia within the last few weeks.

BUILDER TO GET CITY'S $105,185

J. T. Nealon, contractor, today will receive from Council an offer to pay $105,185 as settlement of claims for the original bid of $85,000, plus costs, for extra work on foundations for California Avenue Bridge.

The offer was proposed by Chairman Robert Garland of the Finance Committee, who points out that the amount would cover the contractor's claims, with interest, from July, 1927, when final payment was due but deferred through a dispute between the contractor and city engineers.

Wife Stays Late, Man Wins Divorce

Hugh A. Lynn, Houston, Pa., alleging that his wife stayed out until 3 and 4 in the morning and told him it was none of his business where she had been, was granted a divorce from Gertrude Lynn yesterday.

Judge James H. Gray, in Common Pleas Court, granted the decree.

The couple were married in Wellsburg in 1916 and formerly lived in Coraopolis.

Young Mother, Once Thin, Weak, Gains 5 Lbs. and New Strength

Don't Be "Skinny," Washed-Out and Unattractive

Gain Pounds This New, Quick Way

New YEAST and IRON builds weight quickly. Your own druggist guarantees results—or pay nothing

"I gained 5 lbs. while taking IRONIZED YEAST. That means quite a bit, as my folks are both thin. What I prize most is the difference in the way I feel and the pep I have. Before I took IRONIZED YEAST I had to hire a girl to help me with any hard work. But now I do all my housecleaning alone and help my mother too." Mrs. George Decker

Why Yeast and Iron Works So Quickly!

People gain 5 to 15 pounds in a few weeks. Skinny limbs round into chubby curves. Pimply skin clears up. Tired feeling vanishes.

Only when Yeast is IRONIZED is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets. Never cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody.

Try It on "Money-Back" Offer

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with effects, your money back instantly.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and generally weakened condition IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to gaining weight.—© I. Y. Co.

Amazing Numbers of Pennsylvanians Write Letters Like These:

What IRONIZED YEAST has done for all these folks it should certainly do for you. Take advantage of our generous trial offer. If not delighted, get your money back.

Didn't Put Much Stock In It Till He Gained 10 Lbs. in 3 Weeks

"My health began to fail. Never put much stock in advertisements till I tried IRONIZED YEAST. Gained 10 lbs. in 3 weeks and continued till I weighed what I should."—K. M. Reavick, Harrisville, Pa.

Rundown, Thin, Gains 7 Lbs.

"Was so rundown and thin didn't think anything would put flesh on me. But took IRONIZED YEAST and have gained 7 lbs. Sleep better, eat better and am not so nervous."—Mrs. J. L. Gager, Cold Springs, Pa.

Gained 11 Lbs. and More Pep

"Was thin and rundown. Tried IRONIZED YEAST and gained 11 lbs. Now have more pep and vitality than I have had for years."—Mrs. J. L. Reed, Mt. Union, Pa.

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities state it is an indication that the body's power of resistance to disease and infection is low. Meaning, that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

Made from fresh vegetable drugs—

When you get your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to diseases.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for improving the appetite, building strength, and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, by increasing the red-cells of the blood.

S.S.S.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Negro Thief Steals Clothes from Woman

A Negro sneak thief stole three suits valued at $100 from the home of Ethel Lomberski, 1802 Locust street, last night. Attracted by a noise, the woman ran to the kitchen in time to see a Negro fleeing with the loot, according to police.

INDUSTRIAL POWER RATES CUT $1,600,000 A YEAR

Efficient operation of plants has enabled the Duquesne Light Company to offer voluntarily a new schedule of power rate charges to the State Public Service Commission which "mean a saving of $1,600,000 to industries in greater Pittsburgh every year," according to a statement issued by F. R. Phillips, vice president of the company.

The new rates, which are scheduled to go into effect February 15, also will mean a saving of $50,000 a year to the municipalities in the Metropolitan Pittsburgh area in the matter of street lighting, according to the statement.

Home consumers received the benefit of a reduction a year ago which saves them $500,000 annually, according to Mr. Phillips.

Washington Banker Leaves $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—John W. Donnan, for nearly half a century president of the Citizens National Bank of this place, divided his estate among his children. It amounted to approximately $1,000,000. Mr. Donnan died about a month ago at the age of 84.

Hoover Now Has New Elephant On Hands

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Another elephant was added today to President-elect Hoover's already extensive collection with the presentation of a handsomely carved one of ivory from Canton, China, by Dr. Davis Z. T. Yui, general secretary of the national committee of Young Men's Christian Associations in China.

Dr. Yui, who was educated in this country, said the Chinese were much amused that the Republican party had chosen the elephant as its emblem.

WHO are the people this new car will attract?

A NEW CAR is coming. Not a new make of car. But an essentially brand new edition of one of America's best sellers. It is a six. It has bodies by Fisher. It is bringing new luxury, new beauty and new performance to its price field.

That much is fact. But now let's see. Who are the people this great new car will attract?

Most typical Americans of today are progressive. Years ago, they hustled the horsehair sofa off to the attic to make way for newer, more modern furniture. Today they are demanding more beauty, more luxury and finer performance than ever in their automobiles. Some of them have reached the point of owning two or more cars. Most of them have not. But they're all getting ahead. They all love fine things. These are the people this new car will attract.

The Oakland Motor Car Company has been building the Pontiac Six for this progressive group during the past three years. And so it knows a lot about them. And with this knowledge, Oakland has created a new car especially for them—not merely a refinement of an earlier model, but a brand new car from beginning to end. It brings new standards of style to its price field.

It provides the luxury and beauty of entirely new bodies by Fisher. It offers them performance they can tell their friends about. It will enable them to make a long step up the ladder of motor car quality with only a slight increase in investment.

You will appreciate the incomparable value of this car. Watch for the Picture and Word Record of Interesting Things In Amusement Sphere

SOPHISTICATED MR. MENJOU YEARNS TO MAKE HOME IN EUROPE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.

ADOLPHE MENJOU has definitely determined to shake the dust of these United States from his Bond street boots just as soon as he completes his next photoplay for Paramount. It is the last he must deliver under his contract. And he is quoted as insisting there will be no more. Our Adolphe isn't particularly entranced with Hollywood as a permanent residence, and now that he has taken his second matrimonial leap, with Kathryn Carver, he apparently intends to settle down on the other side of the Atlantic.

During his recent trip abroad, Menjou is said to have arranged for financial backing sufficient to permit him to produce pictures abroad. These, perhaps, may find release in this country. For, after all, Adolphe has no equal in the special sort of characterization which he creates. It is understood that the Menjou domicile, or general headquarters, will be in dear ol' Lunnon. From the town on the Thames it is a simple matter to take an airplane to Paris, the Riviera and other delightful locations which form interesting film background, and likewise present aspects of entertainment unknown in the cinema city.

Madge Bellamy.

Madge Bellamy, who recently severed diplomatic relations with Fox, says that they have been resumed again and that she may sign up to return to the old home studio in the near future. Of course, that's only "maybe." But Madge is positive that she'll be back working on some lot within the next week or so.

United Artists May Get Jolson

So far there has been no denial of the report that after Al Jolson makes "Sonny Boy," with little Davey Lee for the valiant Warner Brothers he will move the burnt cork and white gloves over to United Artists. This is rather startling for even though beloved "Pop" Warner asked his sons, "since when did he join the family?" when Al was saying "we" this and "we" that, the fact remains that Al has been as close to the Warner boys as another brother. He saved their bacon for them, in a manner of speaking. And they in turn made him one of the screen's great attractions, after he had fled to Europe following one glance at a former screen test. It is to be hoped that if the change is made it is not because of any ingratitude on either side, and that Al and Jack and Harry and Abe are as good pals as ever.

Gary Cooper is giving them all a run for their money in the popularity sweepstakes. Gary is now third in the quantity of fan mail delivered at the Paramount studios. Clara Bow is first and "Buddy" Rodgers, the Paramount acting school graduate, is second. Gary, whose first prominence was attained in a minor role in the Banky-Colman film, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," has just signed a new contract. His last picture, "Wolf Song," is almost ready for release. Lupe Velez is the heroine, and there are some hectic love scenes. Lupe sings several songs, by the way. And one—a Spanish love song—sounds like a hit.

Gary Cooper.

Free Lance Sea Beckons Renee

AFTER four years at Metro, and two more before that with Louis B. Mayer at his old studio, Renee Adoree has quit the safety of a contract and sailed into the wild waters of the free-lance seas. Renee is a fine actress, but since her memorable role in "The Big Parade," she has had scarcely a single part which has given her an opportunity to repeat her sensational work. Perhaps, now that she is free to select her own pictures, she will find a chance for fresh triumphs.

Warner Oland, one of the most versatile players of the pictures, has been signed to a long term contract by Paramount. Oland has been cast as everything from the Eurasian menace in several photoplays to the bearded cantor in "The Jazz Singer." Under the Paramount banner, Oland will receive greater opportunities than have come his way for some time.

Jeanne Eagels—will you ever forget her footlight Sadie Thompson?—and Reginald Owen appear in the new all-talking film, "The Letter," being made in Long Island studios.

Fay Wray and Clive Brook make a romantic pair in the forthcoming picture, "Four Feathers." Fay portrays the girl Ethne and Clive does an act as the dashing Captain Durrance.

And here are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards. The "Mrs." is no other than Evelyn Brent, who recently was married to picture-directing Harry.

Put "Conscience" Clause Into Contract

To "let her conscience be her guide" is the unusual clause written into the new long-term motion picture contract given to Alice White by First National Pictures, Inc. The contract states that the star shall "follow the dictates of her conscience in private, personal and public life and conduct," and also calls for at least four starring vehicles of musical comedy nature, augmented by the Vitaphone.

The contract, in part, reads:

"Artist agrees that during the period of her employment under said contract, she will constantly consult and take counsel with her conscience and will in good faith and to the best of her ability follow the dictates of her conscience and better self both in her private and personal and public and professional life and conduct.

"Artist agrees that in every instance in which she may have done anything or committed any act in violation of the dictates of her conscience, the same shall be considered a default hereunder, and the artist shall forthwith report the same to producer and take such steps as may be prescribed by producer to cure said default and re-establish artist in good standing with her conscience and at peace with her better self."

Many Aged Residents Die in Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 16.—Death has taken a heavy toll among aged residents of this vicinity.

Duncan MacTavish, 78, of this place, died while reading in his chair. Mrs. Mary C. Young, 82, died of pneumonia. Henry Clay Degrange, 61, succumbed to grippe. Both were residents of Martinsburg. Miss Texanna Lucas, 85, died in Shepardstown in a house said to be 200 years old. Mrs. Laura D. Ross, 67, Bakerstown, told her sister that she never felt better, and a few hours later, was found dead in bed from heart disease.

Jannings' Company Returns to Studio

The Emil Jannings unit, which which has been on location on the snowy slope of Lake Tahoe making Alpine scenes for his new Paramount film, tentatively called "A Tale of the Alps," has returned to the studio, where interior scenes will be made. Lewis Milestone, who directed "The Racket" and "Two Arabian Knights," is directing the German star. Esther Ralston and Gary Cooper are in the cast.

Barrymore Film Given New Title

Ernst Lubitsch has completed the cutting and editing of his latest production, "Eternal Love," a United Artists special starring John Barrymore. It was made under the working title of "King of the Mountains."

Armstrong Cast In Del Rio Story

Robert Armstrong has been borrowed from Pathe to play the leading role in "From Hell Came a Lady," a Fox production. The story is from the play written by the late Jaime Del Rio.

Geraldine Farrar To Sing Here Tonight

Geraldine Farrar, in a program of lieder songs, will give a concert at Carnegie Music Hall this evening. The program follows:

Schubert's Fruhlingsglaube, Alinde, Der Lindenbaum, Lob der Thranen, In der Ferne, by Miss Farrar; Schumann's Schone Wiege Meiner Leiden, Seit Ich ihn Gesehen, Liebeslied, Herzensleid, by Miss Farrar; piano solos, Schumann's Aufschwung and Warum, and Chopin's Scherzo by Mr. Gonzierre; Chi vuol innamorarsi, Scarlatti; Vol che sapete, Mozart; Dites que faut-il faire; Mon petit Coeur; Snow, Lie; The Lark, Rubinstein; In a Boat, Grieg; E'er Since Thine Eyes, Strauss, and Love's Rapture, Jensen, by Miss Farrar.

Marion Davies Honored by Equity

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—For the first time in its history, the Actors' Equity Association will stage one of its famous frolics in the West. The affair held annually in New York is by all odds the greatest of its sort in all the world.

Hollywood will do its bit to make the first of the affairs in the film city a rival in splendor.

The closer association of cinema and stage is evidenced by the honor tendered Marion Davies in her selection to portray in tableau "The Spirit of Equity." This homage of all Thespians has been bestowed in New York on such leaders of art as Ethel Barrymore and Jane Cowl.

Actress Designs Gowns for Colleen

Colleen Moore declares that Carmelita Geraghty is quite as talented a gown designer as she is an actress.

When it comes to designing "flaming youth" costumes for "flaming youth" pictures, Miss Geraghty, a close personal friend of Colleen's, assisted in the designing of Miss Moore's wardrobe for "Why Be Good?" her latest picture. Working with Max Ree, costume designer for the First National Studios, Carmelita sketched several frocks in which Colleen will be seen in her role of an exuberant, dance-mad girl of 18.

Miss Geraghty is regarded as one of the best-dressed actresses in Hollywood, many of her costumes being designed by herself. Her sense of photographic values, coupled with unsual ability as a designer, suit her particularly well to create screen wardrobes, and Colleen declares that she is going to enlist Carmelita's talent frequently in the future.

GUILD DRAMA IN BILLS LISTED

DuBose Heyward, author of "Porgy," which the New York Theater Guild will present in the Nixon for one week only, opening next Monday evening, lives in Henderson, N. C. It was in that Southern city that he so thoroughly absorbed the atmosphere of Negro life which is brought out in the play. It comes from an all season's run in the Guild and the Republic theaters, New York.

Alexander Gray, who returns to Pittsburgh for a farewell appearance as "The Red Shadow" in "The Desert Song," scheduled to open in the Alvin, for one week, Monday, January 21, has played with this attraction 18 months, and will have appeared in this role 683 times when he steps on the stage for the opening performance here. This is the last season "The Desert Song" will be shown.

Appearing as the two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville headliner in the Davis next week, Trixie Friganza, comes in "My Bag o' Trix," written by Neville Fleeson. Miss Friganza has been the star of many big musical shows.

Thurston, the magician, now appearing in the Pitt, has been before the public so many years that the name of "Thurston" is synonymous with mystery, humor, and novel entertainment. He is now on his twenty-third annual tour. There will be a matinee tomorrow and a special benefit matinee Friday, for charity.

SMITH ON AIR TONIGHT; MARY GARDEN IN 'THAIS'

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

ALFRED E. SMITH, former governor of New York and defeated presidential candidate, will make his first public address since his retirement over a coast-to-coast network of stations tonight at 8:30 o'clock. He will be heard in Pittsburgh through WCAE.

The program is sponsored by the Democratic National Committee. The topic to be discussed has not been announced, but is said to be "of interest to all parties and to all sections of the United States."

Mr. Smith will speak from the Fifth avenue studios of the NBC in New York City, addressing the same microphone which carried his final plea for the presidency.

RECORD ARTIST

Johnny Marvin, record artist and theatrical star, will be the star in the La Palina Smoker over WJAS at 9:30 o'clock. He will sing many of the songs that have made him famous, and his clever strumming will make the broadcast unique.

Mary Garden, famous soprano, will be heard in the title role of "Thais" at 10 o'clock through KDKA. A part of the opera will be broadcast from the stage of the Auditorium Theater, Chicago, by the Civic Opera Company.

Besides these three, there are several other good features to be heard over Pittsburgh stations.

PRIZE COMPOSITION

For instance, there is the "Two American Sketches," which won the first prize of $10,000 in a recent contest to encourage musical composition by American citizens in this country, a highlight of the Quinby Symphony at 7:30 o'clock, WCAE. "Waltz of the Flowers," from the Nutcracker Suite of Tchaikousky, is another selection in this concert.

A 100-piece band is featured on the New York Firemen's Ball over WJAS at 8:30 o'clock, while the Daguerreotype program at 9 p. m. will offer old-time songs, among them "Gems From Stephen Foster."

WALKER MOORE

A Pittsburgh baritone, who began his radio career with KDKA a few years ago while a junior member of Otis Skinner's show appearing at one of the local theaters, will be heard from the pioneer station at 6:15 o'clock. He is Walker Moore.

Miss Helen Irwin, reader, formerly of the Bradley Players in Cleveland, will portray the characters in the light opera, "Madame Butterfly," from KQV at 9 o'clock in a special "Hour With Puccini," arranged by Marjorie Keil Benton.

Excerpts from Henry K. Hadley's "Ballet of Flowers" will be played during the hour of Slumber Music at 11 o'clock over WJZ, WRC, WHAM. The opening number is the overture from "If I Were King."

A REQUEST FROM ZEALAND.

Recently the One-Minute Demonstrators closed their radio presentation with the selection "All the Luck in the World to You." This selection seemed to hit the fancy of the listeners, for many requests have been received for the quartet to repeat the very selection. One of the long-distant requests came from a radio fan in New Zealand, who received the program on his short-wave receiving set, picking up the 25.4 experimental signals of the pioneer station. Musical numbers:

Melancholy Sally.
Let the End of the World Come Tomorrow.
Dana.
That Old Sweetheart of Mine.
Rose of the Summer Night.
Tenor and bass solos, to be selected.
All the Luck in the World to You.

MARY GARDEN IN "THAIS."

A portion of Massenet's opera "Thais" will be broadcast direct from the stage of the Auditorium Theater in Chicago as it is sung by the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

Mary Garden, famous soprano, will be heard in the title role. Cesare Formichi will sing the role of Athanel, a Cenobite monk, and Jose Mojica that of Nicias, a wealthy Alexandrian. Edouard Cotreuil is cast as Palemon, an aged Cenobite monk, Maria Classens as Albine, an abbess, and Ada Paggi and Alice d'Hermanoy as Myrtale and Crobyle, respectively, slave girls of Nicias. Roberto Moranzoin will conduct.

The music of "Thais" is brilliant, impassioned and dramatic throughout, especially the instrumental part, as in the meditation music of the second act and the Oriental music which accompanies the scenes in Alexandria. Among the most striking vocal numbers are Athanal's solo as he awakes from his dream of Thais and her love songs.

Antlered Spouse Routs Raider Of Family

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 16.—(A.P.)—"Ben," a buck with the deer herd in Elmwood Park, still ruled in his domain today after a night battle with a man who had attempted to steal a doe. Ben bore several wounds from a pitchford found in the enclosure, but there was a challenge in his eye as he tossed his head and faced all who approached him.

Park officials found evidence of a struggle within the enclosure. A bloodstained pitchfork lay near the high wire fence over which the intruder is believed to have clambered hurriedly and with Ben's assistance. The buck had been stabbed several times and blood on the fork handle and the deer's antlers indicated that the would-be thief had been gored.

Peruvian Fliers New York Bound

SAN LUIS, Maranhao, Brazil, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Peruvian good will fliers landed safely on the beach about 10 miles from here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Carlos Martinez De Pinillos and Lieut. Carlos Zagarra took off from Natal at 8 a. m., in continuation of their flight to New York. Much of their flight of more than 700 miles was over dense inland jungles and they were reported sighted only once after leaving Natal.

MAITS WARNS AGAINST FLU RECURRENCE

Dr. Charles B. Maits, director of the City Health Department, returning from a conference in Washington, called by the United States Public Health Service, has recommended safeguards to prevent a recurrence of the influenza and pneumonia epidemic.

They include reduction of the danger of direct contact infection by avoiding crowds, guarding against contact from unprotected coughing, loud talking, sneezing and spitting; avoidance of exposure, fatigue and any bodily excess; insuring of eight to 10 hours sleep every night with windows open and enough bed covering to keep body warm; adopting a moderate mixed diet and drinking, at regular intervals, pure water; keeping the hands clean.

"If you have a cold, get feverish or feel badly go to bed at once, cover warmly, keep windows open and send for a doctor," the director advises.

Influenza and pneumonia are temporarily on the wane, but officials of the United States Public Health Service warn that an incidence of pneumonia following the wane of influenza may well continue above normal for months, Dr. Maits declared. He also said a secondary wave of influenza might recur.

FLU ON WANE IN STATE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The peak of the present outbreak of influenza in Pennsylvania has passed, Dr. Theodore R. Appel, secretary of health, said yesterday.

Secretary Appel characterized the prevalence of the malady as an "epidemic." Reports from various agencies throughout the state have convinced him, however, that the flu which swept the state was of a mild form.

"There is no need of worry," he said. "The situation is improving. Every indication points to a continued falling off of this disease. Without question influenza has been epidemic throughout the state and while the great majority of the cases have been extremely mild—of the type which would be classed as the common at the same time, through f care, such cases are very t to serious complication. nal care of the body, irrespective of the presence of any epidemic, is all the precaution that seems to be required at this time."

PROTECT YOUR BABIES

Influenza Threatens

Children's coughs and colds are serious. You can't tell by the start of a cold how serious it is going to be. Even doctors and trained nurses cannot distinguish the early stages of flu from a bad cold.

Don't take chances. At the first sign of a cough or cold start with Glessco. Don't wait an hour. Three generations of mothers have put their trust in Glessco. It relieves the cough and breaks a cold right up. It puts a sick, croupy child back on its feet before more serious trouble has a chance to develop.

Every time you break a cold with Glessco you know that's one cold that won't develop into flu. All druggists and most general stores have Glessco.

MAD DOG SCARE STIRS SOUTH HILLS

World's Beauties Arrive in Overland 'Train', Romp in Pittsburgh's Snow

KABE REIKER, ANGELA JOYCE, SARAH BRADLEY, ELSIE TOENING

Cold and snow did not perceptibly dim the radiance of these international beauties when they came riding into Pittsburgh aboard the "world beauty special," a truck and trailer masquerading as a locomotive and Pullman car. Left to right, they are "Miss Germany," "Miss England," "Miss U. S. A.," and "Miss Austria."

WORLD'S BEAUTIES ROMPING IN PITTSBURGH'S SNOW

The girls won their titles in a pageant in sunny Miami. But they were not averse to a more frigid background and gaily—"Miss Panama" included—romped in Pittsburgh's very own snow. In their "train," they're making a thorough tour of these United States. Here they engage in a vigorous snow battle and enjoy it! Their "train" today is to be seen "steaming" over Pittsburgh's streets.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

SIDEWALKS welcomes the opportunity to herald the scheduled testimonial dinner to John Gruber, a leading citizen of West View, dean of Pittsburgh sport scribes, and a patriarch of the national sport-writing realm. The only man who will object to such a testimonial will be one, John Gruber. He will try to dismiss it with an: "Oh, pshaw," and above his black beard there will be a flush of embarrassment in the thought that any fuss is to be made over him, but this is one time where his influence will disappear. He will have nothing to say about the coming affair.

It is to be hoped that no reference will be made to John Gruber's age in connection with the coming banquet. Guesses now range from 40 to 70. Those who have seen his beard only at a distance believe he is well past 60, but the boys who know him best, who long have heard him laying down the law in the matter of baseballs and errors, insist he is much under 50.

In honoring John Gruber the town is honoring itself.

SPIES report that Pittsburgh's two-a-day vaudeville revival is clicking. The belief that musical comedy, the revues and the movies, all had put a blight on old-fashioned vaudeville in Pittsburgh, is proving erroneous. The return of the silent acrobats, the hoofers, the one-act sketch, the top-liner, the animals, the tramp juggler, the monologist and the Japanese tumblers will win a vote or two from the boys who used to sit in the last few rows of the Grand gallery getting glimpses of W. C. Fields, Jack Donohue, Will Rogers, Pat Rooney, the Four Keatons (Buster was the boy they threw against the back-drop), Bert Fitzgibbons, Fannie Brice, Walter Kelly, the Virginia Judge, his brother, George, the now-famous playwright, and many others. And does the orchestra leader still rap his music stand for a hush as the foreign acrobat moves to the footlights for his big stunt, managing to say in English, "Not wance but tree times, I tank you."

One of the most unique organizations in Pittsburgh is known as the Bums' Club. Once a year they meet to elect a chief bum. In contradistinction to their name they are really not bums at all—at least in the sense that bums are always "broke." The local Bums' "bund" is made up of fellows with some little money. Since prohibition they once a year stage an endurance contest in the matter of eating and drinking.

Supplies are laid in, the doors are locked, and the only ones who pass through the doors are those who are tossed out.

The last annual affair was staged just a week ago. There was a little confusion due to the unfortunate fact that the man who had just been unanimously acclaimed the chief bum was careless enough to misplace his artificial teeth. This happened on something like the third night. It was not until the next day that the misplaced molars were found. The hunt prolonged the session an extra day.

THE march of business has all but eliminated the residential places in the downtown section. In spots, in the midst of business houses, there are still homes, but they are few and inconsequential. In the lower part of town where Fourth avenue prepares to shake hands with Liberty avenue a few homes are sandwiched in between establishments of trade.

There is something strange about the sight of a woman leaning out an upper story window, taking in the sights, while on either side of her home is a place to have your bicycle repaired and a place to have your welding taken care of. The business establishments have not completed remodeling the houses into offices and store fronts, with the result that in fire-placed dining rooms one sees desks and filing cabinets, while in the living room there is a counter and shelves filled with bolts, nuts, gaskets and gadgets. It serves as a reminder to veterans of the town of the days when some of the nicest homes of the best people were in the downtown section.

PANIC AVERTED AS BOROUGH HALL SAGS

Police Chief Elmer Zeiler of Castle Shannon, prevented a panic last night in the one-story Castle Shannon Borough Building, when some of the supports of the council room collapsed during a meeting.

Many attending the meeting ran for the door when the floor began to sag, but Chief Zeiler restored order by assuring them that the floor could not sink more than six inches.

The sagging floor gave impetus to the move that has been started for a new council chamber. Council passed a motion calling for plans and specifications for the remodeling of the building to permit an addition of a second floor. The meeting was adjourned after the motion was passed.

Employe Retired After 54 Years' Service

Working 54 years for the National Tube Company at McKeesport, George Duncan, superintendent of the pipe mill, has been retired.

Mr. Duncan until the time of his retirement was the oldest employe of the company in point of service in an official capacity. Born in Scotland he came here in 1872 and entered the company's employment when 11 years old. His advance was rapid, serving as foreman, assistant superintendent of the butt weld mill, master mechanic, then assistant and later superintendent of the pipe mill.

AVALON DAMAGE VERDICT SET ASIDE

Judge James R. MacFarlane of Common Pleas Court, has set aside the verdict in the suit of Mrs. Mabel F. Crook, of 71 Union avenue, Bellevue, against the Borough of Avalon, for injuries sustained when she fell on the icy pavement in front of the borough school, Avalon, February 10, 1926.

The jury awarded Mrs. Crook $800 and her husband, George E. Crook, $432. Counsel for the borough moved that a verdict be rendered in favor of the defendant, notwithstanding the verdict and the court granted it. The plaintiff broke a bone in her right leg, the Borough of Avalon questioning the right of Mrs. Crook's to recover on the allegations set up.

$105,000 ASKED FOR CRUSHED SKULLS

Mrs. Magdaline Scheidler, 1517 East street, whose skull was fractured and ribs broken when she was run down by an automobile, said to have been owned by Leo B. Dolin, has sued the latter for $50,000 damages.

The accident occurred while she was crossing East street, August 25 last. It is averred, that the speed of the car which struck her was not slackened and that it was driven secklessly. The husband, Gustave Scheidler, asks $5,000 and his wife, $45,000.

For a fractured skull received by Jack Harvey Sorg, II, when an automobile, alleged to have been owned by James A. Nixon, ran over the sidewalk onto the Ben Avon public school ground and knocked the lad down, $55,000 damages are demanded. The suit was filed in Common Pleas Court by Harvey Sorg, Shaffer place, Ben Avon, father of the boy. The accident occurred April 12 last.

Ancient Bibles On Exhibit At Church

An exhibit of Bibles, of interest because of age, language or history, will be held at the midweek service tonight in the Avalon United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. O. H. Milligan, pastor. Several different tongues will be represented in the Bibles displayed and one was carried by its owner through the Civil War.

RABIES SCARE SPREADS IN S. HILLS

A mad dog scare, surpassing in intensity that of any in recent years, holds the South Hills district firmly in its grip, and already a number of animals have fallen victims of this dread disease.

Within the last few months a number of cases have been reported, but it has only been since the holiday season that the epidemic has hown its greatest severity. Veterinarians are seeking to have a quarantine on dogs in this district established, but thus far have not been successful in their efforts.

The district most affected is that of Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Brookline and Beechview. Several dogs, supposed at first to have been stolen, have since been found to have been afflicted with the rabies and, running wild, to have snapped and spread the disease to other animals. While, so far as known, no children or adults have been bitten by the afflicted animals, a number of adults coming in contact with the enraged animals are now taking the Pasteur treatment. Five boys playing about a cow in Brookline, believed to have been bitten by a dog and to have developed rabies, are among those recently given the Pasteur treatment.

CALL MEETING OF PRESBYTERY

A special meeting of Allegheny Presbytery, United Presbyterian Church, has been called for Monday, January 28, in the Second Church, Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, North Side, to act on the resignation of the Rev. Robert W. Gibson, for 10 years pastor of the Springdale Church. He has accepted a call to the newly organized Beverly Hills Church, Mt. Lebanon, subject to approval by presbytery.

Trolley Patron, Hit By Auto, Files Suit

Struck while she was crossing the street, after alighting from a street car in Washington, Pa., Mary M. Jewell, has brought suit against Charles Fatkin, Bridgeville, for $20,000 damages for a fracture of the left thigh. It is alleged that the defendant attempted to pass the street car between the plaintiff and the curb and knocked her down.

Husband Held for Assault and Battery

C. A. Patterson, of Smithdale, has been held for court in default of bail by Justice of the Peace C. A. Patterson, of Clairton, on charges of assault and battery preferred by his wife. Patterson was arrested by Pittsburgh Coal Company coal and iron police.

HOME LOOTED AT MT. VERNON

The Mt. Vernon, Elizabeth Township, summer home of Dr. G. P. Gamble, was thoroughly ransacked recently by an intruder, but so far as known no valuables were taken. The intruder gained admission to the home by breaking the glass panel from the door after which he turned every room in the house topsy-turvy. George Roamer, caretaker at the Mt. Vernon Cemetery, heard the crash of glass and saw a dark complected man leave the home and hail a passing truck. Constable R. E. McBeth took up the pursuit, but lost all trace of the young man at Smithdale.

Welfer Street Work Ordered by Council

Council has ordered the advertising of ordinances authorizing improvements to Welfer street from Murray avenue to Beechwood boulevard and the same thoroughfare between Murray avenue and Windsor street.

Wants Divorce on Desertion Grounds

Mary S. Haw, Larkins way, alleged to have been deserted by William C. Haw, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court asking that she be divorced from him. The couple were married in 1914.

SPAN CRASHES, COUNTY SUED

Otto C. Gass whose steam shovel was precipitated through the county bridge spanning Cow Run on the Bridgeville-Mayview road, July 17, injuring him, has brought suit against the County of Allegheny for $20,000 damages. Gass fell a distance of 60 feet when the shovel went through the bridge. As a result of the accident he says that he has only been able to work part time. He was injured about the back and head and received, he says, a shock to his nervous system.

Comfort Station Favored in Council

Construction of a comfort station on South Twenty-second street, near Carson street is authorized in an ordinance which has been affirmed by Council:

PAIR ARRESTED, LOOT FOUND

Stolen merchandise valued at $1,000 was recovered, detectives say, in the home of Thomas Deitz, 34, 6617 Lyric street, last night shortly after the arrest of Deitz and his wife, Nellie Deitz, 34, in a downtown department store for shoplifting.

City Detectives Robert Best and William Crytser said that Deitz had picked up a dozen gloves when they nabbed him. Deitz is alleged to have resisted arrest and was subdued after a brief struggle.

Deitz and his wife, the sleuths say, apparently had been selling the stolen goods, as most of the articles bore price tags fixed by them.

Vestrymen Elected By Bellevue Church

Edward Snodgrass, Jr., L. M. Bulger, W. A. Gilliland and Charles R. Luker were elected to three-year terms as members of the vestry of the Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue, at the annual meeting, Monday night. Mr. Snodgrass, John T. Brown, George B. Demms and H. Blaine Buch will represent the church as deputies along with the Rev. Dr. John Dows Hills, rector, at the annual diocesan convention, January 22.

Recreation Director To Speak in Oakland

Wilbur C. Batchelor, probation officer for the Board of Education and city director of recreation, will be the speaker at the meeting Friday of the Oakland Women's Club in the Hotel Schenley. His subject will be "The Increasing Leisure Time."

The Women's Glee Club of Carnegie Tech, directed by A. H. Johnston, will sing. Mrs. Carrie McCandless, chairman of the club's civic and juvenile court committee, will be in charge of the program.

Injured at Work Sues for $20,000

Injuries sustained when a large steel plate was allowed to fall on him or was thrown by a workman, caused James O'Brien, 4616 Gladstone avenue, to bring suit against the Otis Elevator Company for $30,000 damages. The accident occurred October 19, last, while the plaintiff was at work for the Mellon Stuart Company, contractors, on a building being erected for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at Creighton.

Boy Coaster Hit By Auto, Badly Hurt

The first victim of a coasting accident in the North Side, Kenneth Hooge, 8, of 7 Queen street, is in the Allegheny General Hospital with a fracture of the left leg and head lacerations. The boy, while coasting in Rostock street, unprotected by police, was struck by an automobile driven, police say, by Harold Eichenlaub, 28, of Perrysville, Pa. Eichenlaub took him to the hospital and later reported the accident to police.

Council and P. R. R. Agree on Bridges

An agreement between the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad authorizing the construction of bridges over the Fort Wayne railroad tracks at North and Irwin avenues has been approved by the Finance Committee of Council. The company will pay $125,000 of the cost and the city's expense was estimated at $154,000.

Three Named as Convention Deputies

Emanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, West North and Allegheny avenues, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Garden, rector, has elected the following deputies to the diocesan convention: W. B. Niesen, John H. B. Phillips, and John T. Campbell. Alternates chosen are: James A. Williams and W. C. Ashley.

PLAY PLANNED AT S. HIGH

"She Stoops to Conquer," an Oliver Goldsmith comedy, will be presented by South High School as the mid-year class plan Thursday and Friday in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The cast Thursday includes: Bernice Koch, Grace Junker, Regina Murawski, Mark Rhodes, Frank Hirth, William Barry and Elmer Ott. The male characters will retain their roles in Friday's performance, and these girls will be substituted: Bessie Waltmier, Dorothy Milkovich and Sarah Taylor.

Dormont Chamber Seeks New Members

A membership drive will be launched by the Dormont Chamber of Commerce, it was decided at a directors' meeting held in the Dormont municipal building. Two hundred more members will be the goal, which will bring the membership up to 450. This quota is desired by February 26, at which time a banquet will be held to wind up the drive. Prizes will be awarded to the membership team bringing in the most applications. L. C. Price, president, presided.

All Saints Church Names New Officers

At the annual meeting of All Saints Episcopal Church, California avenue, North Side, Monday night the following officers were chosen for 1929: Senior warden, David B. Oliver; junior warden, Charles S. Shoemaker; secretary, A. M. Becker; treasurer, J. C. Curtin. Other members of the vestry chosen were William McIntyre, E. M. Gilling, George P. Kestner and H. L. Campbell. Mr. Shoemaker and Mr. Gilling were named deputies to the annual convention of the diocese of Pittsburgh to open next Tuesday night in Trinity Cathedral, along with the Rev. Walter J. Marshfield, rector. Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Becker were named alternates. Financial reports were submitted by various organizations of the church.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.

Borah and Kellogg wanted peace without explanation.

Jim Reed and Moses (imagine these two wanting the same thing), they wanted peace including explanation. They all compromised with the following footnote to Europe:

"We had the treaty explained (but don't let that mislead you). We learned no more from the explanations than we did from the treaty. So we hereby sign blind, in order to hurry on with the cruiser bill, and trust and pray that there is nothing in the treaty that interferes with the Monroe Doctrine, farm relief, prohibition or birth control."

Yours, WILL.

The Work of a Porter

OIL paintings, woodwork, miniatures, a model engine, illuminated addresses and picture frames, all the work of a railroad porter at Paddington Station, London, were among exhibits at a recent exhibition held at that station.

Early Form of Fountain Pen

WHO invented the fountain pen? Lewis Waterman was a late comer in the field when he applied for a patent in 1883. Excavations in an Egyptian tomb dating back more than 4,000 years revealed an early form fountain pen.

"NANCY DEANE" by ROYL. FOLEY

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Deane, golden haired, dark eyed, has lived all her life with the O'Days in Washington, Pa.; for two years she has worked in the station lunch room to help pay the rent. There she meets John Blair who invites her to go to the circus. Nancy loses her job and learns she is really the granddaughter of the rich Montgomery Deane in Pittsburgh and that her mother, Julie Abbott, a circus performer, is coming to town and wants to see her. Nancy goes to the show with John and sees Julie drop from a trapeze; she rushes wildly to the hospital where her mother dies, telling her she loved her father. Nancy suddenly decided to go to Pittsburgh and Blair, whom she has grown to admire, gives her a letter to a college friend who runs the "Wear-Ever Mills." On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a model, who takes her to her own boarding house and invites her to share her room. Nancy is shocked at its disorder and doesn't know quite what to think of her new companion. Two friends of Ginger, Jerry Durant and Vic Flemming, take the girls to a party in the studio of a woman artist. Vic goes crazy over Nancy's blonde beauty and has a brawl with a man who he thinks is too attentive to her. In her amazement she meets Howard Wescott, the man to whom she has the letter from John. The next morning, disgusted with herself, she runs out of Ginger's room, hardly knowing where she is going. Gathering courage she applies at the mills for a job and Wescott tells her to report the next morning. She dashes madly to Ginger to tell her the good news, but Ginger tries to persuade her to be a model. The young men call again and Vic kisses Nancy who bursts into sobs. He quiets her and the four go on another party. Nancy is frightened when Vic drives his auto at reckless speed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AND Jerry was companion to both. He, plainly, was living for a good time and was having it. Vic put one arm around Nancy, pulled her over to him, and started to sing:

"At sundown,
"Every little breeze is singing of love undying
"At sundown,
"Every little bird is resting and feather nesting
"At sundown—"

The car was heading straight north. The Western sky still bore streaks of red in piles of black clouds. Ginger and Jerry took up the refrain, started tapping their feet in time to the singing. How happy they seemed, Nancy thought. She wondered why she was so troubled; why there seemed to be such a weight over her heart. She was younger than any of them and yet she was the heaviest hearted.

The car was speeding again, faster and faster. It was glorious to feel the power of it, to watch the glistening hood in the twilight. Exhilaration crept into her blood. As though she was shaking off an old coat, she tried to shake off the feeling of guilt, of dread. She started to sing with the others—

"Every little breeze is singing of love undying
At sundown—"

"That's the stuff, kiddo," Vic said, "I knew you'd come out of it. I never knew a blonde yet who could stay silent. You've been trying to keep something from us. Acting, eh, kiddo? Trying to make believe you're just a demure little country girl, but we're wise, kiddo. We're wise."

Nancy didn't answer. She started to sing again.

The dinner hour was over at the Retlaw Hotel when Vic's car pulled up at the entrance. In the lobby Nancy gave a hasty glance about to see if there was anyone from Washington who might know her.

"Here we go, kiddo, ready?" Jerry called to the girls. They walked into the dining room and were led to a table not 10 feet away from a table at which a man was eating. He looked up over his paper as the four were seated.

His eyes met Nancy's. They were the blue eyes of John Blair.

Her throat went dry. The very thing she dreaded most had happened. The very person, of all persons, she didn't want to see was sitting there, smiling, a puzzled look on his face.

"Why, John Blair!"

Nancy decided that she would have to face the situation, that she mustn't look confused. Blair stood up and she walked over to his table, held out her hand.

"Don't tell me you've left Pittsburgh so soon," he said. "You didn't get scared out so quickly, did you? Going back home?"

"No, oh no," Nancy said. "I—I—just met some friends last night and they asked me to go for a ride with them. Before we knew it we were here and—"

Blair's eyes traveled from Nancy's flushed face to the table across the aisle. Nancy imagined he was taking inventory of the trio. Vic Flemming was glowering at her and him. Ginger was daubing more carmine on her lips, one slim leg in its "nude" silk stocking was sticking out into the aisle.

Nancy decided she would have to bluff it through. Since she had left home she found herself doing all sorts of things she had never been called upon to do before.

Blair's eyes met hers again. He asked her if she had gone to the Blue Triangle. Nancy had to confess that she hadn't.

"You see I met this girl friend, and she asked me to go home with her. So I did. And I haven't had a minute to go to the Triangle," she fibbed.

He nodded toward the table where Ginger and Vic and Jerry were sitting.

"Oh, no, that's not she."

Nancy lied again. She asked him if he wouldn't come over to meet her friends. She put the question to him hoping against hope that he would decline.

"Thanks, but I'd better be on my way. Just dashed in here for for a bite between trains," he said. He picked up his check.

"By the way, did you see Howard Wescott?" he asked.

Thankful that she could say yes to this, Nancy fairly poured out the story of her trip to the Wear-Ever Knitting Mills, and of her new job.

"I'm going to work in the morning," she said. "We're going to start home as soon as we have something to eat so I can get a good night's sleep."

He looked down at her, and under his gaze Nancy felt he must sense her embarrassment. She hated to conceal anything from John—he was so honest, so decent.

"Well, good luck," he said. He held out his hand. Nancy grasped it, her own little hand lost in the bigness of his. She looked up at him. Her voice took on a trace of petulancy.

"John, you won't tell Mud and Darry you saw me, will you? They might worry. You probably won't see them, but just in case you do. They'd wonder what I was doing up here."

She was surprised at her own voice, a little ashamed of it. She was putting things into it that were never in her voice before, but the thought of Mud and Darry, dear old souls, fearful of the wicked world into which they had reluctantly let her go, made her desperate.

"No, certainly not," John promised. "Don't worry about that. I'll probably be in Pittsburgh one of these days to make a report. I'll look you up."

He wrung her hand until it tingled and walked out of the dining room past the giddy, noisy chatterings of Ginger and Jerry, and past the scowl of Vic Flemming.

Petrol Dangerous

Petrol, though useful for cleaning garments, should never be used in or near a room where there is any sort of fire or flame. Unless under responsible guidance, only grown-ups should use it and, if stored, it is best stored away from a house.

Removing Blood Stain

To remove a blood stain on silk material, place about four inches of white sewing silk in the mouth and moisten. Roll into a ball and rub the spot gently and the stain will disappear as if by magic.

Good Resolutions -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

THE middle of the month, but not too late to keep on making good resolutions for the coming year. How many times do we make and break the things which we resolve on New Years Day. But three little things you would do well to watch for during the months to come. And these, the age-old trio of "Hear no Evil; See no Evil; Speak no Evil!"

Resolve to hear nothing but the best of anyone whom you may know. And even if you don't know a person and someone speaks ill of them, shut your ears to slander. For in this way lies peace of mind to you and the one spoken of.

See no evil in anyone or anything. What may appear on the surface to be something perfectly horrible, may have an underlying motive that justifies the action. Therefore, shut your eyes to all that you may not understand.

Speak no evil! That's the most important resolution of all For what your lips once utter, may never be retracted. You may attempt to make amends for the nasty, hasty thing you may say of one on the spur of the moment, but the harm is done and it's too late.

So keep a close watch on these three things—and at the end of the year if you have faithfully kept your vow, you'll be happier and wiser and better loved than ever. For what you do, is an example to others. If you neither hear, nor see, nor speak evil, neither will it be told, nor shown nor spoken of you. And you'll be on the fair road to happiness and Love.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Madge and Lillian Have Another Bout With Dicky

MARY'S shrewd deduction that I instead of Dicky was responsible for the money he just had given her to spend on clothes, jolted the complacence which my husband's handling of the delicate situation had given me. If the girl's keen mind were to travel further along that line, she might realize that I had noticed the depleted condition of her wardrobe. This conclusion I distinctly did not wish her to reach, especially before I had the opportunity to restore her bank book and check book without her knowing that I ever had had them in my possession.

"You're wrong, Mary," I said promptly. "It was not I who first thought it would be nice for you to have some shopping money today. I am ashamed that it wasn't my idea, but I can't claim the credit for it. If you thank your uncle Dicky, you'll have done your whole duty."

I quieted my badly frayed conscience with the reminder that my little speech was essentially truthful, although I had omitted to name Marion as the one who first had discovered the scantiness of Mary's sartorial equipment. That the evasion had been successful I realized when Mary put her finger tips to her lips and blew a kiss after Dicky's retreating back.

"My apologies to you, oh! best of uncles!" she said, and with the feeling of another outpost safely skirted, I rejoined with her the group waiting for us. Lillian's eyes were upon the waiting room clock and I saw that many precious minutes of our shopping trip already had been consumed.

"We must start at once," I said hastily, and Lillian nodded a quick acquiescence.

"I'll get you a taxi," Harry Underwood volunteered, but his wife put in a quick disclaimer.

"You don't know the New York of this day, Harry," she said. "Taking a taxi in this district is just about 50 degrees slower than following a hearse. We'll take the subway up to Fiftieth street and then get a taxi from there to the shop we want."

"If you'll be guided by me you'll lose only about three minutes of time. Go out the Thirty-third street entrance and take a taxi west instead of east. Have the driver go up Ninth avenue under the elevated," Dicky declared.

"Thanks for the tip," Lillian said. "I've tried that recipe and it's all right when the currants jell. But if the traffic is too hot, everything will spoil, so if it's all the same to you, we'll take the subway. So long! Meet you in the hotel lobby at 12:30."

She grasped Marion's arm and turned her in the direction of the subway entrance. Mary and I turned with them, catching the ironical bow which Dicky sent after Lillian. I knew that her abrupt refusal to follow his advice only amused him while he would have been fiercely resentful of a similar snub from me. However, I reflected, Lillian's husband might not have smiled so mirthfully if he had given the counsel she had treated so cavalierly. Why was it, I asked myself, that the average man appeared to feel that any woman related to him was offering him a mortal insult if she refused to follow his proffered advice upon the most trivial topic?

"Sorry to insult your spouse, my dear," Lillian laughed when we had gained seats in the subway. "But we can't afford to waste a minute's time."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

He Pays Fare

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
If a lady asks a gentleman to go home with her, doesn't she pay her own fare?
BABE.

NO. Under the circumstances, it would not be considered in good form for her to make such a request.

Mourning Clothes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Will you kindly let me know what the correct dress is for a young man in mourning? A claims a black suit, black tie and a black hat is correct, while B claims a black suit, black tie and a gray hat, with a black band, is correct. M. AND E.

AIS correct.

The Maid of Honor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
1. In a bridal party consisting of a maid of honor and one bridesmaid, which of the two walks nearest the bride, the maid of honor or the bridesmaid?
2. The wedding gowns will be of transparent velvet—with lace and hats to match. For these garments which is the more appropriate as to flowers, bouquets or corsages and what flowers would you suggest? WORRIED.

THE maid of honor, since her position in the wedding party is more important (this is indicated by her name), walks nearer the bride, just in front of her. First the ushers, two by two; then the bridesmaid, alone; last, the bride and her father. You would have a better balanced wedding processional if you plan to have two bridesmaids, to walk together, before the maid of honor.

2. Arm bouquets would be better, I think. The kind of flowers depends on when the wedding is to be. African daisies are much used now, alone or in combination—with roses, or with iris or with snapdragon.

He Consults Father

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
What is the proper procedure for a young man about to become engaged? Should he ask the consent of the father as the girl has no mother, and if so what would be about the best way to do so? O. T. T.

THE would-be fiance makes an appointment with the girl's father and has a chat with him as to his "intentions," his prospects and his future plans in general. Usually the father has affectionately watched the affair develop, and he is not too surprised when he is asked for this appointment, this very important appointment. And usually, too, especially when the girl has no mother, he is very tender and friendly in his willingness to help the young couple make their plans.

On the Gift Card

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
One of my girl friends was married recently. I have never met her husband. What is appropriate to write on the card which I intend to send with a wedding gift?
To Mr. and Mrs. —— from or To Grace, from ——.
PUZZLED.

I SUGGEST, instead of either of these, that you write, "Best wishes to you both, from Betty."

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Husbands—Born and Made

SOME men are "born" husbands; some "achieve" that state; some resign themselves to domesticity—and some can NEVER be domesticated.

The "born" husband is marked from his cradle, and has no chance of escape. He gravitates toward matrimony as surely as the needle toward the steel. He is just naturally a domestic animal, who enjoys sitting by the fire, curling up on the cushions of the divan, and being let in and out of the door at regular intervals.

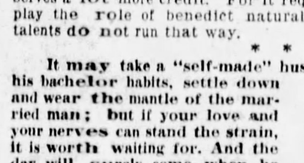
He doesn't even "put up a fight" against marriage. He doesn't have to be adjusted or remodeled. He just folds up naturally, like a jack-knife, into the domestic grooves — and STAYS PUT!



* * *

He is a glorious BLESSING to any woman who is so lucky as to draw him in the Great Lottery—even though his wife goes to her grave never knowing how good Providence and Lady Luck have been to her!

The man who "achieves" the married state is never such a household joy or domestic genius; but, on the other hand, he deserves a lot more credit. For it requires all sorts of self-control to play the role of benedict naturally and gracefully, when your talents do not run that way.

It may take a "self-made" husband several years to get over his bachelor habits, settle down and wear the mantle of the married man; but if your love and your nerves can stand the strain, it is worth waiting for. And the day will surely come when he will acquire "that married look," and be as resigned to spending his evenings on the hearth as the family cat.

* * *

But the man who has had the role of husband "thrust upon him" is a "married bachelor" to the end of his days.

Some men never were intended for marriage—and no matter how often they try it, it never "takes."

The "married bachelor" is filled with the carefree, irresponsible spirit of Pan—which can never be tamed by any woman. His ways, his habits, his opinions and his pastimes are not altered one jot or tittle by marriage. It rolls right off him like water off a slicker.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Choose Proper Soap for the Baby's Bath

IT is a real task to take care of a tiny baby. Nobody regrets this, of course. If there is one task in the world that is cheerfully, happily, easily done it is the care of the baby.

DR. COPELAND

The more feeble and delicate the infant and the more real the needs of the child, the more anxious the mother is to give her whole being to its welfare.

Nothing is more important than the care of the baby's skin. You know how sensitive your skin is—how it suffers in cold or extreme heat. You know how it feels to have the skin chapped. Strong soap will turn every sore spot you have into a flame of fire.

Washing the baby is a real art. Some mothers go about this matter with all the confidence in the world. But others, poor souls, are in a fever of fear that the baby may fall or be injured in some other way.

But it is not my purpose today to describe the bathing of the child. All I wish to say about this is to point out the importance of selecting a soap that does not irritate the skin of your baby.

We differ in our reactions to drugs and chemicals. One skin will accept certain applications and thrive under them. Another skin will smart and burn and become inflamed under the same application. On this account a soap must be selected that is acceptable to the baby's skin.

Too strong a soap washes away the oil of the skin. Then it is left unprotected and is sure to smart and burn in consequence.

After bathing the skin must be thoroughly dried. Moisture will leave the surface liable to chapping.

The use of powder after bathing has a scientific foundation. It guarantees perfect dryness of the skin.

A baby should not be left in wet garments. Immediate attention is important, because without it the skin will chafe and chap.

Petroleum oil has its uses as an application to the skin of the body after bathing. It should not be used on the face, but is quite all right to apply elsewhere. It is soothing and protective, too.

If the baby's skin is pimply it may be due to heavy clothing, causing excessive perspiration. This is likely to cause a rash to appear.

Another cause for skin eruption is wrong feeding. The milk mixture may not be right, or the milk itself may not be acceptable. It isn't a bad idea to change the milk supply if the skin is not clear. This simple thing may solve a problem.

Nothing is sweeter or more appealing than a clean, smiling baby. To have it attractive the skin must be perfect, and no effort is too great to make this possible.

Answers to Health Queries

K. M. Q.—I am troubled with constipation, what do you advise?

A.—Eat simple, well-cooked food. Avoid foods unduly rich in fats and starches. Drink plenty of water between meals.

H. C. Q.—What causes prickly heat? Is it harmful in any way?

A.—Hot weather and easily irritated skin produce this symptom. Keep the parts clean and use a good, antiseptic dusting powder. No.

E. C. P. Q.—What causes my face to become flushed when I become warm or embarrassed?

A.—This condition is probably due to nervousness and poor circulation. Build up your general health and this will benefit the nervous system and improve your circulation.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 17.

THE planetary aspects for this day are of rather minor portent. Although business matters may move along as usual, especially in publishing, printing, correspondence and kindred occupations, yet the emphasis may be laid on social, domestic, romantic or artistic activities. In all matters it might be well to be on guard against small deceptions or subtlety.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a probable year of routine activities, with the attention turned to domestic, social and romantic concerns, or to amusement or those enterprises of a feminine aspect. In all discretion against subtlety and deception is enjoined.

A child born on this day may be talented, versatile and accomplished and should have a fairly pleasant and happy life through its social or romantic preoccupations.

Great souls by instinct to each other turn, demand alliance and in friendship burn.—ADDISON.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl -:- Story by Lloyd Mayer -:- By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DOOdah, no less—I mean I'm Actually on the VERGE of collAPSE at this point because MOTHer and I had this TERRibly serious CONfab on the subject of DADdy this morning, my dear, because I mean she's all hot and BOTHered about the WILD way he's been caREERing ROUND since he and I've been STAG'ring forth to PARties together, do you know what I mean? Well, my dear, after making a FEW well chosen reMARKS about how disGUSTing she considered our arriving HOME at such a perVERted HOUR, and how reVOLTing she thought it was for Daddy to have invited that poisonous SAXophone player into the HOUSE at that point, she ADded that the odd oaf had been PEACEfully enSCONCED in Daddy's ROOM all MORNing, BLANDly TOOTing on this inFERNal machine, and, my dear, I've ACtually never SEEN Mother so THOROughly WRATHy in my LIFE! I mean she was SIMply LIVid and told ME to go up and tell this goofer to deSIST—can you BEAR it? So, my dear, I departed HASTily on this errand of MERcy only to discover that the benny had taken himself OFF and DADdy was responsible for these CRYPtic and luGUBrious SOUNDS emanating from his ROOM! Gosh, my dear, I NEARly had hysTERics because there he was PERCHing on a CHAIR with his HEAD wrapped up in a TOWEL, BLOWing desp'rately into this SAXophone and SWEARing he'd learn to PLAY the darn thing if it took him all YEAR! REALly, my dear, I HONestly think MOTHer could get a SWELL diVORCE on the grounds of CRUel and inHUman TREATment or something—I mean I ACtually DO!"

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

45 Buds to Make Bows Next Fall Ones Who Know Declare

IT WAS not very long ago that society folks thought they were thoroughly tired of debutante affairs, and even the buds were glad that their year, no matter how gay it had been, was over. At the close of a busy season in which as usual everything planned included the debs or honored them, and in which one couldn't talk about society happenings for a minute without mentioning the word debutante, many a member of the "400" sighed with relief that entertainments were over, and thought with satisfaction that it would be many a month before debutante matters could demand an iota of interest.

Here it is the third week in January, with the height of the season just two or three weeks past, and everyone is chatting about the exciting season we're going to have next winter, and chatting with zest at that!

And no wonder. No one could remain in a state of mind at such a prospect. Did you know that those who have knowledge of such things long before anyone else back up the rumor that there'll be no less than 45 buds in 1929?

Many dates have already been named. From December 19 to the first days of 1930 every date has been taken, I've learned. And many November days are already "taken" and quite a number of October days, too.

AMONG the list of the debutantes to be presented to society will be Harriet Webb Fickes, daughter of the Edwin S. Fickeses, of Woodland road. Harriet will come out at a tea her father and mother will give on November 2 in the family home. Harriet is abroad now, you know.

Emily Frew, daughter of the William Frews, of Devon road, will make her bow on December 30. Plans for her debut, I understand, are not yet completed.

Emily is now in Paris where she's attending Miss Schoff's School. She's expected home some time in June, I believe.

THAT Nancy Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, will be a debutante of next season I mentioned a few days ago. She'll come out, I believe, early in the fall.

And still another daughter of a Pittsburgh family long prominent in society who'll make her bow next season is Virginia Frew Wright, daughter of the Thruston Wrights, of Shady avenue. Just now Virginia and her mother are in Europe. They'll be back early in February, I've heard.

FRANCES REED, daughter of the junior James H. Reeds, of Castleman street, is also leading the list of 1929 buds. Frances is at the Spence School this winter, and she is a graduate of Dobbs Ferry, class of 1928.

OF course there couldn't be a debutante list on which Sewickley was not represented. Among the buds from that exclusive suburb who'll make their bow next fall will be Caroline Crittenden, daughter of the W. J. Crittendens.

Laura Evans, daughter of the Howard E. Evanses, of Beechwood boulevard, will finish school in June at Miss Porter's, at Farmington, Conn., and come out next season, and another prospective debutante is Elizabeth Curry, daughter of the Henry Currys, of Beechwood boulevard. Frances Johnston, daughter of the Norwood P. Johnstons, of Shady avenue, will be a sister deb of all these girls, too, I've heard.

I MIGHT mention to refresh your memory that I told you a few days ago that Margaret and Anne Rose, daughters of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, will come out at a tea dance on Friday, June 28, and that Bishop and Mrs. Alexander Mann expect to present their daughters, Margaret and Eleanor, to society.

OF course the debutantes of 1929 aren't the sole topic of social conversation. At this time of the year there's always travel news.

Did you know that the William Herrons, of Howe street, left yesterday for California? Later they will go to Honolulu.

Just reversing this travel plan, the Stewart Johnstons, of South Highland avenue, will leave soon for Honolulu. Before returning home they'll visit California.

The Albert D. Fells, of the Kenmawr Hotel, left yesterday for Ormond Beach, Fla., where they'll spend the remainder of the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. R. Neff sailed yesterday for a trip around the world.

Pitt Women Hear Reviews of Books

THE literary group of the Women's Association of the University of Pittsburgh met this afternoon in the home of the chairman, Mrs. D. R. Craig, Severn street. Two book reviews made up an interesting program. Mrs. W. M. Parrish reviewed Taylor's "Leonardo the Florentine" and Mrs. E. T. Sage, Bertrand's "Louis XVI." The hostess was assisted by her committee members, Mrs. A. E. Emerson, Mrs. C. T. Ingelder, Mrs. Parrish, Mrs. G. H. Robinson, Mrs. F. A. Rotondaro, Mrs. L. P. Sieg and Mrs. E. W. Whitehead.

THE Pittsburgh Nature Study Club will have a dinner meeting tomorrow, in the Congress of Clubs. Dr. S. H. Williams, of the University of Pittsburgh, will give an address on "Some Schoolroom Applications of Nature Study." Miss Grace Courtney, the president, will report the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which met in New York during the holidays. Miss Bernice Storey is chairman for the annual card party to be held February 16 at McCreery's, and will be assisted by Mrs. Marguerite Huff and Miss Margaret Simon.

THE last business meeting of the present administration of the Pittsburgh Girls' Club will be held at a dinner tomorrow evening, in the Columbia Bank Building. Election of officers will take place. Gymnasium and basketball have been resumed on Tuesday evenings in the North School, Eighth street and Duquesne way.

THE past matrons of Mosaic Chapter, No. 50, O. E. S. will be honored guests at its anniversary party, to be held next Wednesday evening, at Malta Hall. Miss Grace Burton is worthy matron of the chapter.

THE dramatic department of the Woman's Club of Mt. Lebanon will meet at the home of Mrs. J. B. Munger, on Monday afternoon. A one-act play will be reviewed by Miss Ellen Wilcox. Mrs. M. Shull will give a biography of Paul Green, while current events, by Mrs. C. W. Hatch, will complete the program. Mrs. F. B. Davenport, interior decorator, will give a talk on "Beauty in the Home," at a meeting of the home economics department of the club, on Wednesday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. J. S. Huey.

A FEW changes were made in the program presented yesterday at the Bellevue Literary Club's meeting. Mrs. Penn S. Spangler, of Dawson avenue, was hostess. Mrs. L. A. Chubb, director of art in the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, presented a paper on "Christ in Art" and illustrated it with stereopticon views. Mrs. J. R. Rodrigues had a paper on "The Madonna," and Mrs. J. Freeman Guy concluded the program with "Saints and Angels," all three papers furthering the club's general study of "Painting."

THE Rev. Herman Reinecke will be speaker at the Thursday Noon Club for Business Women at the First Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Solos will be sung by Mrs. Winifred Perry, accompanied by Mrs. Adalaine Merrill Biddle.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. C. D. Cooley, of Denniston avenue, on Saturday. Reservations for the luncheon are being made with Mrs. Cooley.

AT today's meeting of the Mothers' Club of the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Leith, of the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, was the speaker, and the soloist was Mrs. Dale Whitby Westphal.

Edison to Arrive In Florida Tonight

FORT MYERS, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Edison is coming back to his winter home here tonight.

Many friends will be on hand to give him a rousing welcome as he steps from his train.

Edison's laboratory has been put in readiness for his coming, and a corps of assistants will be on hand to start as early as possible on experiments designed to find a substitute for rubber.

WOMEN VOTERS OFFER METRO PLAN IDEAS

A plan for the election of five commissioners, higher salaries, a budget plan, a change in the assessment and collection of taxes and fewer elective offices are among the suggestions which the county government committee of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters presented yesterday to the Metropolitan Plan Commission for embodiment in its proposed charter.

The suggestions were presented by Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the committee, in the form of a lengthy letter.

Mrs. Miller's letter declared the League of Women Voters enthusiastically supported the Metropolitan Plan because "it would give us a more forward looking system of county government, because the system in vogue at present is obsolete, cumbersome and irresponsible to the will of the people."

Duquesne Opening Librarians Course

Duquesne University is planning to add a course in library administration to the curriculum of its College of Education for the second semester beginning January 28. Maria Gertrude Blanchard will be the instructoress in the new course. Registration for the second semester for students just graduated from high school already is opened.

Cloak Model's Suit For $100,000 Fails

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Edna Mae McCue, 31, a Kansas City cloak model, known as Mrs. Edna Fields, is in seclusion today without $100,000 which she asked from Dr. Max Rhode in a breach of promise suit. A Supreme Court jury brought in a verdict for Dr. Rhode yesterday.

Whole Earnings Go for Board, Asks Audit

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 16.—John Kokovich, of Bentleyville, has sued Mr. and Mrs. Martin Drosdik, of Bentleyville, with whom he boards, to recover the sum of $4,285, in a case with decidedly unique angles. Kokovich says he agreed to turn all his wages over to the couple, and they were to take $10 per week out of his pay for his board bill. The remainder was to be paid him when he asked for it. Kokovich wants it and the Drosdiks are not inclined to settle, he says.

N. Dakota Would Have 'American' Language

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—North Dakota would join Illinois in having a law specifically designating the language as "American" rather than "English" if a bill now before the legislature is enacted.

The "American language" has been the official language of Illinois for several years.

The resolution provides that the history "be treated from an American, and not an English viewpoint."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUERS WANT MORE MODERN NAME

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Trustees of the Anti-Saloon League of Pennsylvania, at their annual meeting voted to recommend to the national body a change in the name of the organization to one "more in keeping with a legally saloonless nation."

Those who favored the resolution, offered by the resolutions committee, argued that it was time for the organization to "get away from a negative name and adopt a positive one."

Another resolution adopted urged the federal government to continue through diplomatic channels its efforts to prevent the shipment of liquors into the United States from other countries.

These officers were elected:

The Rev. Dr. C. C. Hays, Pittsburgh, president; Rev. H. Franklin Schlegel, Harrisburg, first vice president; E. H. Beshlin, Warren, second vice president; Dr. J. H. Morgan, Carlisle, secretary; Allen Sutherland, Philadelphia, treasurer; the Rev. Dr. Homer W. Tope, Philadelphia, superintendent.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MURIEL'S LUCK

By GUY SWARINGEN.

"NO, Owen," said Muriel Ridge, "I can't marry you."

A moment later she added, "Sorry."

Owen Neal sat silent, gazing from under the top of his little car at the landscape spread below them like a map.

"Well —" Owen was a mild-eyed young man, in whom any deep emotion usually wrought a hindrance to speech. At last he said slowly: "Is it because of—Jack Milford?"

"Yes," Muriel told him frankly. "Yes, because of Jack."

"You're—going to marry him?" Owen's hurt eyes did not look at her.

"Yes, I suppose so."

"Ah! Owen was silent some seconds before he added: "Well, I guess that settles it." He pressed the starter of his car.

Owen's car was old and noisy. While it was running, its occupants could not hear each other talk. The road wound downward in tortuous curves, requiring the driver's undivided attention.

So Owen did not see the look of slightly vexed surprise which Muriel sent his way. Muriel was thinking what she would do if she were a man. Then, being a person of intelligence, she smiled at her own inconsistency, even while she puzzled over Owen's acquiescence.

As they moved downhill, Muriel fumed in a discontent which she herself did not understand. Owen had courted her five years, and this was his first proposal! It was his way of doing things. He still owned his first business, a small grocery store. He had bought this car new, and kept it until long after its trading-in value was gone.

A girl never had a more dependable friend. But if a man wanted to be more than a friend—

Her musings were interrupted by the realization that they were stopping. Vaguely she realized that the ancient car's brakes worked with smooth certainty. She had been too absorbed to notice the other car ahead of them, and now flushed as she saw it was Jack Milford's.

Milford, stooping, labored with a tire. He was a handsome man, even though his shirt was soiled and his face red. By way of contrast, a cool, lovely girl in sport blouse and knickers leaned on a fender, idly smoking a cigaret. The smooth pallor of her face, her red lips, greenish eyes and black hair made a fascinating study in contrasts.

"Need any help?" asked Owen.

"I should say so!" Milford turned eagerly, but hesitated half a second at sight of Muriel. With exaggerated carelessness Milford added: "Hello, Muriel. Have you met Miss McQueen, of the Galloping Girls Comedy Company? And meet Mr. Neal, too, Mabel."

"Eh?" Owen stared; then flushed at his own rudeness. "How do you do!" he added formally. The glance he turned on Milford held a cold resentment.

Muriel saw the look, with a thrill which she did not understand. Was it possible that she had misjudged Owen; that what she had taken for a fatal softness was only his unvarying gentle courtesy?

She did not miss the fact that Milford's gaze shifted hastily. She hardly noticed when the latter spoke to her again. For she was watching Owen work, admiring the deft, quick certainty of his movements. The comedy queen approached her with some remark, which Muriel answered mechanically.

Owen's job was soon done. Muriel, absorbed in her own conflicting impressions, felt a vague relief when they were once more coasting downhill.

"Shouldn't have stopped." Owen spoke abruptly; and it was some seconds before Muriel realized that he meant it in the way of apology. "Hope you weren't embarrassed—"

"Embarrassed?" Muriel stared. "Why should I be embarrassed?"

"Why— why—" Owen floundered in his own clumsiness. "The Galloping Girls, you know—"

Muriel's laugh stopped him. "It was lucky!" she cried. "The most fortunate thing that ever happened—seeing them together."

"L-lucky? B-but you said—"

"I know. I thought I cared for Jack; but—well, the man I love is a gentleman!"

"The man you—" This was over Owen's head, until he saw her eyes. Then he gasped: "You mean —What do you mean?"

But Owen was no talker. Besides, it was plain enough what she meant. Perilously he took a hand from the wheel. Muriel laughed, breathless but content. At least, there was no lack of vigor in his arm!

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Mamaux's Curve Ball. Old Diamond Names.
Ozarks Lure Athletes. Klem Hurries Hurlers.
Mack's Faith in Quinn. Beckman Floor Marvel.

NEW PLAYERS FOR LOCAL ICE TEAM

ANOTHER of baseball's curious twists is seen in the case of Al Mamaux, former Pirate and one-time resident of Dormont. He attributes his success in the International League in recent seasons to the same thing that caused him to slip while in the majors—tinkering with a curve. The early success of Mamaux with the Buccaneers, when he was one of the outstanding hurlers in the big show, was due to a great fast ball that had a bewildering hop. By sticking mainly to that asset, Al won 21 games against only 8 defeats in 1915, and though he lost 15 games the following year he turned in 21 victories.

Al Mamaux

In 1917 he began to wobble, and Jimmy Callahan, then manager of the Freebooters, traced the trouble to the fact that Mamaux was frequently discarding his fast ball and trying to fool the batters with what Wilbert Robinson calls "a nickel curve." "Throw that curve into the lake and stick to your fast ball," ordered Callahan. But Al never was able to regain his former effectiveness after he began to experiment with the hook. He won only two games in 1917 while losing 11, and the result was that during the following winter, Hugo Bezdek, who had succeeded Callahan as pilot here in the meantime, traded the young hurler to Brooklyn, along with Burleigh Grimes and Chuck Ward, for Casey Stengel and George Cutshaw.

AND this was all because Mamaux persisted in trying to develop a curve. Now, however, he claims that the failure of his managers to encourage him in his efforts kept him from becoming a better pitcher. He says that he did not master a good curve ball until he went into the International League, and that that is what has made him one of the most successful hurlers in the minors.

"When I was pitching in the majors nobody told me how to improve what I called my curve," Mamaux says. "When I entered the International League I made up my mind to develop a hook and kept on working at it until I did. I want to say that that's quite a league, too. I think it was faster last year than in previous seasons. There were plenty of good hitters and pitchers in the circuit and I think the International right now is one of the fastest minor leagues in the country."

THOUGH the Pittsburgh club gave up Hot Springs, Ark., several season ago as a baseball conditioning place after training there for many years, many big league players still consider it an ideal place for preliminary spring work.

One of the latest boosters of the resort in the Ozarks is Bing Miller, veteran outfielder of the Athletics. Miller is approaching 35, but barring one season, 1923, when he fell only one point short of the mark, he has batted over .300 regularly since 1922, and he says it is all due to an annual spring visit to Vapor Valley. He has notified Connie Mack that he wants to be among the Athletics sent there next month before reporting at the regular training camp.

Bing Miller

IT IS Mack's custom to ship some of his older players to Hot Springs each February for preliminary baths and workouts. This year, in addition to Miller, he will send Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Jack Quinn. The last named, who is the oldest pitcher in the majors, says his long baseball life is due to his annual custom of visiting the Arkansas spa before the training season starts. Mack, by the way, is counting on Jack to be one of the leading pitchers in the American League again next season, despite that spitballer's advanced age.

QUINN is one of the most remarkable slab figures in big league history. Though he is listed in the baseball records as nearing 45, he is said to be closer to 50, but in spite of the burden of his years he won 18 games against only seven defeats last season.

Besides he ranked sixth in his league in effectiveness, with an average of only 2.90 earned runs allowed per nine innings. The only hurlers to beat him out in the latter respect were Garland Braxton, Herb Pennock, Bob Grove, Johnny Miljus and Sam Jones. Quinn worked in 31 games and pitched a total of 211 innings.

WHAT'S in a name? If family labels mean anything in baseball the 1929 season ought to show it, for an unusual number of recruits will come to the big leagues bearing the names long familiar in the diamond sport.

The Browns will have Herb Cobb, a pitcher, from Wichita Falls, and Eddie Grimes, an infielder, from Tulsa; the Tigers, Ray Johnson, an outfielder, from Detroit; the Senators, Charley Gooch, an infielder, from Little Rock; the Indians, Roy Gardner, an infielder, from New Orleans; the Braves, Al Moore, an outfielder, from Buffalo, and the White Sox; Clarence Hoffman, an outfielder, from Sacramento. With the exception of Gooch, who is a cousin of Johnny Gooch, former Pirate catcher, the newcomers are not related to their namesakes of previous major league fame.

Bill Klem

ONE reason why Bill Klem's decision to remain as a National League umpire is pleasing to fandom in general is the fact that, aside from his ability as an arbiter, Klem hurries ball games through to completion. According to Ed Murphy, Bill once set out to learn the cause of tiresomely long games and discovered that the pitchers were to blame because they wasted too much time between deliveries. Since then, Klem has not permitted them to go through any unnecessary motions, and rarely does a game in which he officiates last as long as two hours. Bill believes that the fans do not want to watch dilatory pitchers and makes the hurlers hurry.

JOHNNY BECKMAN, basketball perennial, now with the Chicago Bruins, and still so good that in his latest game he rimmed in six field goals, has been pounding the cage courts for 25 years. He names eight hours of a sleep daily and plenty of fresh air as two of the items that have enabled him to last so long.

"How do you manage to squeeze in eight hours of sleep when you are playing so often and doing so much traveling?" Beckman was asked. "Oh, I grab that off wherever it's convenient," he replied. "I can catch up between week-ends. One Sunday about three weeks ago, when I played four games in one afternoon and evening, I fell asleep in the cab going from place to place."

BECKMAN began to play basketball in 1903 in the New York Public School League. In 1906 he joined the Parson Social Club team and graduated from that company to the St. Gabriel profes-

LONG DISTANCE TITLE FIGHT IN MAKING

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16.—Tom Kennedy, who heretofore has been known around these parts as a manager of battlers, steps forth in a new role of fight promoter and throws a "natural."

Returning from a week's stay in Las Vegas, Nev., Kennedy came out last night with a statement that on July Fourth Ace Hudkins and Mickey Walker will go 20 rounds to a decision with the middleweight championship at stake.

Neither Jack Kearns nor Walker have signed or agreed to terms, but Kearns told Kennedy to get Hudkins a $100,000 guarantee for Walker's end and he would accept. Kennedy has Hudkins' consent, the purse in escrow and will have Kearns and Walker signed within a week.

Las Vegas, scene of feverish activities now that Boulder Dam is to be built, is ready and hot for the affair. Kennedy and Dr. Roy W. Martin have settled on practically all the details and an arena to seat 50,000 persons is to be erected as soon as Kearns signs for Walker.

The fight may bring together Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns for the first confab since the famous pair split three years ago.

DISPUTE OVER WALKER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Ancil Hoffman, promoter, today was in receipt of a telegram from Jack Kearns saying that he was willing to have Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, meet Jack Willis at San Francisco on February 11 or 18. Frank Schuler, rival promoter, claims he has first call on Walker's services here and the dispute will probably be thrashed out before the state boxing commission.

LANDIS, HEYDLER MAY DEFEND FUCHS

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Announcing that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and President John Heydler, of the National League, may come to Boston as character witnesses in the Sunday baseball probes for Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, the latter arrived here from New York.

Fuchs was ready for questioning in the state investigation of the Outdoor Recreation League and for another interview by the finance commission, which is investigating alleged bribery charges.

Meanwhile Attorney General Joseph E. Warner, investigating the affairs of the Outdoor Recreation League, has reported as not having gathered sufficient evidence to warrant presentation to a grand jury.

Another conference regarding the grand jury angle will be held between the attorney general and District Attorney William A. Foley. It was declared at the State House.

Dan Carroll, light manager, star witness before the finance commission, was questioned by the attorney general's office regarding his connection with the Recreation League. Carroll was listed as having "contributed" $500 to the fund of the league. The fund was used in the pre-election campaign for the Sunday baseball bill.

LEVINSKY QUITS PRIZE RING

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Battling Levinsky, former light-heavyweight champion, has fought his last fight. He so announced after losing to Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, on a technical knockout last night. Levinsky was floored three times, twice for the count of nine, in the first 37 seconds of the first round.

"You can tell the world I'm through," Levinsky said. "A fighter is a bum when he starts and a bum when he finishes. I'm through when defeated by a boy I licked in Baltimore a short time ago. I think I'll go back to Bridgeport, Conn., and help my friend, Lou Bogash, promote fights. I sure hate to think of calling up the wife and telling her I was licked."

Levinsky won the light-heavyweight crown in 1916 from Jack Dillon. He has engaged in 350 fights since he started his ring career in 1906. He was knocked out four times, once by Dempsey, by Carpentier, by Otto Van Porat, and by Weiner last night.

A few seconds after the start of last night's fight Levinsky was knocked down for the count of four. Then he was knocked through the ropes for a count of nine. He came back and was again floored for a "nine." He attempted to go on, but Referee Charley Short stopped the fight.

Fight Results

At Youngstown—Roleaux Saguero knocked out Willie Walker, 10 rounds; Larry Madge won on foul over Dominick Profio, 2 rounds; Walter Pickard defeated Frank Monroe, 6 rounds; Al Reno knocked out Ed Litz, 1 round; Bud Avery and Jimmy Engle drew, 4 rounds.

At Lansing, Mich.—Jackie Nichols won from Roger Bernard on foul, 3 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Cowboy Eddie Anderson defeated Lou Terry, 10 rounds; Al De Rose defeated Bobby Allen, 8 rounds; Bud DeHaven defeated Billy Moore, 6 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Bert Collins defeated Walcott Langford, 10 rounds.

At Baltimore—Herman Weiner knocked out (technical) Battling Levinsky, 1 round.

At Newark, O.—Dudley Ring defeated Joe Bolehan, 12 rounds; Nordi Smith knocked out (technical) Earl Sims.

CARL ASCHMAN HONORED BY HOME TOWN

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 16.—Carl Aschman, captain and center of the W. & J. football team of the past season, and former Charleroi High School and California Teachers' College star, was honored at a testimonial banquet by the folks of his home town at the Elks' Club here last night. He was presented a cabinet radio at the conclusion of the lengthy program.

Former Gov. John K. Tener was among the speakers. Others included Tom P. Sloan, of California Teachers' College; Dr. R. M. Steele, of California Teachers' College, president of the Pennsylvania Teachers' Institute; Elmer Layden, Duquesne University coach; Attorney D. M. McCloskey, of Charleroi; Aschman, and Charles J. Doyle, Harry Keck and Havey J. Boyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Walter Urben acted as toastmaster. Fred W. Brady was master of ceremonies.

Carl Aschman, Sr., father of the football star, was among the honor guests, and Miss Theresa Aschman, a sister, was one of the soloists. Miss Ruth High and Mrs. Daniel Harris also sang. Miss Mary Gunderman and Prof. C. W. Osborne were accompanists.

Andy Kerr, W. & J. coach, was unable to attend because of an attack of influenza.

Pari-Mutuel Bill Up in New York

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Authorization of the pari-mutuel betting system on New York state race tracks is sought in a bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Breitenbach, Brooklyn, Democrat.

The measure would authorize the holding of race meetings for not more than 30 days in each year at a license fee of $6,000 a day. The state would impose a 10 per cent tax on winnings.

SONNENBERG WINS

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, recently crowned world's heavyweight champion, used his famous flying tackle hold to dispose of Frank Maloewitz, Utica, N. Y., in short order here last night. He won the first fall in 8 minutes and 30 seconds and the second in one minute and 15 seconds.

Jack Dempsey To Test Self In Workouts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey may return to the ring, but he will not decide about it until he has had some workouts here.

The Manassa Mauler is beginning to "feel pretty good down here," but he says he is "the only person who can tell whether or not my body is in trim for a fight, and until I have opportunity to test it, it is impossible to tell what I can do."

SMITH, VON ELM TIE FOR MEDAL ON COAST

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The last pot of gold in the golf tournaments of the West this winter was in sight today.

A final 36-hole drive remained before the treasure hunters of the links in the $4,000 Pasadena open tournament. Sixty-five players, representing the best scores in 18 holes of qualifying play yesterday, won the right to dig with their iron and wood for the final bit of prize money today.

MacDonald Smith, of Great Neck, Long Island, who plays in very few tournaments but seldom fails to collect, promised to sustain his reputation over this city's mountain-bordered municipal course. The tall Scot, who won a brilliant victory in the $10,000 Los Angeles open, turned in a par-smashing card of 69 in the qualifying play to tie with George Von Elm, Detroit amateur, for medal honors. Par is 71.

One stroke higher than this pair and threatening for money places were Tommy Armour, of Washington, D. C., and Tom Stevens, Los Angeles. Another bidder was John Black, of Oakland, who came in with a 71 in a tie with Bob McDonald, Chicago, and Ray Mangrew, Los Angeles.

Some of the players found the fairways of the course not wide enough and drove themselves out of the final. Among those who failed to qualify, were Leo Diegel, National Professional champion, who had a 78, one too many, and Billy Burke of Port Chester, N. Y., North and South Open champion, who came in with an 80.

Williams Resigns Athletic Job At Pitt

Frank W. (Pie) Williams, assistant director of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh, has resigned his post. His resignation has been accepted by the athletic council. He has affiliated with an automobile company here, and will assume his new duties at once.

In accepting Williams' resignation, the council thanked him for his efficient work in the last two years.

"We regret his leaving," said Director Don Harrison, "but we do not want to stand in the way of his advancement."

Pie was graduated from Pitt in 1923, having been a member of the 1920, 1921 and 1922 grid squads. He was appointed assistant director of athletics in 1927.

KINGSLEY HOUSE AND COMMUNITY MEET TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The first-half championship of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League may be decided tonight when North Side Community House invades the Kingsley House to meet the Yettermen in a playoff contest that marks the completion of the initial round of play.

Kingsley House, just one-half game behind the Young Men's Hebrew Association, can earn a tie for the premier honors by winning the decision tonight, while a defeat assures the Y. M. H. A. passers of a place in the championship playoffs at the close of the season.

The game has created unusual interest in local amateur circles and a large crowd is expected to witness the contest. After tonight's game all Institutional League teams will turn their attention to the opening of the last half Friday night when Coach Francis takes his rejuvenated Heinz House passers to Hill Top Y. M. C. A. to clash with Batchelor's Big Red machine.

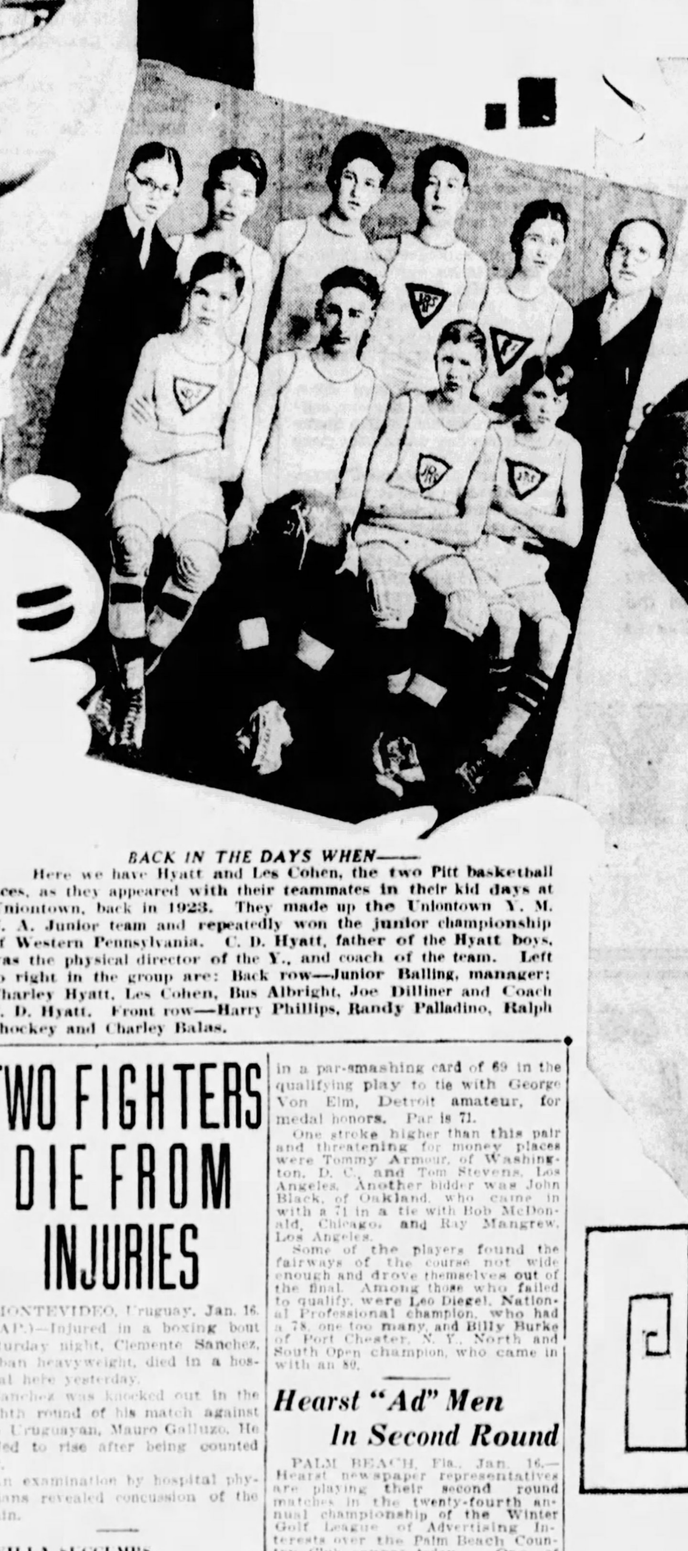
LES COHEN

Pitt star, who played with Charley Hyatt on the state championship Uniontown High School team, in addition to the Uniontown Y., Juniors, before coming to Pitt. Albright and Phillips also were members of the high school team. The former now is captain of the Pitt Junior College team at Uniontown, while Phillips is a member of the Five Horsemen team of Uniontown, one of the leaders in the independent ranks. Of the other members of the old Y. Juniors, Dilliner is in the Navy, Palladino is playing independently and Shockey and Balas have given up the sport.



BACK IN THE DAYS WHEN——

Here we have Hyatt and Les Cohen, the two Pitt basketball aces, as they appeared with their teammates in their kid days at Uniontown, back in 1923. They made up the Uniontown Y. M. C. A. Junior team and repeatedly won the junior championship of Western Pennsylvania. C. D. Hyatt, father of the Hyatt boys, was the physical director of the Y., and coach of the team. Left to right in the group are: Back row—Junior Balling, manager; Charley Hyatt, Les Cohen, Bus Albright, Joe Dilliner and Coach C. D. Hyatt. Front row—Harry Phillips, Randy Palladino, Ralph Shockey and Charley Balas.

TWO FIGHTERS DIE FROM INJURIES

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Injured in a boxing bout Saturday night, Clemente Sanchez, Cuban heavyweight, died in a hospital here yesterday.

Sanchez was knocked out in the eighth round of his match against the Uruguayan, Mauro Galluzo. He failed to rise after being counted out.

CIVILLA SUCCUMBS

PITTSBURG, Kas., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Frankie Civilla, 22-year-old Kansas City bantamweight boxer, died at Mount Carmel Hospital yesterday morning from injuries received in the second round of a fight with Steve Salina on a card presented by the Mirza Shrine Patrol, here Monday night.

Civilla's skull was fractured when he was knocked through the ropes in the second round of the fight and cracked his head on the boards of the platform outside the ring. He did not regain consciousness before his death.

Overend Is Elected Field Club President

Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Field Club, Fox Chapel road, Aspinwall, for 1929 at the annual meeting last night. C. W. Close was named vice president and John W. Carr, treasurer-secretary.

The following is a list of the Field Club board of directors: C. K. Robinson, C. W. Close, Clarence Overend, Thomas Higgins, George W. Ratcliffe, J. H. Baily, Al Diebold, George L. Franklin, G. B. Ryland, W. J. Hampton, John W. Carr, F. G. Bannerot, J. G. Farquhr, J. N. Succop, H. F. Gleason.

Giants Release Pitcher Faulkner

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Jim Faulkner, tall southpaw of the New York Giants, was released today to the Buffalo Club of the International League. Although used mostly as a relief pitcher, he flashed great twirling at times last season and turned in one two-hit performance.

Jack Scott, veteran pitcher, who was recalled from Toledo last year, brought in his signed contract.

Hearst "Ad" Men In Second Round

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 16.—Hearst newspaper representatives are playing their second round matches in the twenty-fourth annual championship of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests over the Palm Beach Country Club course today. One of them is a strong contender for the title, while the other is in the second flight.

Merrill L. Lord, one of the executives of the New York American, is opposing D. L. Hedges, of Colonia, N. J., in the title sixteen, while Rodney E. Boone, general manager of National Advertising for the Hearst group of newspapers, is playing Graham Patterson, of New York City, in the second sixteen.

R. M. Purves, of Brookline, Mass., odds-on favorite, went under, 2 and 1, before the putting of A. R. Gardner, of New York, yesterday. In the second round with Gardner in the championship flight today are: P. R. MacKinney, Essex Fields, N. J.; C. D. Weathers, Boston; J. F. O'Connell, Boston; D. L. Hedges, New York; M. Lord, Jackson Heights, L. I.; E. T. Manion, Holliston, Mass., and J. A. Travers, Boston.

May Name Ohio State Coach Today

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The athletic board of Ohio State University was to meet late today to hear Athletic Director L. W. St. John report on his efforts to find a football coach as a successor to Dr. John W. Wilce.

Opinion was practically unanimous that Sam Willaman, Wilce's assistant during the last three years, would be chosen.

Former Michigan Star Is Killed

SAGINAW, Mich., Jan. 16.—(INS.)—Roy P. Spiekerman, former football star of Michigan State College is dead today of injuries sustained in an automobile accident. He was helping a friend start his car when another car ran him down. Spiekerman was a regular tackle for Michigan State in 1923, '24 and '25, after being freshman football captain in 1922.

ZIVIC THINKS STRIBLING MAY BALK SHARKEY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

JACK ZIVIC, local welterweight boxer, who is back in training again after a long layoff, is one person who is looking for Jack Sharkey to have anything but a cakewalk in his bout with Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Fla., late next month.

"Not that I consider Stribling a great fighter," Jack said yesterday, "but he has a knack of making his opponents look bad. If he finds he cannot hold his own with Sharkey early in the fight, you may depend on him to keep Sharkey from fighting his fight. And, if he gets it into his head to carry the fight to Sharkey, he may even beat the Bostonian."

Zivic has seen Sharkey in almost all of the latter's important fights and also has seen Stribling perform several times.

In the ballyhoo for the Stribling battle, the fact that Sharkey faces a test before then with K. O. Christner, of Akron, knockerout of Knute Hansen, in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night of next week, is being generally overlooked. Sharkey will find Christner a tough customer on the receiving end and a dangerous right hand puncher. Christner can "take it" until the cows come home and he always is swinging back. Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, breaks into the big time in a bout with Hansen on the same card with Sharkey and Christner.

THE A. A. U. finds itself in another of its silly controversies through attempting to exercise its autocratic rule in the Big Ten, as a result of which the National Amateur Athletic Federation is on record with a resolution backing up the Big Ten as opposed to the A. A. U.

The fireworks started when the A. A. U. refused to sanction a swimming meet last week between Northwestern University and the Chicago A. A. on the ground that some of the collegians had competed in an unsanctioned meet last summer. As a result, the Chicago A. A. called off the meet.

Just how this stand of the A. A. U. jibes with, for instance, the action of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., in declaring certain local basketball players pros one season, and amateurs the next is a bit vague, but at least it is as consistent as most of the rulings of the A. A. U., many of which border on the ridiculous.

THE squabble between the A. A. U. authorities and the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission regarding whether or not bouts staged by the A. A. U. come under the control of the commission, will be decided in the present session of the Legislature. State Senator Frank Harris is moving for a clarification of the code that will exempt amateur shows from the 5 per cent. State tax, and the onus of using commission officials, while a counter proposition will come from a Philadelphia member seeking to rewrite the law to make it plain that amateur bouts shall be regulated by the commission. Personally, I do not see why the amateurs should not be taxed the same as the professionals where admissions are charged. Somebody gets the gate receipts—and it is not the fighters, who box for glory and watches and medals.

CRUTCHFIELD NEW TRAINER OF RODGERS

Jackie Rodgers, the Negro bantamweight boxer of the North Side, has a new trainer. He is none other than Kid Crutchfield, former local Negro middleweight, who is giving the little fellow the benefit of his experience in the ring during the latter's preparation for his 10-round battle with Howard Mayberry, of Donora, in the Moose Temple ring Friday night.

The card has been completed by Promoter Francis Flynn for his inaugural show with the exception of the opening bout. He has yet to land a suitable opponent for Sammy Paris, Jewish bantamweight, of the Hill district, who will be turning professional in this event, and will close a match for him today.

Teddy Welch and Jimmy Belmont will box the semi-final and Mike Hogan and Johnny Smackey the second preliminary.

All of the boxers on the card will weigh in at Flynn's gymnasium at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

HARGRAVES IN RETURN GO

McKeesport fans who saw Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, fight their six-round bout in the Palisades roller rink some time ago are looking for a spectacular battle when they meet again in the main bout of the double windup card in the same ring tomorrow night. Hargraves took the former bout on short notice and put up a great fight. Young Saylor, of Charleroi, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, near-middleweights, will box the other 10-round number.

Dan Billick, Duquesne bantamweight, meets Andy Sable in a six-round bout at Ossining, N. Y., Friday night.

Phil Kaplan and Babe McGorgary box one of the 10-round bouts on the Jimmy Braddock-Leo Lomski card in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. Natto Tassi and Charley Belanger will box the other 10-round event.

BASS MEETS RIVERS

Benny Bass, fresh from his victory over Davy Abad in Philadelphia Monday night, boxes Joe Rivers, of Kansas City, in St. Louis tomorrow night. Otto Von Porat meets Tom Sayers at Davenport, Ia., the same night.

Promoter Tom Andrews, of Milwaukee, is trying to close a return match between Joey Sangor and Armando Santiago at Milwaukee January 28. Santiago recently knocked out Sangor in two rounds in Chicago.

Profio Loses on Foul In Youngstown Bout

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 15.—(AP.) Dominick Profio, of Pittsburgh, lost on a foul to Larry Madge, of Cleveland, in the second round of their scheduled six-round bout here last night. An examination after Madge had been counted out from a body blow revealed the fact that he had been fouled and the referee's decision was reversed.

Rocco Saggero, Cuban light-heavyweight, knocked out Willie Walker, Negro, of New York, in the seventh round of the main bout. Walker recently knocked out Jack Gross in Philadelphia.

Frank Monroe, of Pittsburgh, lost to Walter Pickard, of Youngstown, in six rounds and Al Reno, of Youngstown, knocked out Ed Litz, of Warren, O., in 12 seconds, while Bud Avery and Jimmy Engle, local bantams, fought a four-round draw.

Homestead Grays Join Big League

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The American Negro Baseball League, with clubs in six eastern cities, has been organized.

Edward Bolden, Philadelphia, manager of the Hilldale club, was elected president; James Keenan, New York, vice president; W. Rollo Wilson, Philadelphia, secretary, and George Rossiter, Baltimore, treasurer.

Members of the new circuit are the Homestead Grays, of Pittsburgh; Hilldale and the Cuban Stars, both of Philadelphia; the Bacharach Giants, Atlantic City; Baltimore Black Sox and the Lincoln Giants, New York.

sionals, of New York. Then followed a long engagement with Kingston in the New York State League. In 1915-16-17 Johnny was in the Penn State circuit and in 1918 joined the world famous Celtics. He remained with them until 1926, when he went to Baltimore, shifting to Chicago the following season.

Some one has figured that in 25 years Beckman has played an average of 100 games a year, or a total of 2,500. Allowing 40 minutes for each game, that would amount to 1,667 hours of service. Much is heard about fighters such as Jack Britton and Johnny Dundee, who have engaged in more than 500 ring battles. It sounds big, but when you average the bouts at 12 rounds, or 36 minutes each, the total is only 18,000 minutes or 300 hours. Quite different from 1,667 hours.

Odie Cleghorn

ONE or two new faces may be seen in the lineup of the Pittsburgh hockey team before the present season ends. Manager Odie Cleghorn may send a representative of the local club all the way to Winnipeg to sign the amateur prospect reported some time ago as being sought. The boy formerly was a team mate of Blair, the scoring ace of the Toronto team last winter. He is touted as being the best defense player in the Northwest. The Pittsburgh club, it is understood, also has the inside track for the services of one of the leading amateur players in Montreal. He plays a wing position and is recommended as being an uncommonly good shot.

The fight for leadership in Section II of the City Senior League in basketball continued to rage fiercely after yesterday's battles, in which both Oliver and Perry High schools, aspirants to the throne, carried off victories. The day also was marked by the first downfall of the season of Peabody High School, which has been setting the pace in Section I.

Peabody, Fifth Avenue and South are deadlocked for the leadership in Section I, with two games won and one lost, while Oliver and Perry, still unbeaten in three engagements, reign supreme in Section II.

Oliver had a tough time advancing yesterday. It barely eked out a 28-27 win over Carrick High; Perry swamped Langley under a 36-19 score.

South's victory over Peabody, 35-28, was something of a surprise in that group, and particularly so because the victors led most of the way.

South Hills held on to its third-place rung in Section II by trouncing Allegheny Vocational, 38 to 20.

Ralston proved tough for Fifth Avenue High, and the former titlists barely won, the outcome being 25 to 20.

Schenley High suffered its first setback at the hands of Allegheny in a nip-and-tuck affair, the margin of victory being a single point in the 28-27 setto.

RICKARD and the RING

By JACK DEMPSEY,
World's Greatest Ring Idol

Tex Liked Dramatic Effect

THE dramatic always appealed to Tex Rickard. Time and again I've seen him get the greatest kick out of building up a vital bit of news on the sporting writers. He always developed it carefully, and sprang it when it would have the greatest dramatic effect.

He would have made a great editor, because he knew exactly what was news, and what wasn't. He would have made good in the theater, too, because of his sense of drama.

All of his big matches were made in the same way. When he signed Gene Tunney to meet me the first time he did it quietly, and let nobody on the outside know anything about it. It wouldn't have suited him if the news got out just then.

What did he do but hire a special train to take the New York newspapermen out to St. Louis to see Gene put his name on another contract. That attracted a lot of attention, didn't it? Tex figured that most of the theatrical stuff had to be centered around Tunney at that time, and he certainly succeeded in doing it.

Jack Dempsey.

He was always figuring on how to make a colorless story dramatic, or get a drab sort of fighter surrounded with romance. By doing those things he made the public talk, and that built up interest. Yet, it didn't make any difference how much he turned the spotlight on somebody else, he could never get out of it himself.

Tex was born for it, and liked it even though he was the least boastful fellow you can imagine.

When he went after the Johnson-Jeffries fight it looked as though the thing was all sewed up, and that he didn't have a chance. Of course, that was before my fighting time, but Tex often chuckled about it with me.

Talked With Cash

"I blew into Pittsburgh, where Johnson was in vaudeville and loaned him $2,500 because he was broke, as usual. Jack promised to fight for me, and I went on to New York, where Jeffries and his manager, Sam Berger, were staying. They had arranged with Jack Gleason to accept his bid of $100,000, but I had Johnson for my ace in the hole, and offered $101,000 for the fight. There were a lot of other bids, too. We went over to Jersey City to open the bids. Most of them contained certified checks with a lot of 'ifs' and 'ands' on the back of them.

"I had stuck 20 $1,000 dollars bills in with my bid. Jack, I've been around a lot of places and never saw the time yet when money didn't make a greater impression than a check. The eyes of those fellows just about popped out of their heads. Johnson—he always was a kid, anyway—couldn't keep from fondling those bills. The sight of that cash had such a tremendous effect that the bout was awarded to me."

Wasn't that just like Tex Rickard? He was shrewd, and knew just how the crowd would act when that money was shown. More than that, he liked the dramatic effect of it. It gave him a great kick to see them grouped around the table, staring at the money and at him.

Yet, all his theatrical stuff had a reason behind it. He didn't just do those things for the effect he created. They were all calculated to get him what he wanted. But, if it gave him a kick so much the better.

Born Winner

Tex didn't have to go into the fight game to make money. He was born with the knack. No matter what he did he couldn't have missed being a winner. In this game though, he saw opportunities that were nowhere else. Boxing was a trifling thing, really, until Tex made it into big business.

When he had to fight prejudices, build vast arenas and marshall small armies to handle the crowds that poured in—then he was in his glory. When he came in to my dressing room before the Carpentier fight he was so tickled at having put it over on a scale no one had ever dreamed of before that you could just see it shining through the placid expression on his face.

I don't think he watched that fight very closely. The pictures of those thousands of people was enough for him. Maybe he was thinking of the $70,000 gate he took in at the Gans-Nelson fight and comparing it with the $1,700,000 taken in here—and dreaming of the day when he would double this one. He would have done it had he lived, too. He came close to it when I fought Tunney in Chicago. They can say what they want about the boxing game, but Tex would have shown them a $5,000,000 gate had it been in the books for him to go on. We had talked over plans for the future, and he was sure that he could surpass all his previous efforts.

CHICAGO A. C. CUTS TRACK ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The Chicago Athletic Association, for more than 30 years one of the country's leaders in competitive track and field athletics, has disbanded its team and will give up the sport, Sheldon Clark, chairman of the athletic committee, has announced.

Swimming and ice hockey will be continued at present, according to Clark, but there will be no more track due to the lack of interest on the part of the members.

The passing of the association from track and field sports takes one of the pioneer club teams out of competition. For a period of 14 years—1906 to 1921—the club put a track squad on the field that was practically unbeatable. During that period it took 14 outdoor and a like number of indoor Central A. A. U. championships and several national titles.

Included in its list of athletes were Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., who won the national all-around championship in 1914, 1916 and 1918. In 1917 Harry Goelitz, a teammate, won the honors. Laddie Meyers, the pole vaulter, Alva Martin, famous middle distance runner and Joe Loomis, competed under the colors of the C. A. A.

Doc Darwent, coach of the track team, will be retained as director of athletics.

Braddock K. of C. hall tonight in the only game scheduled in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League.

Eddie Ritzel, Duquesne Light, is the leading scorer in the Philadelphia Company League having scored 22 field goals and 3 fouls for a total of 47 points. Gibson, Equitable Gas, is next in line with 32 points.

The Loendis will meet the Goldensons in a return battle at Pythian hall tomorrow night. The South Siders defeated the Hill District team in the first game and will be out to make it two in a row. This is the final of a two-game series between the two clubs.

The Miele-Franchinas, fresh from their victory over the Rauhs, will attempt to add the league-leading Duquesne Lafayettes to their list of victims tonight when they clash in a County loop battle at Columbus Temple.

Greenleaf Adds To Lead in Match

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Ralph Greenleaf won both blocks of his 1,500-point pocket billiard match with Charles Seaback and leads his rival today by more than 150 points. The point score stands: Greenleaf, 593; Seaback, 345.

DUKE TRACK SMOKER

Final arrangements have been completed for the Duquesne University benefit boxing show to be held tomorrow evening at the Pittsburgh Lyceum. The affair is to be held to obtain winter training quarters for the track team. Eight bouts are carded.

U. P.S ARE IN SECOND PLACE QUINTS IDLE TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

BY the margin of a single point, in a ball game which it should have won by a dozen, Westminster College's varsity basketball team nosed into second place in the district rating, one game ahead of Pitt. The Titans defeated a crippled Allegheny quintet 27-26 at Meadville last night.

Westminster didn't look so good winning, and at the same time Allegheny didn't look so bad losing. The Methodists were forced to battle the experienced Blue and White passers minus the services of their only veteran, Chuck Bair. Outscored 15 to 10 during the first half, the Meadvillians rallied in the closing minutes of the ball game, checking Westminster's Delahunty-led attack and wound up within a point of tying things up as the game ended.

Dennison and Garback, Allegheny's freshmen stars, are as capable a combination as will be found on any district five.

As a result of last night's triumph, the three leading teams in the district and the figures are as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
West Virginia	4	0	1000
Westminster	3	0	1000
Pitt	2	0	1000

REST PERIOD AHEAD

There isn't a whooping thing doing in the way of collegiate action tonight. Tomorrow will be another off day, but on Friday, Pitt and West Virginia, Westminster and Geneva and Allegheny and Grove City will stir things up.

The Panther-Mountaineer contest out in the Stadium Pavilion takes first rank. If Pitt wins, the locals will take first place in the district and in the Big Four, provided Geneva is able to defeat Westminster at Beaver Falls. Otherwise, the Carlson-trained tossers will be forced to take a back seat while the Titans roam to the fore.

Geneva has high hopes of turning in a victory and of becoming the first team in the section to stop Westminster. Covenanter morale was boosted to no little extent by the decisive triumph scored at Waynesburg, Monday night. Ken Loeffler has a well drilled team, with one of the most accurate passing attacks in the section.

Allegheny, on the form displayed against the Titans last night, figures to beat Bob Thorn's Grove City team. If Bair is able to get back into the lineup, I think Allegheny will take Bob's club for certain. The lineup:

Westminster—27.		Allegheny—26.
Delahunty	F.	Ellis
O'Donovan	F.	Dennison
Rice	C.	Conn
T. Lewis	G.	Garback
Avery	G.	Berger

Field goals—Delahunty 3, Rice 3, Lewis 2, O'Donovan, Dennison 4, Garback 4, Berger. Fouls—Westminster, 9 out of 15; Allegheny, out of 14. Substitutions: Westminster—Crowell for Rice, Zelenski for Lewis, Fisher for Avery, Kocheran for Delahunty, Allegheny — Moon for Conn, Lane for Ellis, Fighiny for Moon, Massine for Lane. Referee—Paul Fitting, Erie.

FROTH

H. Camins, the well known married man, is kicking about his light bills.... "They are not light enough, "wails H. C.... This Westminster ball club is going to take a sweet sock on the chin one of these nights.... If that club ever goes bad, look out.... Better get out to the Stadium early Friday night if you want a good seat.... Looks like the first sell-out of the season.... And don't think the game is a setup.... It's the same sort of a setup as a pair of duecess wired.... Two of anything will beat 'em.... and West Virginia has Taylor and Little Sleepy.... Pie Williams figures selling cars is easier than selling that Studium.... To the Folks at plenty per sell.... Hold it.

CATHOLIC HIGH WINS

Dick Schrading's Central Catholic High School team was extended to beat St. Mary's of the Mount High School five on the latter's floor yesterday, 15 to 11, in a Catholic High School League game.

Bucs Rank High In Association Averages

The work of a number of Pirates and former Pirates featured the batting feats of the American Association during the past season, according to official figures given out today.

Outfielder Adam Comorosky, who was farmed out to Indianapolis, hit for .357 before being recalled. Commy took part in 89 games.

Emil Yde, who pitched good ball for the Hoosiers; Reb Russell and Herman Layne, of the same team, and Ralph Michaels, Etna boy with the Kansas City club, all batted better than .300.

Bobby Veach, erstwhile Detroit star, led the league with a mark of .382.

Local Sportsman Leads in Shoot

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 16.—Norwood Johnston, of Pittsburgh, led a large field of trapshooters here in a weekly shoot preparatory to the big twenty-second annual midwinter handicap which starts Monday. Johnston tied with two other shooters at 100 targets, breaking 97 with a handicap of six, and shot 25 straight on the shootoff.

Don't Swallow All Reports Of Rip-Snoting Prosperity.

By B. C. FORBES

OPTIMISM is admirable, but the widespread over-painting of our current prosperity has its drawbacks.

It is breeding dissatisfaction among many workers, among many small merchants, among many tradesmen, among many sales forces, even among executives.

They contrast their own nothing-to-brag-about condition with the record-breaking prosperity they read so much about.

RIP-SNORTING prosperity is not nearly as general as commonly portrayed. The truth is that at least half of our industries count themselves fortunate if they hold their own; that bankruptcies among small concerns have been terrifically numerous; that there are more workers than jobs in a great many places.

But we have been taught to focus our attention almost entirely upon the industries which are booming. Ten times more is written about the record-breaking sales of automobiles than about the long-continued depression in textiles. The wonderful activity in steel is featured far more than the poor condition in the coal industry. Much is said about the gain in chain store sales, but little about the unsatisfactory state of the lumber industry. The electric industry's prosperity is commented upon much oftener than the continued disorganization in the oil industry.

Broadly speaking, most luxury industries and trades are doing well, but necessities in many cases are sluggish, with profit margins unsatisfactory.

MISLED into believing that everything in the land is booming gloriously, a pathetic number of individuals write letters to this column complaining that they have found it utterly impossible to get a share of the wealth everybody else apparently is rapidly accumulating. Salesmen with organizations that are doing only moderately well are fretfully asking whether they should not switch into one of the lines in which everybody is getting rich. Not a few executives, finding the going ordinary enough, are dissatisfied and disposed to look around for a more glittering position.

UNQUESTIONABLY the stock market has been more responsible than any industry for the discontent and the misconception concerning what is what.

Admittedly, far more individuals than ever before have made at least paper profits on stocks. So easy has it proved to make money through stock speculation that lots of mortals have reached the conclusion that the old-fashioned virtues of hard work, earnest planning, frugal living and the saving of money dollar by dollar and week by week are no longer worth practicing except by boobs, the smart thing now being to dive headlong into the sea of speculation and be carried by the current to shores paved with gold.

Just how many people are neglecting their daily duties, wholly or partly, in order to follow closely the stock ticker nobody can estimate accurately, but the writer has seen enough in brokers' offices in New York and elsewhere to know that the number is disquietingly large.

THE phenomenal rise in many stocks naturally has created the impression that the nation is prosperous beyond anything ever known before.

This raises the question in the minds of thoughtful persons, "what would be the effect of a decline in stock prices to anywhere near the levels formely regarded as normal?" Would the effect be sentimental only? Or would it cause an immediate curtailment of luxury and other expenditures? Would it hurt business? Would it have a harmful effect upon employment?

The glib reply given by stock market bulls is that it is sheer nonsense even to think that such a thing could possibly happen. Why, we are now in an entirely new era. America has become the kingpin of nations; therefore, everybody throughout the world is eagerly bidding for American stocks. How, then, can quotations for them do anything but go on rising, they ask?

HERE are sentences from a letter just sent by one New York Stock Exchange firm to all its clients:

"It is our opinion that the market is in an era of nervous uncertainty. That condition—largely a state of mind—will continue with variations during January and February. In the latter part of February will come preparation for income tax payments in March.

"We would advise having a wide margin factor of safety in accounts now and a fairly liquid condition on or before March 1. Notwithstanding our confidence in the industrial future of this country, we believe that the international struggle for gold reserves—which shows that Europe has gained in gold while we are losing—is certain to find reflection in the stock market."

POWERFUL stock manipulators may prove able to send quotations higher for a time. But one day they will reach the end of their tether—particularly their borrowing tether. Every sensible business man should keep this possibility strictly in mind.

Meanwhile, although it is happily true that general conditions throughout this country are thoroughly sound, record-breaking prosperity is not the lot of all industries or of all individuals. If you are doing moderately well, you have reason to be satisfied.

Stock Prices Rally — Local Market Active

STRONG BUYING LIFTS STOCK QUOTATIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP.)—Strong buying support came into the stock market today and prices rallied in impressive fashion under the leadership of the chemical shares. Some irregularity developed at the opening as a result of selling based on the recent stiffening in call money, but offerings were well absorbed, and a broad upward movement was under way in the early afternoon.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and held steady throughout the early trading at that figure, despite the calling of about $15,000,000 in loans. Time money was in good demand at the recent high rates, and the supply was not very abundant. New York banks apparently are making a determined effort to either reduce their loans on securities collateral or hold them to their present limits.

There was not much in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. The weekly steel trade reviews showed little change in that industry. Iron Age reported that "the iron and steel market is in a trough between buying movements, but that production has made further slight gains." It also points out "if producers have any cause for concern, it is because shipping orders for certain products, particularly automobile steels, are lagging."

Merger and dividend rumors provided the background for the advance in the chemical issues. Allied Chemical, which broke 13 points yesterday and was one of the weakest stocks on the list, soared 16 points today to a new high record at 278 on talk of an early stock split-up. Mathieson Alkali soared nearly 15 points to a new high at 195 to the accompaniment of rumors that DuPont interests were accumulating the stock. Borden's, which is also slated for a stock split-up this spring, jumped 5½ points to a new high at 192½.

Rossia Insurance, Vanadium Steel, General Electric, Continental Motors, Union Carbide, A. M. Byers, Liquid Carbonic and Commonwealth Power all sold 4 to 5 points higher, and United States Steel common, Union Pacific, American Telephone, International Telephone, Pan-American B and American International were among the many issues to sell 3 points or more above yesterday's final quotations.

Wright Aeronautical turned heavy after an early outburst of strength, dropping from 281 to 274.

TO THE HOLDERS OF FIRST MORTGAGE, FIFTY YEAR, SIX PER CENT GOLD COUPON BONDS OF INDEPENDENT BREWING COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH DATED FEBRUARY 9TH, 1905, AND SECURED BY MORTGAGE OF INDEPENDENT BREWING COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH TO THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE, DATED FEBRUARY 9th 1905:

Notice is hereby given that The Colonial Trust Company, Trustee under mortgage of Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh, dated February 9th, 1905, and recorded in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in Mortgage Book Vol. 1170, page 583, will receive tenders in writing through its Trust Department at its office No. 317 Fourteenth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, until twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on Wednesday January 30, 1929, of so many of the bonds secured by said mortgage as may be purchased from a fund of approximately $32,613.62 held by the said The Colonial Trust Company, Trustee, pursuant to provisions of that supplemental mortgage of Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh to said The Colonial Trust Company, Trustee, dated the 28th day of July, 1909, and recorded in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in Mortgage Book Vol. 1392, page 404.

The right is reserved by the undersigned to reject any and all tenders, in whole or in part, if funds are insufficient to accept all tenders in full, to apportion tenders submitted in such manner as to the Trustee may seem best.

Payment will be made to the holders whose tenders are accepted only at the office of the Trustee upon delivery of bonds.

THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY,
Trustee.

By JOHN W. CHALFANT,
Vice President in Charge of Trusts.

SOUTH PENN OIL 'MELON' SHOWS MORE SALES

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE announcement of a 50 per cent stock dividend by the South Penn Oil Company paves the way for the distribution of a larger share of earnings to stockholders. The stock is now on a regular annual dividend basis of $2 a share. Two extras of 25 cents each were also paid in 1928. Assuming that the present regular dividend rate will be continued, the return in 1929 will be equivalent to $3 a share on the existing stock.

The steady advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil has been the principal factor in improving 1928 earnings, which will show a very substantial gain over the previous year. With the price of the top grade of Pennsylvania crude at $4.10 a barrel, South Penn is getting $1.30 a barrel more than at the beginning of 1928.

THE importance of this high price, secured after seven consecutive advances, can be realized by the fact that every increase of 25 cents a barrel means over $600,000 a year to the company on its own production alone. This does not take into consideration the profits received from appreciation in inventories of purchased oil. South Penn buys all of the oil run by the New York Transit, Southwest Pennsylvania and Eureka Pipe Lines. It resells this to refiners after adding a handling charge.

Even though 1927 was a bad year for the oil companies, South Penn earned $1,727,774, which was equivalent to $2.16 a share on the 800,000 shares of $25 par capital stock. This compared with $3,152,916 or $3.94 a share in 1926.

THE fine lubricating properties of Pennsylvania oil have been the principal factor responsible for the rising price. Through control of the Pennzoil Company, South Penn has been increasing its distribution of lubricating oils. Pennzoil has been advertising widely and has secured a national market for its product. The growth of airplane travel has also broadened the demand for high grade lubricants.

The Penn Mex Fuel Corporation, which last year paid $1.30 a share in dividends has continued to show good profits from its operations in Mexico. South Penn has a 55 per cent stock interest in the company and received $440,000 as its share in the dividends.

PENN MEX now has a production of about 8,000 barrels a day. Further dividends may be expected during the next year, but they are not likely to be declared for several months. The stock was never placed on a regular dividend basis.

Voluntary reduction of approximately one-third in the lawful rate of interest for small loan companies in Pittsburgh, cutting the charge from 3½ per cent to 2½ per cent, effective Tuesday, January 15, was announced yesterday by two companies. These are the Popular Finance Corporation and the Guarantee Loan Company.

A saving of thousands of dollars annually for borrowers of sums ranging from $10 to $300 will be effected, A. H. Thale, manager of the Guarantee company, said, and the reduction is a direct result of efficient and modern methods of operation. The company has operated in the state since 1900.

UNDER the provisions of the present small loan laws in the state, such companies as this are permitted to charge for loans at the rate of 3½ per cent per month, a charge arrived at by social and financial research covering a period of many years.

In this study of small loan conditions, it was concluded that, considering the expense of operation, the value of capital and the clerical and administrative work necessary, 3½ per cent was a just and logical fee on the unpaid balance, and allowed a fair margin of profit.

STEEL OUTPUT INCREASES

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The Iron Age says:

The iron and steel market is in a trough between buying movements, but production has made further slight gains. Pig iron melters are covered for most of their first quarter requirements, and in various lines of finished steel generous specifying against fourth quarter contracts precludes the need for new purchases at this time.

Commitments in sheets, strips and wire products are equal to four to six weeks' output. Rail mill operations have improved and tin plate production has reached virtually a capacity rate.

Shipping orders for certain products, particularly automobile steels, are lagging, releases from motor car builders have not improved as rapidly as had been expected, and it now seems clear that automobile output will not get into full swing until after the annual shows. Production at Chicago was 88 per cent, compared with 87 a week ago, and the average in the Greater Pittsburgh area was 85 per cent, compared with 86 to 86.

Heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh rose another 25 cents to $19.25 a ton.

New Skyscraper For Wall Street

Y.W.C.A. Budget Drive Is Worthy of Support

A worthy purpose is behind the campaign to raise $135,000 as the annual budget of the Young Women's Christian Association, of which $18,144 had been pledged at the first luncheon report. It is a modest sum that is asked in behalf of a valuable institution that does much for young women.

Properly, we do a great deal for our boys and our young men. Perhaps young women, less in need, as a whole, of such influences as the Y. W. C. A. provides, and less inclined to recreational activities that appeal to her brothers, does not need as much attention as the dominant male, and that is something that is highly to her credit. But to say that she doesn't need as much does not mean that she needs not any, for she does.

She needs her sphere and her own kind of recreation and communal contact with her own sex. She needs opportunity, encouragement and latitude for the expansion of character.

Hence the small amount asked to supply her with some of the things she needs should be given with great willingness and promptness.

Solution Is Appearing In Problem of Garbage

After thorough study of the garbage disposal question by a special committee a report has been submitted to Council making certain recommendations. The report was opposed to erection of a city-owned garbage incineration plant, and in accepting it, President Malone of Council remarked that no member of Council has favored a municipal incinerator and many protests against the proposal had been received from citizens.

Among things considered in the study of the question were recommendations made by the Allied Boards of Trade, and some of these likely will be followed. It is the intent to have bidding for contracts become more competitive, if possible, so specifications are to be carefully worked out, it is said, in line with recommendations of the special committee.

It is cheering to note that the committee finds, after comparison with costs in other cities, that cost of garbage disposal here is not excessive.

This has long been a vexing problem, but Council appears aking the proper method of finding the correct solution

Col. Friedsam's $200,000 Picture

That Sum Was Paid for This Painting. It's Size 45 by 35 Inches.

COL. MICHAEL FRIEDSAM, ARDENT AND DISCRIMINATING ART COLLECTOR, PAID $200,000, AND ACCORDING TO ABLE ART COLLECTORS, HE GOT A BARGAIN, A PICTURE MOST DIFFICULT TO SECURE, AND UNIQUE.

Called "The Allegory of the New Testament," this painting will puzzle those not familiar with the allegorical ideas of a Dutch painter of the early seventeenth century. The reader may work out for himself the ideas and purposes that inspired the old artist, as he made this lady with her foot on , the open book of Scriptures before her, and back of nting of the Crucifixion.

tail of a snake in the foreground is interesting. You ilate about that.

The important thing is that Michael Friedsam, like other Americans that have been successful, brings to this country the finest samples of European art, old and new.

Col. Friedsam's associate, the late Benjamin Altman, spent his life and a huge sum of money collecting magnificent paintings and works of art, dying, gave them to the City of New York, where his commercial genius created the fortune that bought them.

You may see the Altman collection in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and you should be careful not to miss the magnificent example of the work of Benvenuto Cellini. By far the finest in this country.

Without color, and with rather crude methods of reproduction, necessary in presses printing 100,000 newspapers in an hour, it is not possible to convey the artistic values that impelled Col. Friedsam to pay $200,000 for the privilege of looking at this picture occasionally. At 6 per cent that means $12,000 a year, to look at one painting. But, to Col. Friedsam, it's worth it.

Tales That Are Told

Farther Still

AN Irishman and a Scot found themselves seated side by side at a certain club dinner, and each tried to impress the other with the distance he had traveled.

After much discussion the Irishman admitted that he had sailed the Seven Seas amongst other trifles, and that he had been to the end of the world.

"An' what did ye see there?" asked the Scot.

"Sure, and there was a great big wall reaching to the sky, me bboy," replied the other.

"Ah, weel," said the Scot, "it's a peety ye didna look owre yon wall, for I was behind it fishin', ye ken."

Mustard

THEY were very rich, and it was the first time they had stayed at so splendid a hotel.

The wife had tried hard to coach her husband in all that he should do and all that he should not do.

Just as he was about to help himself to a lump of sugar his wife whispered:

"Don't use your fingers, Alf. What are the tongs for? Ain't you got no sense at all?"

"Oh, orl right!" retorted her spouse impatiently. "But 'ow was I to know the bloomin' stuff was 'ot?"

No Wonder

ONCE a year Grandfather Gagge used to tell the story of the part he played in the Civil War. Usually this happened when the family were gathered together.

"Yes," continued the old chap, as he reached the favorite part of his story, "the doctor had me lifted up and carried me over to an ammunition wagon and——"

"Granddad," interrupted the smallest member doubtfully, "you don't mean an ammunition wagon. You mean the ambulance wagon."

"No," insisted the old man; "I was so full of bullets that they decided I ought to go in the ammunition wagon."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

CIVILIZATION and cheap motor cars are making the world all alike all over, the travelers say. One of the institutions that is getting it in the neck is the harem. Why, they say even a sultan nowadays has to make himself popular with the young voters by taking only just the very minimum of wives. But there are still a few sheiks out in the back country that take on pretty good three-ring harems, I'm told. One of these guys had a wedding lately, and the big minister that was performing the ceremony says to him: "You promise to take care of these girls the best you can?"

"Sure," he says.

"You promise to obey this man and be mighty nice to him as long as you live?"

"We sure do!" they said.

"Say," says the minister, "We've got to have louder responses from you girls back there in left field or you will sure be left out in the cold when the ceremony is over!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"I'M just drifting," she cried. "nothing seems to matter."

You've cried that, too—haven't you? This letter will seem like a letter from your own secret life:

Dear Miss Robinson:

Help me if you can. I am 22 years old and seem to have come to the stage where nothing matters any more. I have even lost interest in the man with whom I have been going for the past year. I am drifting—drifting—nothing pleases me—and I don't seem to care what the future holds. I don't go out very much—it doesn't seem worth the effort. I try to get enthusiastic over things but can't even make a bluff at it. Please write something to knock me out of this state and I'll always remember you.

EDNA.

Drifting—

Every so often all lives come to that pass. Then we're terrified. We think that everything has stopped—that we're failures. But we're not.

It's natural for life to pause—lie fallow for a space—just as a field lies fallow between seasons.

The field is sown. The seeds sprout, sending their roots deep into the rich soil, sucking greedily the strength from the soil. Presently there is the abundant harvest. Then the earth lies bare under the autumn rain. The earth is tired. It has been temporarily exhausted. It has given of its stored strength. Now for some months it will rest and gradually, during that resting time, its strength will be restored.

Human clay must also rest.

Rest is a part of the cycle of growth of a man as well as of a field.

We have our seed time and harvests. We receive impressions as a field receives seeds. And presently life rises to a harvest time. Then the tide of growth recedes. We can receive no more impressions—we can bear no more fruit—we must lie fallow until we are ready for another period of growth.

It is as necessary to rest properly as it is to work properly.

And there is a great art in resting properly.

Learn how to lie fallow.

When next your life falls into a "drifting" period do not be frightened or discouraged or rebellious. Accept that season quietly. Forget your own progress for a while—your own self. Open the soil of your spirit to the sun and the wind and rain and the stars of experience—letting all that happens have its way with you, but not trying to happen yourself.

Do not try to make decisions during a fallow time—do not fret or fuss. Be still! And presently you will feel life stir in you again and once more be ready for the spring.

SIAL, SIMA, NIFE

By Garrett P. Serviss

SIAL, Sima and Nife. These are not names of Egyptian, Chinese or Polynesian gods, but relatively recent additions to the vocabulary of geologists, and they describe the now prevailing hypothesis about the general internal condition of the earth. They are surely not self-descriptive, and we must start by telling briefly what they mean.

Sial is the name given to the outside shell of the earth's crust, supposed to be composed everywhere of the lighter sort of rocks, listed as "acid" rocks.

Sima is the corresponding name for the next lower shell, assumed to consist of denser, "basic" rocks.

Nife is the name applied to the still more compact central core of the earth which some believe is mostly, if not entirely, composed of iron.

These names were constructed by the German geographer and geologist, Suess.

Now, the middle shell, the sima, is assumed to be in a peculiar state, such that, though it is "not liquid in the ordinary sense," yet the sial (the upper shell on which we live) floats in it like cork in water because of the difference of density. When you meet the word "isostacy" you may know that it refers to this hypothetical "floating" of the upper parts, or outer parts, of the earth in a denser crust beneath, which is at the same time practically solid and potentially liquid. Don't bother. Trust mathematical physics to lay these extraordinary apparitions of the conceptual world.

Now, a German geologist, Wegener, with a powerful imagination, has, so to speak, made mincemeat of the sial (look back at the definition of this word). Suess and other geologists in general had assumed that the sial encloses the whole earth in a complete shell, being some sixty miles thick and underlying the oceans as well as the lands. But Wegener insists that the sial covers only about one-third of the globe, and that it has split up and drifted apart over the denser sima, which really does form a complete shell beneath, and is disclosed at the ocean bottom.

Look, says Wegener, at the strange outlines of the Americas on the east, fitting almost perfectly those of Europe-Africa on the west. Once they formed one mass of the sial, but the American portion has broken off and floated away westward on the sima, and the Atlantic Ocean, resting on the sima, now fills the gap.

Of course this imagined voyaging of the continents over the surface of the globe is not supposed to have begun yesterday. It is a matter involving millions of years. But the hypothesis assumes that it is still going on. Earthquakes may be indications oft; volcanic eruptions may result from the pulls and squeezes that it brings about.

The sial, sima, and nife have been accepted as geological terms to describe the probable tri-partite division of the earth's crust into concentric shells; but Wegener's extraordinary hypothesis is still knocking at the door, with perhaps not too brilliant prospects of admission. A new test of it has just been suggested. A Dutch geologist, Vening-Meinesz, has been applying a new system of pendulum observations to the determination of local variations of gravity—a system by which the observations are made in a submarine—and he has found an excess of gravity along the western coast of Central America.

Bible Passages

Parable of the Shepherd

(John 10; 1-16.)

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

This parable spake Jesus unto them; but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine.

As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice: and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A Year Ago

"A YEAR AGO," men say; we find
The race has ever looked behind
And counted milestones on the way
Which led them surely to "today."

Yet many times we say: "Who cares
For vanished raptures and despairs?
Why should we weakly cherish so
Our records of a year ago?"

Though dim with grief or bright with bliss,
For all past days a deep abyss
Yawns darkly, and the year just gone
Is lost with those of time's first dawn.

But still with an unceasing urge
We look beyond that chasm's verge,
For only thus we learn we grow,
By looking to a year ago!

Uncle Samuel Midas

By Herbert Kaufman

THE past wasn't even rich in imagination.

The farthest flight of legend's fancy only reached to Ophir, Golconda, Eldorado and the Seven Cities of Cibola, whose combined reputed resources weren't equal to a week's turnover on the New York Stock Exchange.

A hundred years ago royalty couldn't have matched pooled incomes with Rockefeller, Ford and the du Ponts.

But, for that matter, in 1829, both American continents wouldn't have brought ten billion dollars on the auction block.

Total State and Federal revenues were then less than forty millions. Which far exceeded the price paid for the Louisiana Territory—an acquisition that stirred impeachment talk and convinced many citizens that the United States had been shamefully outspaded by slicker diplomats.

But that protest was a tempest in a teapot compared to the gale of wrath that swept the land when Seward "squandered" seven millions, or thereabouts, on the "worthless" Alaskan peninsula.

Now, after a single century, Uncle Sam has a billion dollars of spare change in each of four national banks, and twenty-seven billions in the rainy day deposits of various savings institutions.

Our assets exceed the assessed worth of the whole British Empire, with France, Germany, Italy and Russia thrown in for good measure. And every penny of it created by descendants of peasants, small tradesmen and refugees whom Necessity introduced to Opportunity—a lady of many aliases, including "natural resources," "inventiveness" and "perseverance."

She's still making dates at the old stand—with ambition, with shrewdness and with confidence.

The chances to make good in this amazingly fecund republic increase with the growth of industries, the hunger for luxury and the need for time-shaving, man-saving ideas.

We've the capital to finance a thousand-fold the enterprise that produced it.

Money must work or wither.

The outstanding task of the twentieth century is to keep its funds profitably employed. So, anybody with a practical job for our surplus cash, is a made man.

Think in big, fundamental, interest-bearing terms, and Uncle Samuel Midas will underwrite an acre of skyscrapers, a square mile of factories, a chain of department stores or a submarine freight line.

That's why he's building all these billion dollar banks.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The Sir Galahad footpad is not altogether a creation of the tabloids. In a dozen holdups lately there are authentic reports of a courtliness that under other circumstances would be amusing. So many spot their victims in night clubs, they wear dinner coats and often silk hats to the stickup.

A supreme effort is made to calm the ladies. A sudden hysterical scream has frustrated many well-planned robberies. The old custom of flourishing a cannon-like pistol menacingly has vanished. In a recent holdup of four ladies in evening dress, the head man in a modulated voice said:

"Nobody is going to be hurt. You are as safe as in your homes providing you obey orders. If any of you ladies have an urge to scream try to control yourself." And grimly added: "Dead ladies, you know, never tell tales." There was not a peep.

In another holdup near a fashionable Westchester club, the ladies who were commanded to step from their limousine were assisted to the roadway by a polite cavalier. After stripping them of valuables, he helped them back in the car, tucked the robes about them, and with a bow waved them on.

Perhaps the most brazen of the gentlemanly holdups was reported from a night club this winter. During the progress of a dance on a tightly packed floor, a well-dressed gentleman dropped into an unoccupied chair at a table where sat two ladies and a gentleman.

"If I were not desperate," he warned coldly, "I would not take such a chance." A hand in his coat pocket gripped a revolver, and they passed over their possessions. His nerve so stunned them he was gone 10 minutes before they recovered enough to report the theft.

In other days the hold-up man was a fellow of physical strength. Today he is likely to be as neat and slim as a gigolo and his extreme youthfulness is often remarked. He does not move about in the underworld as much as in the upper, for there he may study his victims, plan his forays, and scare them silly.

The home of Al Smith at 25 Oliver' street is now an undertaker's parlor. About the only thing left to remind neighbors of the former illustrious tenancy is an old-fashioned pull door bell. And Mr. Smith, it seems to be lately, is a tragic figure of disappointment. He doesn't seem "the same old Al."

* * *

The self-appointed guardians for parked automobiles on the fringe of the theatrical district are another addition to metropolitan pests. They give themselves an air of authority by wearing important looking badges. The calling has proven so remunerative any number of men have given up regular jobs to engage in the new racket. A fellow on Forty-ninth street reports he was making $21 a week running an elevator in an office building, but in his new car watching job has averaged $40 a week, is his own boss, and keeps out in the open air.

* * *

An editorial makes much of a voting experiment in a crowded night club recently to decide a dance contest. Each patron was asked to give his place of residence. Out of 380 names, six listed themselves as New Yorkers, which doesn't indicate a thing. A large percentage of night club attendance are philanderers who would no more think of giving correct addresses than telling their wives where they were.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

KISS your wife!

Don't leave her to the gnawing thoughts of estrangement while you forget yourself and her in the buzz and hum of the day.

If your romance has lapsed and the tender sayings of your honeymoon have vanished into oblivion, it is high time to rekindle the home fires and recall the adventures of Lover's Lane.

A smart aleck once declared that he knew all about women, all except three kinds of women; young women, old women and middle-aged women.

We get that dose in one form of capsule or another in every vaudeville and every funny column.

Well, men are certainly as ignorant of women as babes of geology if they don't know that love is the sun, moon and stars of womanhood.

Somebody has said that woman was created for the adventure of love. Suppose we let that stand for lack of ability to improve upon it.

We are willing to put on the forensic mitts for the proposition that the country whose vital statistics show the greatest percentage of divorce is the Lackland of Love.

Sit in the confessional for one brief day and tabulate the complaints of disappointed wives driven to extremity. And you will hear a tragic reiteration of the dirge:

Oh, if he would only kiss me now and then and show me a little tenderness and tell me he loves me. Then I could stand gladly the poverty and sickness and the daily grind.

Yes, this is sentiment, but not sentimentality. It is worthy the heart and brain of the superman. It is the thing that blazed out in Galilee two milleniums ago and flooded the world with glory.

Kiss your wife!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

OVER-EXUBERANT persons pay a certain penalty for being so full of joy and enthusiasm.

Just so long as there are persons who are unhappy and others who are unable to be a part of such joys, there will be jealousy and vengeful thoughts.

If you are one of the happy ones perhaps you have not realized as yet that your very carefree manner excites envy.

What is the secret of your unbounded good feeling?

Very often it is some little thing which few would want as much as you.

But that fact may be not understood by those who witness your pleasure.

Possibly you come into possession of a prize long sought, but never captured by the envious one—and create more bad feeling.

It is not a credit to those who cannot see others enjoying in peace the things they haven't, without wishing for it, and perhaps trying to take it away.

Nevertheless it is a human trait and must be dealt with after that fashion.

If you are fortunate in matters which fill your soul with thanksgiving all the day long, can't you keep a little of it stored up?

Don't parade your joy before those who have little of it.
